Nixon Chides Bigotry of Northerners

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, making his first campaign-style trip of the year into the Deep South, has castigated some Northerners for a "double hypocritical standard" on race relations.

Appearing Tuesday in Birmingham and Mobile, Ala., the state that calls itself the "Heart of Dixie," Nixon pictured himself as sympathetic toward the South while having "utter contempt" for racial attitudes of some in the North.

Police estimated at least 160,000 persons turned out to greet Nixon in Alabama's two largest cities. The welcome was as warm as the the weather. Hostile chants were insignificantly few. Antiwar placards were far outnumbered by printed ones reading "Win in Vietnam."

Political Triumph

Clearly, Nixon and his aides savored what they regarded as a political triumph on the home turf of Gov. George C. Wallace, the President's third-party opponent in 1968 and a potential 1972 foe.

Wallace was on hand in both cities with Nixon—terming the chief executive's presence "a signal honor"—but did not ride with the President in any of the day's motorcades. The White House apparently wanted it that way.

Said one key Nixon staffer: "It was a damned good day. It restores your faith in humanity to get out of Washington."

Said another: "It looks like we're in fairly good shape in the South."

Southern Support

Nixon counted heavily on Southern support in 1968 and presumably will do so next year, although he has denied pursuing a "Southern strategy."

Alabama, which sees presidents only infrequently—58 years ago in the case of Mobile and 50 years ago in Birmingham—turned out impressively biracial crowds. Blacks seemed as enthusiastic as whites in their response.

Nixon's most pointed language came at a private briefing session in Birmingham for publishers, editors and broadcasters from the 12 states of the Old Confederacy. He said:

"I know the difficult problems most of you in the Southern states have had on the school desegregation problem. I went to school in the South and so therefore I am more familiar with how Southerners feel about that problem than others...

Double Standard

"I have nothing but utter contempt for the double hypocritical standards of Northerners who look at the South and point the finger and say, 'Why don't those Southerners do something about their race problem.'"

Nixon said the South in two years has undergone "a peaceful, relatively quiet, very significant revolution" in its schools. He went on:

"Today 38 per cent of all black children in the South go to majority white schools. Today only 28 per cent of all black children in the North go to majority white schools. There has been no progress in the North in the past three years. There has been significant progress in the South."

Perpetual Difference

Nixon told his listeners that racial problems "can be and must be solved." However, he said, "we must recognize that we will always have these differences" among people of different races, religions, backgrounds and age.

While traveling through crowd-lined streets, Nixon repeatedly halted his limousine to get out and shake hands. He lost a cufflink in the process.

Daughter Julie and son-in-law David Eisenhower joined in mingling with welcomers.

Mr. and Mrs. Eisenhower even held a news conference in Birmingham. David said his father-in-law has yet to make a firm decision on whether to seek a second term in 1972. But he predicted Nixon will do so and will win.

President Nixon stretches the width of his car to shake hands with members of the crowd who turned out to greet him Tuesady in Mobile, Ala. The President was in Alabama to dedicate the start of construction for the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway.

Seale Conspiracy Case Dismissed

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — The judge who dismissed murder-conspiracy charges against Black Panthers Bobby G. Seale and Ericka Huggins said finding an unbiased jury to retry them would be impossible without superhuman effort which neither side should have to endure.

Superior Court Judge Harold M. Mulvey dismissed the charges Tuesday, one day after declaring a mistrial because the jury could not reach a verdict in the case against Seale, Panther national chairman, and Mrs. Huggins, a local party leader.

Mrs. Huggins, 23, who had been in custody ofr two years, was freed after the ruling.

"Oh, look at that beautiful sky," she said softly as she walked out of the courthouse where she had been arriving daily for the trial. She was greeted with cheers as was the judge's decision.

Seale, 34, is held on other charges and is seeking bail. He has been imprisoned for two years including 14 months here.

Charles R. Garry, Seale's chief attorney, praised Mulvey's decision.

Respect Judge

"There were many times during the course of the trial when I disagreed vehemently with his rulings,' Garry declared, "but ... I find Judge Mulvey to be on a much higher level than most of the judges in the U.S., and I have respect for him and I say that without reservations."

Garry had submitted a written motion for dismissal. Attached was an affidavit saying that he believed—"based upon information and belief"—the jury which had reported it was deadlocked Monday actually reached a unanimous verdict of acquittal in Seale's case after only 1¾ hours of deliberations May 19.

But, said Garry, the jury did not know it could report a separate verdict for Seale before reaching a decision in Mrs. Huggins' case, and when discussions began to center on her, one or two jurors who wanted to convict her withdrew their acquittal votes in Seale's case.

Recent Trial

"With the massive publicity attendant upon the trial just completed," Judge Mulvey said in dismissing the case, "I find it impossible to believe that an unbiased jury could be selected without superhuman efforts, efforts which this court, the state and these defendants should not be called upon either to make or to endure."

Seale and Mrs. Huggins each faced two capital charges—kidnaping resulting in death and aiding and abetting murder—plus conspiracy to kidnap and to murder. Mrs. Huggins also was charged with binding with criminal intent.

The charges stemmed from the fatal shooting of Alex Rackley, a 24-year-old Panther from New York whose body was found in a shallow riverbed on May 21, 1969.

The prosecution maintained Rackley was slain on orders from Seale and other Panther

Hacked Up Bodies of 9 Found

YUBA CITY, Calif. (AP) — The bodies of nine transient fruit workers, hacked with a machete or some kind of heavy knife, have been unearthed from the peach and plum orchards of this farming community, the county sheriff announced today.

Sheriff Roy Whiteakre said Juan V. Corona, 37, a farm labor contractor, was arrested shortly before dawn without resistance at a Richland Road home.

"He will be booked for nine counts of murder," the sheriff said of Corona. Whiteakre did not announce an alleged motive for the slayings.

Under Guard

Undersheriff Frank Cartoscelli said all the victims were transient fruit workers, ranging in age from 40 to 60 and that the times of the killings ranged from five or six weeks ago to sometime this week.

Corona was led into the county jail with his head covered by a sweater and coat, his hands manacled behind his back. He was under heavy guard, after his arrest at 768 Richland Road, in south Yuba City.

Two dozen deputies had raided the same house earlier only to find it unoccupied.

The bodies were found—eight Tuesday and one last Friday—in two local fruit orchards.

All were in shallow graves.

"Most of the back of their heads were hacked up, and all were stabbed in the chest area. All were buried the same way," Whiteakre said.

Uncovered Toe

The first of the discoveries was made last Friday on the farm of Goro Kagehiro, who said he had noticed a hole about two-feet-deep and six-feet-long but thought nothing of it. Then he returned to find the hole filled up and thought someone had buried stolen property.

He called the sheriff's office. In subsequent digging they "uncovered a toe."

The body was identified as that of Kenneth Whitecare, 40, last address Alameda, Calif., across the bay from San Francisco.

At about 1 p.m. Tuesday, on the Jack Sullivan Ranch about a half-mile from the first discovery, a hired hand was working a tractor in a field when he spotted a mound.

Recalling the earlier discovery, he thought it might be a grave. He told foreman Ray Duron, who called the sheriff's office.

The second body was discovered.

Similar Graves

Deputies said in each case the graves on the Sullivan land were about 3½-feet to 5-feet-deep and six-feet-long.

Late Tuesday night deputies dug for bodies beneath auxiliary powered lights in a drizzle briefly turned into a rainstorm. The area was cordoned off to preserve any evidence that might be found.

Yuba City is a farming community of 14,000, about 130 miles northeast of San Francisco.

In a news conference after the arrest, the sheriff said Corona has been in this country for some time but speaks little English. Whiteakre said he had to use an interpreter to communicate with the Mexican-American prisoner.

The sheriff had a terse "no comment" when asked about a double-bladed axe, pruning knife and shovel brought into the jail before Corona was led in.

Whiteakre tentatively identified a second victim of the mass killings. He was Pete Peterson, 63, of nearby Marysville.

$60 Million for Culture Is Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today called on Congress for full funding of the $60 million budget authorization for arts and humanities endowments as an investment in the nation's cultural resources.

"Few investments in the quality of life in America pay off so handsomely as the money spent to stimulate the arts," the President declared in a speech before a conference on "Washington and the Arts."

Listening were some 500 delegates to the conference, representing state and local arts councils throughout the United States and Canada.

Nixon told them he was also sending a memo to the heads of federal departments and agencies asking them to find new ways to "more vigorously assist the arts and artists" and to see how they can be helpful in pursuing agency programs.

The President said he believes "we all can find that the arts have a great deal more to contribute to what we in government are seeking to accomplish —and that this will be good for the arts and good for the country."

Nixon said America could be the richest, most powerful, freest nation in the world "but only if the arts are alive and flourishing can we experience the true meaning of our freedom, and know the full glory of the human spirit."

House Approves Action Corps

Volunteer Programs Consolidation Wins Decisive Victory

WASHINGTON (AP) — It cost money in the bargaining, but the Nixon administration has won a decisive congressional victory for consolidating federal volunteer programs.

After the three hour debate over Nixon's proposal to merge the Peace Corps, VISTA and several other volunteer agencies into a new Action Corps, the House Tuesday voted 224-131 in favor of the administration plan.

Before the House vote, the administration gave assurances more money would be spent and changes made in the administration of the Action Corps and that the congressional committees now with jurisdiction over volunteer agencies would retain that control.

Effective Program

Liberal House members, led by Rep. Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J., expressed concern during debate that the Nixon plan would "diminish, if not completely eliminate, the effectiveness of the constituent programs.

"Thrown together like so many apples and oranges into one basket, these programs would soon lose their identity and their force," said Thompson.

The primary cause of concern was that the administration was using the merger as a means to eliminate Volunteers in Service to America, the domestic anti-poverty volunteer arm of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Rep. Chet Holifield, chairman of the Government Operations Committee, said the administration, to the contrary, planned to strengthen VISTA by seeking an increase of $12 million in its budget for 1972 to give it $45 million. He said another $8 million would be sought for other domestic VISTA-like programs.

New Ways

When Nixon sent his proposal to Congress on March 24, he said he would combine all the current budgets of the programs involved in the merger and add $20 million to be "directed primarily to finding new ways to use volunteer services."

Critics charged the total budget request for the programs next year came to $120.9 million, some $16 million less than was spent on the programs this year. The additional $20 million, they said, would bring up the total only $4 million.

Rep. Ogden Reid, R-N.Y., said he had been authorized to say the White House will move this weekend to boost the budget request for Peace Corps from its current $72 million to $82 million or $89 million.

"The President has made a personal commitment toward VISTA," said Reid. "He has said he will seek more funds for volunteer programs. Having said this, I believe the President is clearly committed to volunteer programs. I believe the President means what he says."

Holifield also said the administration had changed its organizational chart for Action to give the domestic operation more voice in its operation.

Australia Ransoms Jet

Claim That Bomb Was Aboard Found To Have Been False

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — An Australian airline turned over $560,000 today to a gang that claimed to have put a barometric bomb on a Boeing 707 jetliner with 116 passengers aboard.

Qantas, Australia's international airline, made the payoff in the center of the city, then was told there was no bomb on the aircraft by an anonymous caller. The plane landed safely at Sydney airport with only five minutes of fuel left in its tanks.

An immediate search of the plane by airport officials confirmed no bomb was aboard the aircraft.

The extortion plot is similar to a movie recently shown on television here called "Doomsday Flight" and police believe it may have given the gang the idea for the in-flight blackmail.

In a similar case last August in Anchorage, Alaska, Western Airlines paid $25,000 for information about a pressure-sensitive bomb which a caller said was aboard one of its jetliners then between Anchorage and Seattle, Wash. with 126 persons aboard.

No Bomb Aboard

No bomb was aboard and a man was later arrested and sentenced to five years in prison for extortion.

"Doomsday Flight" also was shown on Anchorage television shortly before the bomb threat there.

The movie's plot involves a bomb set to explode at 5,000 feet which is slipped aboard a plane. The plane lands at an airport at 5,200 feet elevation to avoid destuction.

The Australian plane landed in Sydney today after circling for 6½ hours while all defense forces and police personnel went on a red alert to deal with the emergency.

Couple's Adopted Daughter Is 'Rope in Legal Tug of War'

NEW YORK (AP) — Baby Lenore was 1 year old on May 18 and for the last eight months of her brief life she has been the rope in a tug-of-war between the woman who bore her and the couple who took her for their own

Today Lenore plays in a new home in another state, where her adoptive parents took her after the courts said again and again they must give her up

Lenore is too young to be aware that her real mother, Olga Scarpetta, weeps over the "horrible mistake" she made in giving Lenore up for adoption, or that a judge has threatened contempt of court charges against the only parents she has known, Nick and Jean DeMartino of Brooklyn.

So emotion-charged has the case of Baby Lenore become so relevant to the fears of all new adoptive parents that Manhattan Supreme Court Justice Charles Loreto was trying to arrange a "gradual" return of the baby to her natural mother when word came Monday that the DeMartinos had left the state with Lenore

On Tuesday while a tearful shaken Miss Scarpetta was appealing to "anyone who can help" to find the baby and bring her back Nick DeMartino told reporters by telephone that he was job-hunting in another state

If I have to drive a cab or dig ditches to keep my daughter that's all right with me" added lawyer-insurance man DeMartino

"When" Is Question

Still a question in the case of Baby Lenore is When did her real mother decide she wanted her back?

Miss Scarpetta said Tuesday that she asked the Spence-Chapin Adoption Agency for the return of the baby two or three weeks after she gave her up at the age of four days

But an official of the agency said that although Miss Scarpetta returned to the agency for several interviews last summer she did not demand the baby back

On Sept 21, a lawyer hired by Miss Scarpetta filed a writ of habeas corpus seeking the return of Lenore by the adoption agency The DeMartinos were not told immediately because under agency practice, officials did not want them to endure the "unbearable" waiting until the case came to court

And the agency felt sure says the official, that the court would not overturn Miss Scarpetta's surrender of her baby

Five in 60 Years

"Five surrenders were questioned over the past 60 years of the agency's history," said the spokesman, "and this is 'he first or second that hasn't been upheld by the court"

The DeMartinos, through their attorney, complain that their right to due process was denied when they were not allowed to appear as parties in the case

But the agency explains that, again according to agency practice, parents are discouraged from taking part in court proceedings because of the complications that could arise from "their being recognized by the natural mother"

The DeMartinos learned of the legal action only a short time before the Nov 6 hearing date When Justice Loreto ruled in favor of Miss Scarpetta and ordered the agency to secure the return of the child to her, the DeMartinos appealed.

But they lost appeals in January to the Appellate Division of Supreme Court and in February to the State Court of Appeals in Albany, and an attempt in March to get a U S Supreme Court hearing

During the court action, friends of the DeMartinos organized a Committee to Help Save Baby Lenore, and gathered 10,000 signatures on petitions supporting their right to the baby. The Brooklyn couple went to Albany to present the petitions to legislative leaders

A stay of Justice Loreto's return order was not extended, and the DeMartinos were faced with the possibility of having to turn the baby over to Miss Scarpetta while they continued the legal fight.

Their attorneys point out that Miss Scarpetta is from Colombia, South America, where her parents reside

Miss Scarpetta denied Tuesday that she had any intention of taking Lenore out of the country

Largely because of the DeMartino case, a law awaiting Gov Nelson Rockefeller's signature would give the natural mother 30 days after surrender of her baby to demand its return, instead of the present six months

The DeMartinos have expressed the hope their fight will help other adoptive parents similarly threatened

"But I do not intend to have my daughter be the sacrificial lamb," says DeMartino

"It was a horrible mistake," says Miss Scarpetta "It was the worst day of my life Oh, if I could only wipe it out!"

Blacks Patrol in Calmed Chattanooga

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn (AP) — Police and National Guard troops pulled out of predominantly Negro neighborhoods torn by disturbances since Friday and turned them over to civilian black patrols Tuesday.

"It looks like we had less calls and the calls didn't seem to amount to anything," state Safety Commissioner Claude Armour said in reporting the situation was calming.

Armour announced earlier Tuesday that the unarmed black civilians would patrol the Negro areas, calling for police or Guardsmen only when assistance was needed.

Police said early today little sniper fire and two firebombings were reported Tuesday night. Twenty-six persons were arrested, most of them for violating a 7 p.m. curfew, police reported

The trouble erupted Friday night when performer Wilson Pickett refused to appear at a scheduled concert saying he was not paid in advance. The disorders spread with hit-and-run attacks by small groups Saturday and Sunday nights. Some blacks said they were angered by what they considered excessive arrests and verbal abuse. The Guard was called in Sunday night A black man was fatally shot Monday night.

Armour would not say how many times police and Guardsmen assisted the black civilians Tuesday, but added that regul patrols did not enter a housing project area where Leon Anderson was fatally shot after allegedly hurling a brick at a police car.

Mayor Robert K. Walker said police told him that Anderson, who would have been 23 on Thursday, was shot after he hurled a "missile." But two residents who said they were at the scene of the shooting—Wylie Williams and Will Hard—claim he didn't throw anything.

Walker also said police first told Anderson to halt, then fired warning shots before shooting again when he reached into his pocket.

A check later showed he carried no weapon and Williams and Hard both contend no warning shots were fired. They also said Anderson appeared to be drunk when he walked past their homes just before the shooting.

Walker also said he regarded the black patrols as a "very positive" measure and added. "We didn't have the injury or damage we experienced last evening"

Armour said the black patrols were prompted partly by black community leaders who requested a cooling-off period.

"Let's give them (blacks) the opportunity to do what they want to do," he added.

Fire and Police Commissioner Gene Roberts also said: "The feeling of the communisty is improving."

About 357 persons were arrested during the five nights, most of them for curfew violations.

Armour would not estimate damage.

"I don't even know what day it is," he said.

Asked about complaints by the blacks of alleged police mistreatment, Roberts said: "There is always a need to re-evaluate attitudes."

Walker, asked how he might seek to prevent future disorders, said he would "seek to expand programs of communication."

Police Arming Themselves With Knowledge of Ghetto

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police have been arming themselves with ghetto knowledge rather than automatic weapons since the 1967 race riots, says the chairman of the President's Commission on Civil Disorders, but the underlying causes remain

Federal Judge Otto Kerner, former Illinois governor, testified Tuesday before a Senate Judiciary subcommittee scheduled to hear today from former Atty Gen Nicholas Katzenbach, chairman of the Commission on Crime, and Dr Milton Eisenhower, chairman of the Commission on Violence The subcommittee is probing for ways to implement reports of such presidential commissions

Kerner said he has noted marked improvement in police-community relations in some cities, with an emphasis on patrolmen getting to know ghetto residents and their problems, since his panel's study was published three years ago

"Many cities got rid of their armored cars and automatic weapons after 1968," Kerner said. "There is less of the psychology of coming out with a steel vest"

Kerner said key factors of high unemployment among young blacks and racist attitudes among many whites could trigger new disturbances this summer

His commission found a 26-per-cent unemployment rate among young blacks in 1967. The Labor Department said the rate last month was 28.4 per cent among blacks between the ages of 16 and 20

Kerner said the 1967 disorders "were really a rebellion against white symbolism in the neighborhoods"

Racial attitudes have not changed much since then, he said

"Basically there are still a great number of people who refuse to accept the facts of this report," he said "There are still those prejudices"

Kerner said, however, he found encouragement in new attempts to make police officers less "the symbol of the white establishment in the ghetto" and the lack of racial prejudice among most college students who in turn may influence their parents' attitudes

The subcommittee headed by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., is searching for ways to put presidential commission findings into action. One proposal would force various federal agencies to resond—if only negatively—to each commission's report.

leaders for being a suspected police informer. Seale did not take the stand in the six-month-long trial in which four months was spent selecting the jury But defense witnesses described the state's chief witness against him, George Sams Jr., was a chronic liar who hated Seale because of an incident in which the Panther leader expelled Sams from the party

Sams admitted giving orders for Rackley's death at the scene of the killing, and another prosecution witness, Warren Kimbro, admitted firing the first shot into Rackley. The second shot was fired by Lonnie McLucas, who was convicted last summer of conspiring to murder Rackley

According to Garry's affidavit, the jury's final vote was 11 to 1 for acquitting Seale on all charges except conspiracy to murder and 10 to 2 for acquittal on that charge In Mrs Huggins' case, the affidavit said, the final votes were 11 to 1 for acquittal on all charges except kidnaping resulting in death on which 10 jurors favored acquittal, one wanted conviction on that charge and another favored conviction of simple kidnaping

Chicago Riot

Seale was being held today for contempt for interruption at the Chicago riot trial The government earlier opposed a motion for bail, citing the charges here. An assistant U S attorney said the government had until noon Thursday to file a brief opposing Seale's release on bail.

David Rosen, Seale's local attorney also said the Panther leader is charged with violating probation in California on a 1967 weapons charge.

Seale's probation expired two days ago, and California authorities have not announced whether they plan to credit him for time served in Connecticut or require him to be returned to the West Coast

At the Black Panther national headquarters, cofounder Huey P Newton attributed the judge's ruling to "the might and power of the people."

Catherine Roraback, Mrs Huggins' attorney, said the dismissal was "a moment I will always cherish." But she said "the people are the winners because they have Ericka Huggins back with them."

Gen. Creighton Warns

Troops Must Remain Alert

SAIGON (AP) — Gen Creighton W Abrams said today a "herculean effort" is needed to keep U S. troops as alert as they need to be during the American disengagement from the Vietnam war.

"An atmosphere and climate begin to prevail and with it comes a certain amount of laxity," the commander of U S forces in Vietnam told newsmen "It just requires a lot of attention, a herculean effort to keep alertness up"

Abrams said the same situation prevailed near the end of World War II and the Korean war

He declined to discuss the rocket attack last Friday that killed or wounded about 60 American troops crowded into one bunker at Firebase Charlie 2 below the demilitarized zone.

"I wasn't there," said the general "I shouldn't try to kibitz what went on."

He also refused to confirm or deny reports that he reacted with great anger at a staff meeting last Saturday because so many men had taken refuge in one bunker. One officer who attended the meeting said Abrams "hit them with all eight stars," a reference to his four-star rank, four stars on each side of his collar.

"That's speculative," the general said today.

48 Killed

On the battlefront, South Vietnamese forces claimed 48 North Vietnamese killed in a clash seven miles southwest of Charlie 2 and said they also captured 98 122mm rockets, with which the enemy pounded bases along the DMZ last week Seven South Vietnamese were reported wounded.

Meanwhile, the South Vietnamese government announced that it would join in a 24-hour cease-fire around the seaward end of the DMZ on June 4, the condition set by North Vietnam for acceptance of 570 sick or wounded prisoners of war the South Vietnamese offered on April 29 to release.

U S District Court Judge R Dixon Herman entered pleas for the defendants after they refused to do so Instead they tried to read personal statements in court denouncing the indictment and the Vietnam war

Herman refused to permit reading of the statements, ruling them as "out of place," but accepted them for the record.

In a joint statement following the arraignment the defendants reaffirmed their previous declaration: "We are neither bombers, nor kidnapers nor conspirators."

Berrigan, a Roman Catholic priest and the alleged mastermind of the plot, was brought here from Danbury, Conn., where he is serving a six-year sentence for destroying draft board records

Let's Hurry This Study

A study of water rescue service (or lack of it) in Appleton has been endorsed by the City Council's public safety committee which assigned the task to Police Chief Earl O. Wolff, Fire Chief Roland Kuehnl and Traffic Engineer Walter Johnson. A study might be needed to determine how to best assure an upgrading in rescue facilities, but there is a problem inherent in most studies. They take too long. The rescue study must be done and action must be taken as soon as possible. The alternatives are too risky.

The total inadequacy of the present rescue service was obvious when a young woman recently leaped into the Fox River from the E. College Avenue bridge. As she floated down river, police struggled to overcome a series of problems that, had the entire situation not been so serious, could have been laughable. First their boat nearly capsized when they had to drop it several feet from a retaining wall. Then they lost an oar. A young witness, who fortunately had considerable training in boat use and water safety, was finally able to get the rescue boat motor started. The young woman finally was pulled from the water, although, with unintentional help from her rescuers, she was given every opportunity to complete her mission.

One of the policemen at the scene suffered an ankle injury that laid him up. Some of the policemen who took part in the rescue admitted they were ashamed of the way in which it was handled. But they were not really to blame. They had to work with a 16-foot boat and a 7½ horsepower motor that are both more than 20 years old. Outboard motors, especially those 20 years old, need constant preventive maintenance to assure proper operation. Police officials admit their motor gets little, if any. Hard starting, they say, is a perpetual problem.

And even when it does run, the motor is too small to be safely used for work near dams and in swift currents in other parts of the five miles of the Fox River through Appleton. About the only time the engine is operated is when it is used for river rescue or body dragging work — which is seldom more than a few times a year.

But what's probably even more inexcusable is that there is virtually no training in proper use of the boat and its equipment. One police official admitted that he just hoped each time the boat has to be used, policemen were available who had boats and motors of their own and knew their proper operation. One of the policemen, in the boat when the woman was saved, couldn't even swim.

The almost ill-fated rescue also pointed up the need for emergency boat landings at strategic places along the river. Police Chief Wolff maintains that his department's boat never was intended for rescue work, but rather is for use in dragging for drowning victims. That might well be, but like it or not, Wolff's department has the only emergency rescue craft, available at a moment's notice, in the entire city.

Wolff would have a most difficult time qualifying his contention if some day a youngster who could have been saved drowns because the Appleton Police Department could not get its motor started, or the current was too swift for its little motor, or an oar was lost or a policeman who doesn't know how to swim tumbles into the water or there is no place nearby to launch the boat or the policemen do not know how to use their rescue equipment with speed and efficiency.

Wolff says the service should be operated out of the fire department where there are men readily available to use and service it. Kuehnl says he will take the service, but he wants new equipment. Whatever is done to provide Appleton with the first rate water rescue service it should and must have must be done with all possible expediency. Accidents do not wait for studies.

An Emergency in Oregon

"Art for art's sake" might well have been the reasoning behind an emergency clause in a recent bill passed by the Oregon legislature.

The solons approved a measure allowing singing and piano playing in taverns. The emergency clause states that the measure is "necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety." As such, it declares that an emergency exists and the act takes effect immediately upon passage instead of waiting the usual 90 days after the legislature adjourns to become law.

We'll raise our glasses to drink (and sing) to that.

Canada Asserts Its Independence

Prime Minister Pierre Elliot Trudeau of Canada brought back from Moscow a "friendship" treaty which provides for ministerial level meetings between the two nations on an annual basis, much the same as Canada now has with the United States and Japan. In part the trip by Mr. Trudeau and the treaty are evidence of firm Canadian determination not always to be controlled from Washington. But United States officials should recognize that Canadian leadership in the area of better relations with other countries can also help us.

Actually this has already happened. Canada has seemed to be somewhat intransigent in refusing to join the organization of American States and that group's attempt to boycott Communist Cuba. Instead, Canada trades with Cuba and maintains diplomatic relations. But its very action may have demonstrated to American authorities, sometimes anti-communist, sometimes merely miffed because of Cuban snobbishness, that American authority in this hemisphere is not complete.

In a similar vein Canada long ago recognized that the Peking regime in China was dominant and last year reestablished diplomatic relations to tie in with its earlier agreement to sell China wheat and other needed products. Canada has provided something of a way out for the United States after our government so staunchly insisted that the Communists were untrustworthy and that we must remain aloof.

The latest Canadian - Soviet agreement was made in the light of concern in Canada that it is depending too much upon the United States, especially in the economic area. There is resentment in Canada about the feeling that it is considered a poor cousin by the United States. And yet it is difficult to tell whether the resentment comes from too little recognition in the United States or too much familiarity. We can easily pour billions into underdeveloped countries on other continents because we know Canada is not about to be taken over by extremist groups, whatever effect the Quebec Libre movement may have had. Like the prodigal son's brother, Canada is taken for granted and its basic loyalty is unquestioned. But no one really likes to be put in this position, even when it demonstrates complete faith. No American really considers it possible that Canada could be on the opposite side of the United States, not only in a war, but in any serious dispute. But it is likely that we have neglected to mention that confidence now and then. In our efforts to encourage nations far from our borders to agree with our international stands, we have let a lot of Canadians come to believe that we don't much care what they do or think.

Canada has been establishing its independence from United States control in recent years. But in the long run, both nations have only gains to make from continued good relations and more cooperation.

Republicans Are Out To Prove Fallacy in 'Austerity' Budget

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The effort by the Republican State Senate to illustrate the extent to which state agency and institution appropriations can be expanded under existing state revenue laws is a political gesture on its face. But it may be illuminating and useful.

The agencies have been asked by the Republican majority bloc in the Senate to assume that they will get the same shares of gross revenues during the new fiscal biennium and to adjust their budgets on the basis of the 13 to 16 per cent expansion in income from the state's present revenue structure.

The patent purpose is to show that Gov. Lucey's budget recommendations, with a plan for hefty individual and corporate and other tax increases, is not truly the "austerity" program that he has labeled it.

But it is also constructive and informative to the degree that the average citizen will be reminded when these calculations are presented that the state won't be on a starvation diet for the next two years if the Democratic administration's ambitious tax boost proposition is denied.

Yields Going Up

In the publicity concentration upon the Lucey "austerity" talk there has been a tendency to overlook the fact that the people of Wisconsin are paying more taxes every year without regard to rate adjustments.

Some of the more cautious students of state finance say that revenue growth — without tax rate changes — will be about 13 per cent for the new budget term.

The other day the governor remarked that the rate of tax dollar yield increase without a rate change would probably be 16 per cent.

The basic reason is the state's heavy reliance upon the income tax, individual and corporate. As an economist emphasized at the Green Lake Industrial Development Conference the other day, Wisconsin is conspicuous among the states for its dependence upon such taxes, receiving from them a ratio of revenue to the whole that is twice the average for the states of the country.

Because the income tax rates are so steeply graduated, the state is assured of increased flows of tax dollars even in a time of slowdown of economic expansion. As inflation continues as during the last few years, businesses as well as individuals are pushed into steadily higher tax brackets.

Pay More Taxes

They may not be better off, but they are counted as financially able to pay higher taxes and are required to pay them as they move into new earnings brackets.

Many of those persons might conclude that an expansion of state spending of up to 16 per cent during a two-year period is substantial. No doubt thousands of the residents of Wisconsin would be happy if they could rely upon such a gain in their own financial capacity during a two year period.

But the actual proposals for state service spending in the new Lucey budget will be boosted about 24 per cent over the current levels. The Senate Republicans obviously feel that "austerity" is not an appropriate word with which to describe such a rate of increase.

Cutback Won't Succeed

They appear to imply that a rate of spending expansion of 15 per cent would be adequate. But few of them truly believe they can force the Democrats to accept such a spending base. In the showdowns, powerful pressures of the spending interests prevail as a dozen other "crises" on budgets in the Capitol have amply demonstrated.

But the maneuver, whatever partisan motives are undoubtedly involved, will illuminate the state's financial position and to that extent is constructive.

Parenthetically, if Lt. Gov. Olson in his gubernatorial campaign last fall had put his case as plainly as the Republican senators are putting theirs today and had resisted the cute "zero budget" slogan, he would not have generated that credibility gap he now concedes was so damaging to his cause.

Leadership Rides Again

Nixon Steals Arms Control Issue From Liberal Critics

BY JOSEPH KRAFT

WASHINGTON — It was a great week for presidential leadership. With a little show of flexibility, Mr. Nixon asserted his control over dealings between Washington and Moscow.

In the process he stole the arms control issue from his liberal critics and girded himself against a possible counterattack from the right. He thus put himself in position to come on strong as a peace candidate in 1972.

The big development, of course, was the joint Soviet-American statement on the strategic arms limitation talks. Mr. Nixon had previously insisted that there had to be an intimate connection between an agreement on defensive weapons, notably the anti-ballistics missile, and offensive weapons.

The Russians favored an agreement that gave priority to a limitation on the ABM. Leading Democrats asserted that the President should, if necessary, take an ABM agreement only. It looked as though Mr. Nixon had boxed himself.

Talks Go Forward

Behind the scenes, however, the President initiated diplomatic moves to take himself out of the box. These moves bore fruit in the announcement made simultaneously in Washington and Moscow last Thursday.

Basically all the agreement provides is that the arms control talks can go forward. What the continuing negotiations will yield by way of results is not clear.

Basically all the agreement provides is that the arms control talks can go forward. What the continuing negotiations will yield by way of results is not clear.

Kraft

But the connection between defensive and offensive missiles which the Administration had previously stressed so hard has been thinned to the vanishing point. The agreement announced last week provides, with exquisite vagueness, that the Big Two "will agree on certain measures with respect to the limitations of offensive strategic weapons." In the background briefings White House officials came off the emphasis on the big Soviet missile, the SS-9, which had previously been the justification for an insistence on tying offensive to defensive weapons in any agreement. Hints are now being put about that the new Russian holes which the Pentagon claimed were being dug for an improved version of the SS-9 have in fact turned out to be accommodations for another weapon, the SS-11, which is far less menacing as a possible first-strike threat.

In these circumstances, almost any kind of agreement reached in future talks can be said to fit the President's demand for a connection between offensive and defensive weapons. Moreover, the exceedingly vague wording of the statement about offensive missiles suggests that, while an agreement about defensive weapons would go to the Senate in treaty form, the understanding about offensive weapons would be submitted in another form — a form less vulnerable to opposition. In that way the President has already taken out insurance against an attack in the Congress from the hawks and the military in his own party.

Mansfield Also Beaten

The ease with which a President prepared to be flexible can foil opponents was further demonstrated during the week in the debate on the resolution to cut American troops in Europe which had been offered by Majority Leader Mike Mansfield. Though Sen. Mansfield is one of the most powerful men the Capitol has seen in a long time, the Administration beat his amendment decisively.

What turned the tide against Mansfield was a positive Administration response to Soviet indications of willingness to negotiate a mutual reduction in troop strengths. With such negotiations in the offing, very few responsible Senators were prepared to come out for a unilateral American reduction.

The lesson of all this is a lesson that Mr. Nixon has been trying to resist ever since he entered the White House. It is that hostility to the Presidency is not built into the system; that everybody does not hate Mr. Nixon.

On the contrary, a President prepared to show just a little diplomatic flexibility will have broad national support. Mr. Nixon got it last week, and he will continue to have it so long as he stays away from the politics and the diplomacy of confrontation.

Levake House Is Wedding Scene

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Post for May 18, 1871.

The Spring of the year seems to be an auspicious period for "matrimonial felicities."

Last week the Levake House was made the rendezvous for two couples who had just embarked on the placid waters of the sea matrimonial.

On Friday evening, about eight o'clock, the door leading to the apartment where J. E. Harriman dispenses justice was darkened by a young couple from the country. They expressed the desire, in trembling tones, to be made one.

Our good friend Joe, ever anxious to relieve the sufferings of poor humanity, proceeded at once to business. The proper ceremonies were performed. The fees were deposited into the hands of the justice by the happy bridegroom, and the couple went on their way rejoicing.

25 YEARS AGO
Wednesday, May 22, 1946.

Tom Sholts was crowned the bubble gum blowing champ at Appleton YMCA when the teen-agers took part in an all-member contest.

The first hole-in-one of the current year in the area was registered by golfer Bill Hurley of Clintonville playing at the Riverside Golf Club in that city.

Champions in the Kimberly Mill Bowling League were Harvey Hartjes, John Van Rossum, Joe Robinson, Glen Taggart, John Van Eperen and Reggie Hermsen, all from the Finishing Room Department.

10 YEARS AGO
Wednesday, May 24, 1961.

Robert Helgeson was elected president of the Winneconne High School Student Council and Tim Brickham was named vice president.

Carl McKee, Appleton, was the toastmaster for the meeting of the Fox River Valley Traffic Club.

Title winners of the Appleton Bowling Association tournament were S. T. Nersveen, Cal Lella, Leo Makowski, Earl Heinritz and Carl Heinritz.

Several people, (the last was yesterday), have spoken of a project, going on or begun, in Appleton, to raise money, with the purpose of helping us repair our heating plant.

I know nothing of this project, and more to the point, not one cent has been turned over to us. I hope no one has lost any money and that it is just a rumor.

Time to Cut Fat From Academic Body

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

We all know that sometimes what we consider to be a setback or a misfortune can be a blessing in disguise. This may turn out to be the case with the current poverty-status of the American college and university.

What we loosely refer to as "higher education" in America is going through a period of belt-tightening. Costs are rising, and income is dwindling. The colleges now have to decide what is essential to their operations, and what is not.

This situation provides a marvelous opportunity to reassess, and possibly get rid of, most of the fat that has accumulated on the academic body. This fat has little to do with education, or the learning process; indeed, it retards education, being a dead weight without muscle.

College in Europe is a serious and mature vocation. In the U.S., it has almost always been a combined baby-sitting service, recreational park, custodial institution, and sports palace. The university has tried to be so many different things to so many people that it has become nothing much to any of them.

As the contributions flowed in, more buildings were put up, and more stadia were erected, more schools and departments were added, more extra-curricular functions were taken on, in a mere mania for size.

But this growth, in most cases, just made the colleges more musclebound. Administrative and bureaucratic needs came to be placed first, and the ancient idea of a college as a "community of scholars" got lost in the shuffl of real estate, corporate processes, computerized personnel, security services, and gigantic fund-raising campaigns.

Now, feeling their first financial pinch in 30 years, the colleges can do one of two things: trim off a little fat here and there, but keep the same basic contour; or go on a salubrious crash-diet that will permanently get rid of all the ugly non-academic blubber and leave more time, money and energy for the basic purpose of education.

The latter is really what the students are hollering about — they want a more meaningful, human, personalized education, in institutions that are geared for their needs as individuals. They don't want to be sent though a processing-plant like so many cattle, and stamped on the butt as "Certified Graduates" after four years, leaving no wiser (and considerably poorer) than when they entered.

Poverty permits us to make changes we are too indolent or self-satisfied to undertake when we are affluent; this is perhaps its most salutary effect. In the sacred name of "economy," the college could make a brave new start toward rediscovering education as its prime and noblest function.

Abortion Bill Debated, Delayed

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — More than 700 persons jammed the Wisconsin Assembly chambers Tuesday to confront lawmakers with the emotional question of liberalized abortion laws

Foes of repealing state abortion laws presented sometimes dramatic testimony to the Assembly Judiciary Committee concerning six related bills

Mary C Bruce of Milwaukee displayed two aborted fetuses in glass jars. Saying she represented herself and other housewives, Mrs. Bruce told lawmakers to consider the human life potential of an unborn child in making any change in abortion laws

Mrs Bruce, who said she is pregnant, did not reveal where she obtained the fetuses

Read From Bible

Other abortion foes read from the Bible and applauded testimony of other critics. Democratic Rep Norman C. Anderson, acting committee chairman, gaveled for order

Persons who jammed the chamber and hallways were largely white, middle-aged women, and well-dressed. There were no spokesmen identified as representing racial minorities or low-income groups.

Rep. Lloyd Barbee of Milwaukee, author of proposals to repeal the state's restrictions on abortion, testified there is "no advantage to society to promote the philosophy of the church or to promulgate unwanted children."

"The state should not make acts criminal that are fundamentally personal," Barbee, the legislature's only Negro, said

Wisconsin stututes prohibit abortion except to save a woman's life. The law is being tested in courts.

Moral Questions

Lawmakers, who listened to conflicting testimony from doctors, clergymen, and fellow representatives, were presented with a variety of legal and moral questions

These included

—Would liberalized abortion laws lead to "abortion mills" operated by persons other than licenesed medical doctors?

—What legal rights does an unborn child have under Wisconsin law?

—What constitutional rights do mothers and doctors have—the mother to decide for herself whether to bear the child, the doctor to practice medicine as he sees fit?

—Do present laws discriminate against low-income persons, allowing the well-to-do to buy abortions because they can afford psychiatric consultation needed for a permissible theraputic abortion?

—When does a fetus become a human being capable of sustaining life?

Madison attorney Richard Geates, who represents a Madison clinic currently involved in a legal battle over the constitutionality of state abortion laws, said current statutes have two defects.

The ultimate decision under existing law to grant or prevent an abortion rests with physicians rather than laws, he said, and courts are already ruling against statutory abortion restrictions.

Milwaukee attorney Dennis Burtell, representing Wisconsin Citizens Concerned for the Unborn, said liberalized abortion laws would lead to abortion clinics staffed by non-medical personnel

"Abortionists," he asserted "will be moving into the shopping centers"

Rights of Unborn

Burtell said state laws recognize unborn children enjoy a number of rights. These include the right to inherit, the right to sue, the right to receive blood transfusions despite the religious objections of parents, and the right to a court appointed guardian, he argued

"To give a pregnant mother the life or death responsibility of whether to carry a child," Burtell said, "would be a violation of due process of law."

A Madison pediatrician, Dr. Hania Ris, said the laws only deny abortions to "the poor and the unsophisticated."

Saying original abortion laws were enacted to protect women from non-medical abortionists, she contended that lawmakers should be concerned with the "quality of life, not just life itself"

Dr Ris said the United States ranks 14th in the world in infant mortality, and 35th for its non-white population She demanded a "separation of church and state."

Clergymen Present

Many Catholic clergymen were in the audience.

The Rev Max Gaebler of Madison's first Unitarian Society said abortion was a "private issue on which there is a sincere difference of opinion between intelligent persons"

He suggested the state not become involved in regulating abortion

Mrs George Klicka, wife of a Wauwatosa GOP state representative, said increasing adultry was the reason for more interest in liberalized abortion laws

Reading from the Bible, Mrs Klicka said only God could take human life

The panel delayed action on the measure

Lucey Tax Plan Fair, Aide Says

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — The State Department of Revenue has assured the state's taxpayers that Gov Patrick J Lucey's proposal to increase personal and corporation income taxes will have the effect of altering the distribution of the total state and local tax load to make it more fair

The department's statement acknowledges that it is intended, in defense of the governor's use of individual and corporation income taxes to expand the state's real personal and homestead property tax relief programs"

Thus the Democratic state administration leader is employing with candor and doubtless some effect a political weapon that was handed to him when a Republican state regime earlier reorganized the state government in such a way as to make key department chiefs directly subject to the governor, with tenure that can be ended at his will

Lucey's revenue department chief is Edward Wiegner, a young economist and former teacher who was named several month ago to replace James R Morgan Morgan held the office under former Gov Warren P Knowles

The thrust of the Wiegner report distributed to reporters and others here is to show that the increasing reliance upon the sales tax by the state during the last decade and the continued rise in local government property taxes had a "regressive" application Both tended to require larger payments in relation to income for persons in income brackets of up to $7,000 a year

Beyond that level, the current tax system that Lucey wants to change has a general proportional application in income terms, the paper acknowledged

Notwithstanding, the state-local tax structure of Wisconsin "lost progressivity" since 1959, it was argued

The report said that the average levy of state-local taxes for last year amounted to 9.1 per cent of the adjuted gross income of Wisconsin taxpayers

But the range was from 22.8 per cent in the $1,000 and under income class, to 15.7 per cent for the $1,000 to $2,000 bracker, and 8.8 per cent for the $2,000 to $3,000 bracket, it was said

There is a tapering off for the middle income groups and a rise for the higher income groups, so that the $20,000 and over group gives up about 9. per cent of gross income in state and local levies, the department asserted

The revenue administration's paper did not mention that the Lucey budget and its tax proposal accompanying intends to expand general state service spending considerably, as well as to expand the programs of real and personal tax relief through state assistance, and enlarge the homestead tax relief effort.

Senate Republicans Move Nearer Okay Of University Merger

MADISON, Wis. (AP) —Republican leaders of the state Senate expressed conditional approval Tuesday night of many of the provisions in Democratic Gov. Patrick J. Lucey's plan for merging college administrations.

The Republican-ruled Senate has been a hotbed of objection to the program under which Lucey wants to consolidate the boards of regents of the University of Wisconsin system and the nine-college state universities system, eliminating the Coordinating Council for Higher Education.

Senators who met with gubernatorial aides in the office of Sen. Ernest C. Keppler, the Republican majority leader, said they could endorse many facets of the Lucey blueprint.

Keppler said he disapproves of a single board of regents having five members from each of the former boards and four new members named by the governor He called instead for a board of two members from each of the state's congressional districts.

The meeting explored possibilities of a compromise on the Lucey merger program approved by the Joint Finance Committee, and a plan sponsored by Senate Republicans.

Joe E. Nusbaum, Lucey's secretary of administration, said there was progress, and requested another meeting to discuss GOP disapproval of about five of the 18 provisions in Lucey's plan

Among features left undecided were issues concerning

—The degree of authority to be given a consolidated board.

—The degree of legislative supervision of campus development

—The extent to which budgets of the existing systems would be merged

Republicans have been wary of the role of gubernatorial appointment of new regents Richard Weening, Lucey's executive aide, said the governor isn't terribly demanding about the appointive angle

At the meeting were Sen. Walter Chilsen, GOP Caucus chairman; Sen Jerome Martin, D-Manitowoc, Sen. Raymond Heinzen, R-Marshfield, Senate Education Committee chairman

Spy Probe Assailed by Republicans

MADISON, Wis (AP) — Senate Republicans Tuesday introduced a resolution condemning an effort by the Democratic-controlled Assembly to investigate the office of GOP Atty. Gen. Robert Warren

The resolution said a legislative probe of charges the attorney general had spied on lawmakers could "undermine and destroy the law enforcement efforts" of the Justice Department

"Members of the Senate are fully confident that the Justice Department does not surveil or investigate law-abiding citizens," the resolution said adding that the Senate "deplores the imprudent action of the Assembly"

The proposal was referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Substitute Favored Over Nixon Plan For Education Aid

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) —A new Nixon administration plan to aid the nation's colleges has been dismissed by key House sponsors of education legislation who prefer programs of their own.

The administration proposal, the product of long internal debate, would provide grants to colleges based on the amount of federal aid their students are receiving.

"It's a ridiculous approach," Rep. Albert H Quie, R-Minn., ranking Republican on the House Education and Labor Committee said Tuesday. Rep. Edith Green, R-Ore., chairman of the House education subcommittee agreed.

Mrs. Green and Quie are pushing rival plans for channeling federal funds directly to the colleges, an approach firmly opposed by the administration until now.

Bad Management

Just last month James B Cardwell, assistant and comptroller of HEW, said direct federal subsidies for colleges could perpetuate bad management, delay needed educational reforms, dry up other sources of aid and result in colleges getting used to living beyond their means.

"I believe we need to think more and perhaps even worry more about the possible consequences of such a policy," Cardwell said in his April 26 speech.

However, the near certainty that Congress will pass some form of institutional grant program led the administration to draw up of its own.

Financial Needs

Both Quie and Mrs. Green said the Nixon approach bore no relation to the financial needs of an institution. And since 80 per cent of the needy students receiving federal aid are in state colleges and universities, said Quie, it would give little assistance to the private colleges where the need for financial aid is greatest.

Quie has introduced a bill to give a college $500 for each of the first 200 undergraduate degrees it awarded each year, $400 for each of the next 300 degrees, $300 for each of the next 500 degrees, $200 for each of the next 1,000 degrees and $100 each for any others. He estimates the cost at $260 million a year.

Mrs. Green's bill would cost an estimated $800 million a year and provide an institution with $100 for each student enrolled in the freshmen and sophomore classes, $150 for each junior and senior and $200 for each graduate student.

Mortgage Rate Bottoms

Charges Expected To Start Rising Despite Extra Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mortgage interest rates have bottomed out and are expected to rise soon, perhaps by as much as half a percentage point, "for no reason that we can clearly understand," reports a leader in the homebuilding industry.

"The traditional demand-supply relationship is being virtually ignored in the mortgage market where there is a surplus of loanable funds," John A. Stastny, president of the National Association of Homebuilders, said Tuesday.

"There is no justification in the money markets to warrant any rate increases," he added.

But, he said, the associations' economist and staff members of the Council of Economic Advisors have indicated to him they expect an increase this year.

7 Per Cent Ceiling

The ceiling on Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Administration loans is now 7 per cent, a sharp decline from the 8.5 per cent peak in 1970. Stastny said interest rates would not drop lower "because of the expectation that inflation is not under control."

The strong flow of money into the mortgage market was underscored by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board's report Tuesday that net savings flowing into federal savings and loan associations reached $2.1 billion in April, the largest amount on record for the month. The total marked a decline from $2.6 billion net savings flow recorded in March.

'New' Drugs Really Old, Pharmaceutical Firms Say

BY G. C. THELEN JR.
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration says the same medicine frequently is advertised to consumers as "new" to increase sales but described to the FDA as "old" to sidestep federal clearance.

FDA chief Charles C. Edwards said such semantic sleight-of-hand by pharmaceutical makers has seriously thwarted government efforts to eliminate unproved therapeutic claims for a number of drugs, particularly nonprescription medications.

Edwards, in testimony prepared for a House Government Operations subcommittee, listed three over-the-counter drugs the FDA attempted to seize this spring after the manufacturers failed to seek marketing clearance from the government. The seizures were blocked by court order.

The medications are Excedrin P.M., Asper Sleep, and Ornex. Their cases are typical of "very, very many" other drugs, he said.

"Each of these products was launched with a major promotional campaign designed to convince the public that it was something 'new' that had not previously been available," Edwards said.

"But when charged in court with a failure to comply with the 'new drug' requirements of law, each manufacturer contended that the product was nothing new at all—that it consisted of only well-known ingredients," he said.

Federal drug laws permit marketing without government clearance of old drugs—those "generally recognized as safe" by experts.

But manufacturers, Edwards said, "have in fact sought to have it both ways—consumer acceptance of a 'new product'—without compliance with legal requirements demanding substantial evidence that every new drug will have the effectiveness claimed."

Edwards outlined a series of regulatory steps the government hopes will assure the public home medicine remedies will do what the manufacturers claim.

"Irresponsible and inaccurate promotions will not suffice for such assurance," he said. "Legal rhetoric and political maneuvering will not erase the need or substitute for science improving efficacy."

Clint Walker Injured In Skiing Accident

BISHOP, Calif. (AP) — Actor Clint Walker, star of the television series "Cheyenne," was reported improving in a hospital here after doctors sewed up a cut in his heart.

Walker, 43, punctured his heart with his ski pole Monday when he fell while skiing on Mammoth Mountain 45 miles north of Bishop.

Walker

A spokesman at Northern Inyo Hospital said Tuesday night Walker was improving.

Walker was skiing with his daughter, Valerie Demirdjian, 19, when the accident occurred.

Madison Schools To Teach About Military Draft

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Madison's four public high schools will offer draft education study programs next fall.

The project, being tested at East High School this semester, is designed to help seniors to become more prepared for making decisions about their personal lives, the director of high schools, Conan Edwards, said Tuesday.

"We do not advocate any action. Our role is one of information," he added.

No Repeat Vowed on Travis Fisticuffs

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The senior officer at this major Vietnam embarkation point vowed Tuesday not to tolerate further racial brawling which led to the arrest of 135 airmen.

"Whatever action is necessary will be taken to insure it doesn't happen again," Maj. Gen. William G. Moore, senior officer at this 10,000 man base, said at a news conference.

He added that Monday night's brawl in which 600 men fought with fists and clubs "is related to the over-all U.S. racial dilemma."

A Travis spokesman reported Tuesday night: "Everything is normal. There have been no new incidents."

More than 200 military policemen were on duty at the base, which is home for the 22nd Air Force.

Air police aided by 78 civilian law enforcement officers quelled the disturbance Monday night when the worst of the trouble erupted. There also was brawling Saturday night and Sunday.

A fire in the bachelor officers' quarters Monday caused an estimated $5,000 damage and a civilian fireman died of a heart attack while fighting the flames.

All but 89 of those arrested were freed Tuesday. A base spokesman said 25 in custody were white, the others black. A spokesman said all were assigned to the base, not transients.

A black airman interviewed on the base Tuesday said blacks had demanded the freeing of three blacks jailed following a brawl with white airmen Sunday.

Several blacks interviewed charged that they are subjected to discrimination and racial prejudice, which Moore denied.

Moore said the crowd of blacks heading for the stockade when Monday's trouble erupted had "the stated objective" of freeing the three blacks arrested the night before.

Australia Ransoms Jetliner

tralian Navy, including two submarines and three destroyers, were rushed to the Botany Bay area on the edge of the airport. When the plane landed it was surrounded by ambulances and fire brigade units. But the passengers disembarked uninjured and airline officials said there had been no panic during the emergency.

Anonymous Caller

An anonymous caller had telephoned the airport and said a bomb had been put in an airport locker. Police raced to the locker area and found the bomb.

With it were three notes. One said a similar bomb had been put aboard Qantas flight 755, which had left two and a half hours earlier for Hong Kong.

Examination of the bomb showed it was fitted with an unconnected barometric device. If connected, it would explode below 20,000 feet.

Also in the locker was a demand for $500,000 ransom, or $560,000 U.S.

The notes said the location of the bomb on the plane and instructions how to defuse it would be given when the ransom was paid.

Ordered Home

The aircraft, then en route to a stop at Darwin, on the north coast, was ordered to return to Sydney immediately. The passengers were not told of the bomb threat, and the crew searched the plane but found nothing suspicious.

As the airliner approached Sydney, the pilot advised passengers that a warning had been received of a bomb aboard the plane. The passengers' luggage was searched, but again nothing suspicious was found.

While a blackout was put on news of the threat, Qantas officials conferred feverishly with military and police authorities. They decided that the money must be paid.

Instructions for the payoff came in a telephone call to Qantas from a "Mr. Brown." He said Capt. Robert J. Ritchie, general manager of Qantas, should hand over the money in front of the airline's office in the center of the city.

Qantas officials raced around the banks, collecting the money.

At 5:45 p.m. Ritchie walked into the street.

A yellow hire van drew up beside him and a man identified himself as "Mr. Brown." Ritchie handed over the suitcases of money, and the van sped away into the rush-hour traffic.

"Brown" was believed to have worn a false beard.

Farm Labor Service Accused of Violations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department is investigating charges its Farm Labor Service knowingly breaks wage, health and civil rights laws in referring migrant workers to farm jobs.

A month ago several hundred farm workers and department employes filed 1,500 pages of documents they said proved the service was run for the good of growers—not the workers—and that it frequently violated the law.

"There is a real sincere dedication to get at the bottom of these charges," a Labor Department spokesman said Tuesday.

"We have established a special review task force to consider every complaint," he added.

The charges against FLS included accusations the service placed migrant workers on unsafe buses for lengthy journeys, recommended camps that violated state sanitation laws and minimum wage laws, and told migrants they could find work "around the corner" where unscrupulous employers waited.

Mario Obledo, executive director of the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Educational Fund, said he was encouraged by the Labor Department's initiation of its own probe.

The fund is convinced, Obledo said, "this will mean early termination of the Farm Labor Service. The violations of law by the FLS are so blatant that the investigators, once they secure first-hand knowledge, will have no choice but to recommend immediate termination."

Kabis-Kennedy Dollar Eyed by Collectors

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kabis-Kennedy dollar bill is the latest U.S. currency attracting the eye of collectors, but its potential value may already have been undercut by the interest.

Dorothy Andrews Kabis, the treasurer of the United States who signed the bill, says it may be valuable as a collector's item one day, but those dealing in currency collection doubt it.

The dollar bill is unusual because it involves a name change by the incumbent U.S. treasurer and the resignation of the treasury sectary, David M. Kennedy, and the set of signatures appears on only one denomination.

Mrs Kabis, formerly Dorothy Andrews Elston, was married last September and had her new name put on the dollar bill in December. On the day she made the decision, Kennedy announced his resignation.

Secretary Connally

For three months, the Treasury printed 550 million one-dollar bills bearing their signatures until John B. Connally, the new secretary, decided to sign U.S. currency.

"I think there will be a point in time that the Kennedy-Kabis one will be valuable,' Mrs. Kabis said. "It is the first time in history that a name change has occurred on the dollar when it was the same person. And signatures are on only one denomination."

She said a number of collectors had expressed interest in it.

But B. M. Douglas, a coin and currency dealer in Washington, said the Kabis-Kennedy ones will gain little in value because collectors have stashed away plenty of them.

Since value to a collector is proportionate to a currency's rarity, he said, the Kabis-Kennedy dollar will not be so valuable in the future, because there will be plenty around.

Mrs. Kabis said she has bought 100 new Kabis-Kennedy ones, but only for family purposes and not as an item of value.

Douglas said he would advise anyone against collecting the Kabis-Kennedy one because of the large amount stocked away.

"People are better off putting their money in a savings account," he said.

Trying Times for Officers

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

"The fortunes of our fighting forces," the general said, "are directly related to the esteem the public has for them."

Maj. Gen. Harrison Hollis, personnel chief for the U.S. Army in Europe, stood at the window of his Heidelberg office watching a winter day die on the parade grounds. "Lord knows, we've had our scandals and our mediocrities, but we've had our heroes, too. Thousands of them. Dedicated men. Not that the public gives a damn anymore."

The general didn't call the roll, but you could almost see them parading by in the deepening dusk, the scandals and the heroes. Calley. My Lai. Roger Donlon, the Green Beret who won the first Medal of Honor in Vietnam. The colonel with the 400 massage parlor girls at Long Binh. Capt. Bill Carpenter, West Point's lonesome end calling the napalm down on himself at Dak To. The Air Force colonel busted on a marijuana rap. All the pilots, imprisoned and forgotten in Hanoi; all the dead, all these years, from the Delta to the DMZ. More than in Korea now.

Tough Time

Like being in the French army after Diem Bien Phu and Algeria, these are tough times for the officer corps. War winding down. Congress cutting back. People weary of the burden and the slaughter. Dissident voices crying, "Peace, peace," but violence everywhere: fraggings, hard drugs, racial tension. Discipline eroding in the boredom and Mickey Mouse of garrison life. Public image corroding under constant attack from the politicians and the media. College administrations kicking the ROTC off the campus. The mayor of New York saying the real heroes may be the ones shouting, "Hell no, we won't go."

As military men are fond of doing these days, with everyone trying to tell them their business, Hollis quoted Gen. George Catlett Marshall's famous warning to Congress when the fortunes of the forces began to fall after World War II:

Menace of Undiscipline

"You cannot have a political club and call it an army. Leave training and discipline to us. An undisciplined army is not only impotent; it is a menace to the state."

The essential difference now is that people seem to be turning cold while the guns are still smoking. On or off the post, an officer and a gentleman is not the enviable thing that Kipling found him to be in "Only a Subaltern."

"We're winding down the salute," admitted Brig Gen Harley Moore, provost marshal of the U.S Army in Europe. Officers nowadays are expected to smile and salute first when the rebel with "peace" and "love" painted on his steel pot passes him on the way to the PX.

Simpler Time

Products of a simpler time, both Gens. Douglas MacArthur and Omar Bradley said in their memoirs their happiest days in uniform were spent as the CO, the commanding officer, of a rifle company. That first command represented all their boyhood dreams of glory, the last link in the chain of command when you knew the first names of all the men you were asking to do or die.

Career officers, the professionals, realize the world has changed a lot since then. The CO is still a hero figure among today's youth, they tell you resentfully, but the initials stand for "conscientious objector." And glory now is getting your head cracked by a Chicago cop, not getting zapped for your country in a Vietnam rice paddy.

"Young captains still want to command companies, but a lot get discouraged early. They want to move on and avoid the problems with race and drugs and discipline. Still, those who do find the magic, we manage to retain. Unfortunately not enough of them," said Col. John Doody, an infantry veteran from Vietnam who is deputy commander of the 1st Infantry Division Forward at Augsburg, Germany

Peer Pressure

Professionals who find the magic, as Doody called it, come to realize there is a lot of conformity behind the mod soldier's antiestablishment stance, a lot of bowing to the peer pressures of the peace marches and moratoriums back home.

"We're on a big kick of rhetoric," explained 2nd Lt Hank Grady of New York City, a black officer stationed with the 4th Armored Division at Nuernberg "The thing to be these days is a rebel and a militant and a dope head. The Army is big and cumbersome and slow moving, but it gets things done. It can deal with that kind of conformity, because conformity is the name of its game."

The new, relaxed discipline and the five-day week have made military life easier for the enlisted man. The new troubles generated by racial tension and drug abuse have made life much more difficult for the officer, especially the junior officer. He spends a lot of time seeing to it that the acid freaks and the militants don't hurt themselves or someone else or maybe blow the base apart.

Looking for Trouble

After hours, the officer of the day used to nap on a cot in the orderly room. Now, in many military installations around the globe, he's out looking for trouble, listening for the hand grenades that go bang in the night. At Fulda, Germany, the O.D. has to climb into every Jeep, truck and tank of the big armored cavalry unit stationed near the East German border making sure the vehicles are locked. In a Kafkaesque scene, a guard walks the perimeter fence of the ammunition dump whose gates are locked against him

"Guards are our biggest problem," said Lt. Robert Clarke of Boston

Stranger things have happened At Bad Kissenger, a private staged a one-man demonstration against "lousy conditions" by swiping a self propelled howitzer and pointing it at battalion headquarters He fell asleep before anything happened, but at Baumholder another protester crawled into a tank and fired the turret gun at an empty building.

Rat Patrol

Big Red One officers, many of them just back from Vietnam, spend their nights riding "rat patrol" in Jeeps on the lookout for racial turmoil in the Augsburg area.

"Hand grenades are missing by the box load, and all kinds of small arms and rifles," said Capt. Curtis Smothers, a black judge stationed with the 15th Judicial Circuit in Germany. "We're locking up the weapons we need for our prime defense mission."

In some places — West Germany, Berlin, Vietnam — the quick reaction force organized for a sudden enemy attack comes in handy for putting down racial rumbles. "The C.Q. (charge of quarters) has a whistle, and the ready reaction unit is set to go anytime he blasts," said Lt. Col. John Bahnsen, veteran tank commander with the 32nd Armored in Germany. "We've had no incidents in the last seven weeks, but we're working them 12 hours a day."

The drug culture calls for a new kind of awareness that only now the officer candidate schools are getting around to recognizing. The junior officer interested in the welfare of his men has to be alert for the tell-tale signs of drug use: the hacking cough of the opium smoker, the glassy stare and giddy giggle of the kid stoned on pot, the drowning sensation of the acid freak, the paranoid whine of the heroin mainliner.

Black Officers

Officers almost everywhere agree that a major drawback to solving the race problem is the shortage of black officers The Army, which has been a leader in integrating the services since 1948, finds itself today with more black colonels (755) than black second lieutenants (332); more black majors (1,193) and captains (1,628) than black first lieutenants (734). Though ROTC programs have been inaugurated at a number of Negro colleges, the situation will not improve anytime soon. Last year West Point graduated only 39 black cadets.

Black officers, to a lesser extent than black NCOs, have their problems with militants demanding special treatment and rebuking them as Uncle Toms.

"Back in my artillery battery, there were always blacks who would say: 'you're my brother, and I know you're gonna square me away'," said Capt. Joseph W. Gentry of St. Louis, Mo., a black Vietnam veteran who specializes in handling racial problems for the Berlin Command.

Toward Solution

Despite the pervasiveness of racial incidents and deaths from drug abuse, many officers think a break through has been toward a solution for unrest in the ranks in the past seven months.

Lt. Gen. Michael Davison, the new commander in Europe who formerly had the Field Forces II combat command in Vietnam, is convinced "more is done in the military to give the black man equal opportunity and fair treatment than is done in our society at large."

"I'll tell you this quite frankly," said Davison at his Long Binh headquarters before taking off for Germany, "I think you have to discriminate in favor of and overcompensate for the blacks. Here's a guy who's been deliberately degraded and deprived for 300 years. He's got so many psychological hangups as a result of the conditions he finds himself in today, in order to make him feel like he's being treated fairly, you just have to overcompensate."

Many officers blame the decline in discipline on the short tour and quick promotions in Vietnam, coupled with the constantly changing high level strategy on how best to win the war and placate the critics back home.

"Vietnam drained us," said Maj Hardy Griffin, a Vietnam veteran with the 4th Armored Division in Germany. "The fast buildup meant quick promotions, but as it turned out, just because a man could shoot straight didn't mean he was any kind of a leader."

Franchett Will Resign at COG

Accepts Metro Planning Post

Eugene E. Franchett, executive director of the Fox Valley Council of Governments, today was appointed executive director of a citizen's study committee on metropolitan problems, formed by Gov. Patrick J. Lucey to determine ways to improve local government operations in metropolitan areas of the state. Franchett will leave COG next month.

Franchett's appointment was announced by Gilbert Church, a Milwaukee attorney and chairman of the study committee. Church also is chairman of the Wisconsin Metropolitan Alliance.

"Mr. Franchett's extensive experience with areawide problems and government is important to this study," Church said, "because one of the basic issues we must contend with is how to alleviate the problem formed by fragmented local government in metropolitan areas."

Franchett, 39, is the working head of the primary regional planning agency for the Fox Cities-Oshkosh metropolitan area. No replacement has been selected for Franchett.

Eugene Franchett

Charles M. Hill, secretary of the Department of Local Affairs and Development (DLAD), said Franchett will be assisted by two other full-time professional persons, plus some part-time help from graduate students.

Franchett's salary will be $23,500 a year. The total budget for the yearlong study will be $95,000 with the state Board of Government Operations providing $50,000 and the DLAD furnishing $45,000. Budget and staff support for the study is being coordinated by DLAD.

Franchett was COG's first executive director. A new regional program was developed

First St. Elizabeth Hospital—4 Nuns In a Little House

The building which was the first St. Elizabeth Hospital was razed today. This is an account of the early history of the hospital, which began in 1899 and grew to today's modern complex on Appleton's south side.

BY LILLIAN MACKESY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

It was the feast day of St. Elizabeth, Nov. 19, 1899, when four Franciscan nuns arrived in Appleton from St. Louis, Mo.

They knew where they were going and their destination was a modest white frame house that stood on the newly purchased hospital site on Lake Street (now S. Oneida St.) in the old 4th Ward.

This was to become their home for the next 19 months. This was the first St. Elizabeth Hospital.

The four nuns promptly established themselves in the attic and set about turning the other rooms into a hospital. Sister M. Carola became the superior in charge with Sister M. Clothilde her willing assistant.

This new mission of the Franciscan Order was to become an eight-room monument of unflagging faith and courage to these four Catholic nuns who faced hardship and often hunger to bring good hospital care to Appleton.

Long Time Coming

The hospital was a long time coming to Appleton, as the Franciscan Sisters were approached as early as 1885 to establish the institution. Two Appleton physicians, Dr. Rush Winslow and Dr. A. H. Levings led the cause. They had the goodwill of many civic leaders.

These men, who divided the years from 1887 through 1892 as mayor with three terms each, knew well the work of the Franciscan Order in its Milwaukee hospital. Finally, the idea began to move in early 1899 when the Rt. Rev. Sebastian G. Messmer, bishop of Green Bay, delegated the Rev. John Kaster, pastor of Sacred Heart Church, and Dr. A. M. Freunde to contact the Franciscan Sisters in Milwaukee in person. Their job was to start a correspondence with Mother Mary Caecille, mother provincial in St. Louis.

The result was a visit to Appleton and a preliminary investigation as to its hospital needs. The two nuns who came, Sisters M. Emilia and M. Vita, not only approve a hospital here, but they picked the site for it. The little white house that stood on the lot was chosen as the first temporary hospital until a larger one could be built.

Resourceful Nuns

Many stories have been told about the nuns who scrubbed and scrimped, cooked and nursed all of 98 patients in their inadequate hospital. Resourcefulness took the place of equipment and the four sisters worked round the clock to keep their hospital clean, their patients fed and properly cared for. When baskets of food came to the little white house, they were saved more often than not for the patients. Doctors and others were known to bring or send hampers filled with meat, fresh fruits and delicacies with the written admonition: "These are for the Sisters, not the patients!"

Sister Clothilde, youngest of the four, is supposed to have wept that first Christmas in the frame hospital. It was because the nuns had nothing with which to make the holiday festive — they had only dry bread without butter.

Another story told about Sister Carola was her first fund-raising attempt. More patients were coming to hospital, necessitating more food and supplies. Sister Carola decided to do something about it. She walked downtown, determined to obtain funds for her hospital on the hill.

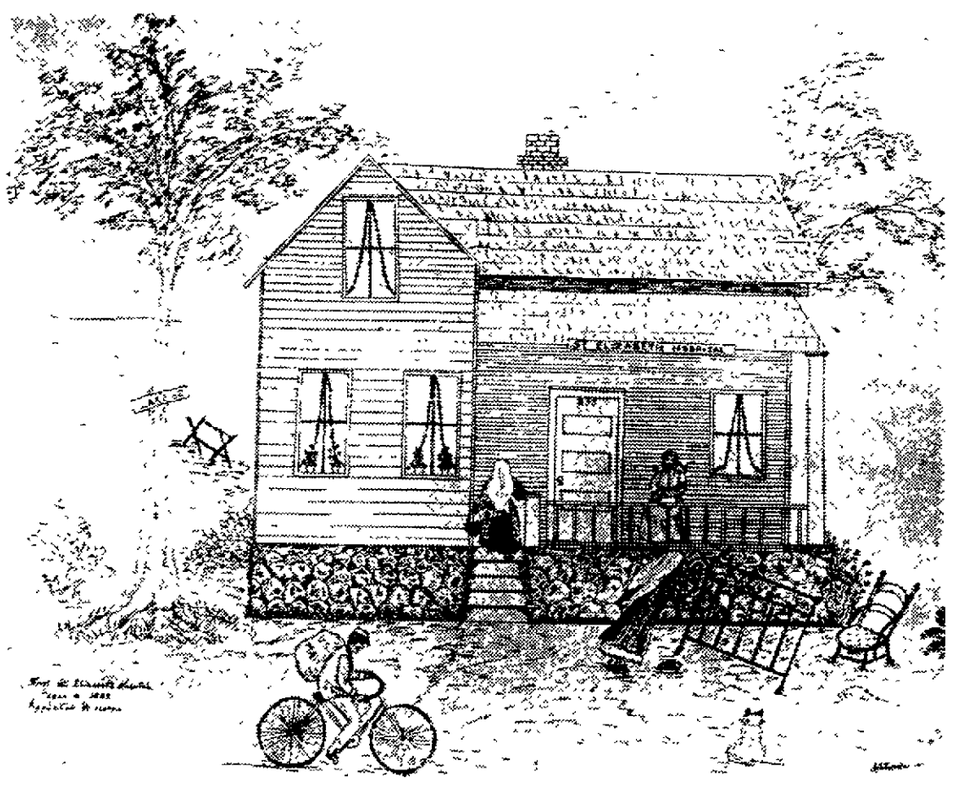
Fainted on Avenue

As she wandered along College Avenue, it is said she fainted and was taken into a drug store. She was fed some milk. "I must have been hungry," she explained and told how she had left her duties to ask for money to help support the growing hospital. She had forgotten to eat before she left. It was this journey which probably started the baskets of food coming with more regularity.

The story of St. Elizabeth Hospital, named for the day the Catholic sisters arrived, went forward to the larger brick hospital dedicated May 8, 1901, then to the building dedicated with public ceremonies July 3, 1923, and on to its present medical center.

But when the brick hospital came into use, the little white house was moved across to Fremont Street where it has stood all these years since as a family home.

Today, it's coming down. The white frame house that was the first St. Elizabeth Hospital so ably served by those first four nuns, has turned to rubble and a memory.



Mobile Home Park in Grand Chute Opposed

BY PETER BACH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

About 30 Appleton and Town of Grand Chute residents who live close to a proposed million dollar mobile home park in the town hurled criticism at its supporters Tuesday night at a meeting of the town's planning commission.

At issue is a proposed 260-unit mobile home development that would lie on 61.5 acres just outside the west Appleton city limits between Wisconsin Avenue and Outagamie County Trunk 00.

Opponents of the measure expressed fears that the park would depreciate the tax base, "clutter up" schools in the area, add to congestion and draw a "lower class of people." Many of the park's detractors agreed that "We don't want that across from us."

The planning commission called the meeting Tuesday to review preliminary plans that have been drawn up by Tri-State Engineering Inc., a Minneapolis firm hired by the proposed park's developer, Inland Steel Urban Development Corp., a division of Inland Steel.

Rezoning Needed

The town board will make a recommendation to the county zoning committee Tuesday on whether the project is desired. Some of the property would have to be rezoned before the project could begin.

Slightly more than half of the 61.5 acres is zoned for heavy industry, according to Edmund Sulkowski, Milwaukee, a representative of Tri-State who was at the meeting Tuesday. Property zoned for heavy industry cannot be used for residential building.

The remainder of the property, according to town Chairman Ira Livingston, is zoned for agricultural purposes. Land zoned in the second classification may be used for residential building.

Sulkowski, who for the first time Tuesday unveiled preliminary drawings of the development, told opponents of the measure that they "were against the concept" of a mobile home park, not this particular project since they could not have seen the plans.

$1 Million Investment

Sulkowski explained that the developer would lease the property containing the 260 plots to one man, who would then lease individual spaces to persons who owned mobile homes. The developer's investment would run in the neighborhood of $1 million, he said. Those who wished to occupy plots would be screened before being permitted in, he said. Additionally, each mobile home allowed would be charged an entrance fee, as is done elsewhere, he said.

The mobile units, which would be factory built, would sell for between $7,500 and $16,000, according to Sulkowski.

The proposed use of the property is in compliance with a Grand Chute ordinance passed several months ago pertaining

Retaining 2 Lawyers for Indigents Is Ruled Legal

Wisconsin Atty. Gen. Robert Warren has ruled, in a written informal opinion, that a proposal to hire two attorneys on a retainer basis to defend indigents is legal.

Warren's opinion apparently clears the way for the Outagamie County Board to go ahead with the plan for the county judges to designate a two-attorney panel to handle all indigent defense work in the county.

Under the plan they would each be paid a retainer of $500 per month. Presently, the county spends about $25,000 annually for indigent defense attorneys who are picked on an individual case basis.

Warren's opinion was sought after acting Corporation Counsel A. W. Ponath had contended such a plan was illegal under existing statutes.

Warren said the county's right to secure legal services for indigents at a reasonable cost "is, in my opinion, within the legislative grant of general police powers." The proposed plan, he noted, still left to the judges the right to pick the two attorneys for the panel.

The attorney general said it also was legal to seek recovery of the costs from the defendents when they became able to pay but that problems could arise in determining what portion of the $500 salary would be attributed to a case. "I assume, however, that these problems could be solved through efficient accounting and timekeeping practices," he wrote.

A question also had been raised whether recent law school graduates, if hired on the panel, would be capable of giving adequate defense.

Warren said "Obviously, any defendent has a right to competent representation — and the ancillary right to complain that he was not competently represented in a given case . . . Certainly there is no presumption — and in fact little validity to the asumption — that a young lawyer is less competent than an older one."

On a final point, as to whether the plan violates the statute calling for indigent defense counsel pay to be the same as that customarily charged by lawyers, Warren said "I cannot believe that section would be interpreted so as to prohibit a plan such as this — a plan that would provide efficient and effective representation of indigents at a substantial savings to the county."

The plan had the backing of the four county judges and the circuit judge before the county board referred the question to the attorney general.

May Brings Relief To City With Drop In Relief Cases

A dramatic 50 per cent reduction in Appleton's relief caseload during the past month was reported Tuesday by Welfare Director Merton Ehricke.

Ehricke, whose budget recently was projected to be heading for a $92.00 year-end deficit, said his caseload had fallen to 66 when he closed his office Tuesdy, compared with a 146 total for the month of April.

The director gave the figures to the City Council's welfare and ordinance committee.

Elaborating this morning, he said if the caselod stays down, his year-end deficit could be held to "almost one half what the finance director said."

Estimated Deficit

It was Finance Director David Champion who recently estimated the possible deficit. Ehricke is to appear soon before the finance committee to comment on Champion's figures, which the committee said need elaboration.

Ehricke also provided another source of brightness in the generally gloomy relief picture, saying that income from other communities paying Appleton for handling nonresident relief cases is far ahead of revenue estimates in his budget.

Other communities so far have paid "charge-backs" totaling $16,409. Ehricke said with only five months passed and seven left in the year. The figure is only $591 short of the total of $17,00 estimated for the entire year, he pointed out.

The receipts don't go directly into Ehricke's budget, however. They are deposited in the city's general fund and require council action to transfer them for a specific budget purpose.

Ehricke has placed most of the blame for the department's unexpectedly high caseload and spending pace on unemployment. The city bears the brunt because the 1969 Legislature did away with a federally-assisted welfare program for the unemployed at the county level, forcing local communities to take up the burden.

City caseloads this year have totaled 138 for January, 148 for February, 140 for March and 146 for April, dropping now to 66. Ehricke attributed the drop to the availability of seasonal work, and warned that when such jobs are cut off next fall, it could bring about a new rise in relief cases unless by then other work has opened up.

The director also has been routinely sending applicants for relief who appear capable of working to the city personnel office for consideration as summer part-time employes and other jobs in the public works department. Of 45 applicants referred by the end of last week, seven had been hired or placed on call as substitutes

Private Court Study Favored by Huseby

Charging that a state-level study of Outagamie County courts "won't amount to a hill of beans," Supv. Paul Huseby of Appleton Tuesday sought support from his judiciary and enforcement committee to attempt to get the Institute of Judicial Administration to reconsider its decision to abandon plans for an independent court study.

The Outagamie County Board has appropriated funds to cover a fourth of the cost of the $10,000 study by the New York-based institute. The study, which seemed virtually assured until last week, was to have started next month.

However, Institute Director Delmar Karlen informed local officials that, based on a conversation with Chief Justice E. Harold Hallows of the Wisconsin Supreme Court, the institute was withdrawing its offer to do the study requested by the county.

Hallows reportedly told Karlen that a more comprehensive

Lawyers Push for New Police Station

Labeling present facilities "deplorably unsatisfactory and inadequate," the Outagamie County Bar Association Tuesday gave almost unanimous approval to a resolution calling for the immediate providing of new quarters for the Appleton Police Department.

There was only one dissenting voice on a vote during the associations monthly meeting

The resolution, introduced by attorney Dennis Herrling, was forwarded to Mayor George Buckley and the City Council

John O'Connell, an attorney and recently retired agent for the FBI, told the association he has been in many police stations and added, "I'm totally ashamed of what we have in Appleton."

Gordon Myse advised that "here is nothing more important to a community than effective law enforcement, which requires competent officers and facilities enabling them to do their jobs effectively."

Myse further advised, "whatever needs to be done can't be studied to death for five years."

Work Difficult

Dist. Atty. James R. Long said adverse working conditions in the station, including a lack of privacy, make it difficult for police to work effectively

There was only token criticism to the resolution. Although he did not question the need for improved police quarters, Judge Urban P. Van Susteren wondered if, in light of other city needs, the associaton should tag such a high priority on a new station

Patrick F. Coughlin was elected bar president Tuesday, succeeding Don R. Herrling. Other new officers, all elected by a single unanimous ballot, were Hugh E. Nelson, vice president, and Phillip F. Schlicting, secretary-treasurer

Adams Attacks Neenah Delay on Sewer-User Fees

MENASHA — Mayor James Adams, in a strongly-worded statement that includes charges of "lack of leadership" by his counterpart in Neenah, has urged that city to approve spending soon for a sewer user fee rate study so things will be ready for implementation of a user fee in 1972.

Adams also said that if Neenah didn't act, he could ask the council to consider purchasing Neenah's share of the sewage treatment plant, "at its present depreciated value," and "allow the city of Neenah to construct its own sewage treatment plant and fund it in any way the city of Neenah officials deem necessary."

The statement came in two parts: a letter delivered to Neenah Mayor Roman V. Hauser Tuesday and also sent to aldermen in both cities, and in a follow-up statement this morning.

Council Action

Hauser said the public works committee would discuss the proposed user fee rate study in a meeting today and said he thought action would be taken on it by the council next week.

On Adams threat to purchase Neenah's share of the plant if the city doesn't act, Hauser said: "That's alright. That's a good idea. If you can get along with one entity, it's a lot better than having two, like we've had for a long time now."

He was noticeably angry with the Adams letter, which also contained suggestions that Hauser was subject to "pressure" from industrial interests in Neenah-Menasha

Menasha has signed a contract with sewage plant consultants Consoer I Townsend Associates to conduct sewer and incineration fee studies both in two phases. Adams said Neenah must do the same thing, or run the risk of jeopardizing possible federal and state aids for the proposed $20 million plant expansion project and creating a climate that could lead to "challenges to the Public Service Commission". . ."because of preferential treatment in either one community or the other."

Neenah has not decided what to do. They're considering two proposals: one from Consoer and Townsend and another from the Neenah accounting firm of Haven, Garlock, Schatz and Otto. Adams contends that both cities should have at least the initial studies done by the same firm, to achieve uniformity.

"In terms of implimentation of the user fee in 1972, it is my considered opinion that until such appropriate rate studies, and metering studies are completed, all matters are purely hypothetical with no sound judgements possible," Adams wrote in the letter.

Joint Meeting

Neenah Public Works Director Wayne Bryan last week called for further meetings of Twin Cities' and sewerage commission officials to discuss the user nee rae study.

"That's a bunch of hooey," Adams said today. He said there isn't a need for more meetings, that the cities must act fast so they can get a fee going in 1972 and the call for another meeting was "just a bunch of stalling and fooling around."

Adams May Seek Funds in Washington

MENASHA — Mayor James Adams wants to travel to Washington in June and Madison later to try to "cut out some of the bureaucratic red tape" surrounding efforts by the Neenah-Menasha Sewerage Commission to get federal and state aids for the $20 million plant expansion project.

He wants Neenah Mayor Roman V. Hauser to accompany him.

"Perhaps we can cut out some of the bureaucratic red tape through a joint appearance in Washington and possibly at a later date in Madison," Adams wrote Hauser in a letter Tuesday. The letter was primarily intended to urge Neenah officials to approve spending for sewer user fee and metering studies.

Adams has written letters to U.S. Sens. Gaylord Nelson and William Proxmire, as well as Gov. Patrick Lucy, seeking help in untangling the possibilities for federal and state aids for the project.

Proxmire and Nelson have responded to the 4½-page letter, sent May 3. Lucey has not.

Adams said he will ask the council for funds to travel to Washington and talk with Federal Water Quality Administration officials, and Proxmire, "sometime in June." He asks Hauser to come along.

He asked for a "personal conference" with all three officials.

Twin Cities Chamber Girds for Community Work

NEENAH-MENASHA — An ambitious 1971-72 program aimed at generating interest, participation and action in five general areas was launched Tuesday night as the Neenah Menasha Chamber of Commerce started its new year

With its captive audience attending the annual meeting Tuesday, Chamber officials immediately moved from the old speaker-social format to one of participation centered around four round table discussions probing into:

—Area governmental affairs.
—Commercial services.
—Community affairs.
—Education.
—Transportation.

Regional Planning

Through the participation in the seminar discussions, Chamber leaders were hoping to actively involve the organization in such current issues as solving the regional planning dilemma: reorganizing the Winnebago County board, creating a county executive and ironing out the differences between the north and south ends of the county; a joint Neenah Menasha city hall; city capital improvement programs, and sewage wastes and pollution.

The comprehensive program was an outgrowth of questionnaires distributed to all Chamber members. The results were thoroughly discussed at a board of directors' retreat in late April

The area governmental affairs group has the general goal of modernizing local governments, developing sound planning and responsible government on a regional basis.

Forums will be provided for state and national legislators to voice their views and hear what local business, industrial and governmental officials have to say.

Planning Agency

Specific regional problems will also be attacked with the aim of developing a single planning agency covering a minimum of the three county (Outagamie, Winnebago and Calumet) area to a maximum of the eight county state administrative district.

With current issues centering around ecology and pollution, the chamber also plans to launch a program publicizing methods of eliminating clear water, air and water pollution plus investigating methods of solid waste disposal.

Another aim of the 1971-72 program of work is to become actively involved in community affairs with the ultimate goal of assisting community economic development.

Specifics include developing conventions and tourism, assisting the local housing authorities in getting public housing for low income and elderly families, checking into mobile home potentials and ordinances, pushing for strong subdivision legislation plus studying housing supplies and conditions.

Battery 'Blackmail' Docks Patrol Boat

OSHKOSH — The long, long arm of the anonymous donor was felt at Winnebago County courthouse here Tuesday when the sheriff, coroner and safety committee talked with Charles Meyer about batteries for the former Oshkosh fire boat, since last season the property of Winnebago County.

The board was a so-called anonymous gift to the City of Oshkosh 14 years ago.

Meyer said Tuesday he represented the donors. He had stored the boat's batteries during the winter, he explained, and was ready to return then when he was satisfied on behalf of the donors that the operation of the boat would be competent and cooperative.

Gerald Engeldinger, county corporation counsel, called such action "blackmail." He said Meyer was "self-appointed" in his mission that he doubted he spoke for the donors.

The county counsel said Meyer had offered to store the batteries and the county was grateful, but "he has no right to hand on to them." Engeldinger said the boat is the property of Winnebago County

Meyer said 70 per cent of the boat had been the gift of his father and his grandfather and that he spoke for them. He said the verbal understanding with the city was that the boat was to be operated as a patrol and available for rescue.

He agreed to return the batteries promptly so that the boat can be put into use during the Memorial Day weekend.

Meyer admitted that last season's operation had been competent. But he indicated he anticipates problems will follow the committee's earlier decision to pay volunteer auxiliary police $2.50 an hour to operate the boat when sheriff's officers volunteering on their off-days get $4 an hour.

Twin Cities Incinerator Plan Sought

NEENAH-MENASHA — Air quality control, the next anti-pollution campaign, is getting underway, and the sewerage commission is one of the first groups in the area to feel pressure from the Department of Natural Resources.

The commission must file an emission control plan on its incinerator with the DNR by July 1 or be shut down on Oct. 1.

The standard is emissions "below half a pound of dust per 1,000 pounds of gas corrected to 12 per cent carbon dioxide by July 1, 1973."

An acceptable plan for achieving that must be submitted by July 1. The commission won't make it.

3-Year Study Proposed

Menasha Considers Cost Plan

MENASHA — The new capital improvements committee met for the first time Tuesday, squirmed over the high costs of running city government and the school district and decided to begin serious discussion on a three-year plan for city and school district capital expenditures on June 16.

The committee has been appointed by Mayor James Adams to come up with a plan that can be approved by the common council and discal control board and hopefully avoid budget-time squabbles over city spending that erupt each year.

There wasnt' much serious planning done Tuesday. The committee did follow Adams' suggestion, however, to have city department heads compile an "itemized list" of needed capital expenditures for the next three years by June 16, when the committee can meet again to "maybe do some juggling" and develop a spending plan.

Adams said he would like to have the committee come up with recommendations by "sometime in the month of August." He wants it in time for 1972 budget deliberations by the council and fiscal control body.

There was some general discussion Tuesday:

—Town of Menasha Chairman Roland Kampo said he didn't expect to "see any great increase" in expenditures for school buildings in the Menasha joint school district in the next three years.

Kampo serves on the committee because he has several votes on the school district's fiscal control board. He said "we shouldn't be building anything in the schools" unless it is an "absolute necessity," because the "taxpayers can't afford it."

MHS Expansion

—School board member Robert Farrell, another member of the committee, said expansion of the senior high school (a projected $1,040,000 project) by the 1973-74 school term was a top priority item because projected enrollment increases there.

Both Adams and Kampo have been cool to capital expenditures for schools in the past.

Enrollment at the high school, which has a capacity of 1,000 students is 910 right now. School district officials project 1,002 by 1973.

Farrell also said the committee was "a good idea," and could serve to "improve communications between city, town and school district officials who have a hand in deciding where and how much school district money will be spent.

Bus Costs

—Kampo has asked Farrell to come up with figures to show what it would cost to bus students in the Third Ward to Clovis Grove and Banta schools rather than spending $430,000 to remodel old Nicolet School.

Kampo said it may be cheaper to add onto those two schools to accommodate the students (there are 176 attending Nicolet this year) than try to bring Nicolet up to acceptable standards and size.

Franchett Will Leave COG

under his direction, including a land use transportation study, water supply and pollution abatement plan, housing study, and law enforcement and criminal justice program.

He also wrote a report on comprehensive health planning for parts of Winnebago, Outagamie and Calumet counties served by COG, wich received a first place award from the National Service to Regional Councils in 1970.

Prior to joining COG, Franchett was executive director of the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission, a resident planner for Harland Bartholomew and Associates, city planning consultants from St Louis, Mo., and a cartographer for the Aeronautical Chart and Information Center in St. Louis.

He received his bachelor's and master's degrees in geography from St. Louis University.

Lucey appointed the 17-member study committee April 20, and charged the group with finding ways to curb local government fragmentation, which, he said, is characterized by the 39 separate local government units in the Milwaukee metropolitan area, and the over 60 units in the Madison metropolitan area

Local government fragmentation not only causes confusion among citizens, the governor said, but also fosters pollution, duplication competition for industry and fiscal problems because areawide planning, coordination and implementation are stifled.

"It is this non-system of patchwork governments that I am asking you to study," the governor said.

The committee has been asked to report back to the governor in about a year with recommendations on how to modify state statutes to help local governments operate more effectively in metropolitan areas The committee will be assisted by technical advisory group headed by Prof. Henry Schmandt, chairman of the Urban Affairs Department at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

Among the alternative solutions to local government fragmentation which the study committee considered investigating at its first meeting are: consolidation of local governments, either wholly or partially; neighborhood control over some functions of local government; transfers of some functions from one level of government to another, creation of a two-level form of metropolitan government either by forming a new government or by utilizing the county or existing municipal governments, and increasing the effectiveness of councils of government.

Kaukauna Mayor Gilbert Anderson, COG chairman, issued the following statement:

"The loss of Gene Franchett's services comes as a serious blow to all of us who have known and worked with us. He is considered to all of us to be one of the finest directors and planners in the state of Wisconsin

"His departure will be deeply felt We, as a council, are proud that we have had the type of staff that other people look to for higher and advanced jobs.

"During the years, Mr. Franchett has assembled a staff that we feel is second to none, and I am sorry that he has had to take the type of harassment which has been leveled at him in the past few months We can only commend him for his gentelmanly conduct during all of this and wish him well in his new advancement

"A successor will have to be named in the near future by our council but, as yet, we haven't given this any thought or met to discuss the situation"

Franchett came to COG's predecessor, the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission, in 1963 as planning director The commission was converted to a council of governments in 1967 when elected municipal officials became the governing board

"As executive director of the metropolitan study committee, I will have the rare opportunity and challenge to work for the improvement of government in metropolitan areas.

"My work here in the Fox Valley has from time to time brought home the fact that environmental problems are metropolitan problems and require metropolitan-regional solutions. Here in Wisconsin we need laws that will establish, or permit the establishment of, the governmental institutions that are necessary to solve these problems.

"The work of the metropolitan study committee will be to study and recommend such institutional changes.

"I have had the distinct challenge at COG of taking a one-man operation and developing into a nationally recognized regional council. The overriding benefit to me has been the opportunity to work with some very dedicated and courageous local elected officials.

"The staff of the council of governments is one of the finest regional staffs in the United States. I am very proud to have had the opportunity to bring them together as a team to give the Fox Valley municipalities what is in my estimation an outstanding delivery of professional services. Our goal was always excellence; we seldom settle for second best"

He noted that Anderson had made a strong point when he commented on the growing strength of the organization

"As to the perrenial conflict between the council of governments and Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission. I believe that the days of rhetoric are over and that those responsible elected officials who have studied the problem thoroughly and objectively and are out to solve the environmental problems know what the answers are. The only remaining question is whether they will have the courage and fortitude to make the decision which they know must be made. I think they will"

Huseby Wants Court Examined by Institute

study of the entire judicial system in the state would begin soon under the direction of a 35-member task force recently named by Gov. Patrick J Lucey

'Waste of Money'

Karlen quoted Hallows as saying that a study of Outagamie County alone "would not be likely to result in any improvement and that it might well be waste of public money in view of the expected larger study"

Huseby, who has been one of the chief proponents of the independent study, felt that "the statewide study won't even begin to get to the nitty gritty that an independent, local study would" The institute study would have taken about two months.

In stronger language, Huseby charged that State Court Administrator Edwin Wilkie, whose partial responsibility is to oversee operations and administration of Wisconsin courts, "has been protecting the problems of this county since I've been on the board."

Huseby further charged that Hallows doesn't know what the court problems are in Outagamie County and added, "I think they're afraid to have any outside agency come in here to make a study"

'Protecting Balliwick'

"The whole bunch of them are protectng this balliwick," Huseby remarked

"An outside agency would tell them (the judges) to get to work," said Supv. Thomas Woods of Appleton

"You can't get into (Judge Raymond) Dohr's court with a juvenile case for months but you go down there and he's seldom busy," Woods told the committee

Huseby ran into opposition when he proposed that Supv. John R Schreiter of Appleton, who used to be on Huseby's committee, be asked to see if anything could be done to salvage the independent study. Schreiter, who was not renamed to the judiciary and enforcement committee last month, played a major role in attempting to secure the study

Supv George Driessen of Appleton, who early this year voted against appropriating any county money for the independent study objected to Schreiter being asked to follow up on the latest action by the Institute of Judicial Administration

"If he's not on the committee, he shouldn't have anything to do with this," Driessen remarked.

Menasha Girl Crosses Center Line, Hits Auto

OSHKOSH — The Post-Crescent reported earlier that a car driven Friday by Helmer O. Haugh, 77, of 605 School St, Neenah, crossed over a center line and hit an oncoming car driven by Judith Lux, 18, of 618 Broad St, Menasha

According to a Winnebago county Sheriff's report, the car driven by Miss Lux crossed over the center line and collided with the Haugh auto The accident happened about 9 a m Friday on State 150 four miles west of Neenah.

Miss Lux, Haugh, and Hazel Haugh, 605 School St, Neenah, were treated at Theda Clark Hospital for head cuts. Both cars were extensively damaged.

Neenah Native May be New Army Secretary

Robert F. Froehlke, 48, a Neenah native and close friend of Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, is expected to be nominated as the new secretary of the Army.

Pentagon sources confirmed reports Tuesday that Froehlke's name had been sent to the White House. He reportedly is Laird's personal choice to succeed Stanley R. Resor, who resigned Friday after directing the Army for the past six years.

Froehlke has held the office of assistant secretary of defense for administration since January, 1969.

Whenever Laird has had a delicate job to be done in the Defense Department, he has given it to Froehlke to do.

President Nixon is expected to announce the nomination and send it to the Senate for confirmation soon.

Although a Laird aide said he could not comment on the reports that Froehlke would be named to the post, Froehlke's name appearently already has been cleared with key senators on the Armed Services Committee.

Froehlke is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin Law School and taught there for a year. He practiced law in Madison before moving to Stevens Point in 1952, where he was executive vice president of Sentry Insurance.

He was Laird's campaign manager during Laird's years as a Republican congressman from Wisconsin between 1952 and 1968.

Man Convicted On Drug Count

Charles Jacobson Faces Maximum of 15 Years in Prison

Charles Jacobson, 23, formerly 1208 N Superior St, was convicted this morning after pleading guilty to an amended charge of selling a dangerous drug to a minor

Circuit Court Judge Donald W. Gleason, who presided, was expected to sentence Jacobson this afternoon Jacobson faces a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison on the conviction, which is his second for the same offense.

A mistrial was declared in the case in mid-March when Jacobson's attorney was involved in an automobile accident and sustained a back injury.

Outagamie County Dist Atty James Long, who, at the time of trial, had charged Jacobson with a repeator section of the same charge for which Jacobson stood, on conviction, to spend 30 years in prison without parole, this morning explained why he amended the charge.

Jacobson was charged with selling marijuana to a 19-year-old girl at his former home last Oct. 2. Successful prosectuion of the case against Jacobson depended on her willing testimony, in the capacity of police department informer.

Long said this morning that although she still was willing to testify at a trial should another one be called, he did not want to put the girl through the "mental anguish" that the lagging case has brought her.

Long cited that fact that the girl was attacked and beaten by an unknown attacker shortly after she offered original information to police regarding Jacobson, and had been the subject of other threats

The defense attorney, meanwhile, thanked the court for considering the amended charge, since the previously unamended count carried a penalty that served no purpose but to "strike down Jacobson's youth and destroy his life forever"

Teachers Set Training Day At Little Chute

LITTLE CHUTE — Youngsters in the public elementary school will have an extended vacation this weekend. There will be no school Friday as teachers from kindergarten through the sixth grade participate in an in-service training program, according to Principal Donald Bangert. Monday is a legal holiday.

Areas to be covered include the multi-unit concept and Wisconsin Design for Reading to be adopted in the system next year A film, "Tuesday," giving the story of a unit operating in the multi-unit concept will be shown It will also show how team teachers operate, both in use of subject matter and dealing with children.

Teachers will also code existing reading materials into the new design coding system which permits a sequential approach to reading, utilizing any of the textbook series. The new system permits both the teacher and school to detect specific problems or weakness areas.

During much of the day, teachers will work together on individual teaching units, noted Bangert. Three primary unit groups for grades one through three will be set up and one intermediate unit for grades four and five.

to the construction and development of mobile home courts.

Livingston said the town would provide sanitary sewer to the court from an existing sewer on W Wisconsin Avenue. Water service would be temporarily provided by a well, said Sulkowski, although at a later time, the court could be hooked up to an existing town water main.

"Rundown Conditions"

Opponents expressed concern for the "overall plan of the future" in considering the mobile home system. With such a park, one man maintained, "You don't escape the possibility of rundown conditions."

Sulkowski said vehicles would be parked in carports. This brought a volley of derisive comments from the group, one of them a woman who said, "We'll have to look at all that junk that normally would be stored in a garage.

The property on which the proposed pack would be located is owned by the Outagamie Cooperative and the Tillman Development Corp. Norman W. Hall, a realtor who is the agent for the owners, was present at the meeting.

Senate Bill Endorsed

Lawyer Service and Fees Hit by County Board Panel

The Outagamie County Board's judiciary and enforcement committee continued Tuesday to cast a critical eye on the legal profession.

By separate votes, the committee unanimously endorsed resolutions urging the board to support legislative proposals to abolish the necessity of attorney services in the termination of joint tenancies and to end attorney "price fixing" through minimar bar rates.

The state assembly last week passed, 87-10, a bill designed to obviate the necessity of an attorney's services in termination of joint tenancies.

The bill, which now rests with the senate judiciary committee, allows a spouse's interest in a home, checking account, savings account or U.S. savings bonds to be transferred to the survivor upon his or her death, simply through the filing of documents with the county register of deeds, without the necessity of hiring an attorney and going through Probate Court.

State law now dictates that an attorney must be retained for any estate having a value of more than $1,500. The State Bar Association recommends the attorney fee schedule.

There was only brief discussion on the resolution Tuesday, but the committee had dealt with the issue in depth at a meeting the previous week. Supv. Paul Huseby, chairman of the judiciary and enforcement committee and author of the resolution, complained that the recommended probate rates work hardships on heirs of estates under $10,000 and on heavily indebted estates.

The recomended attorney fees are based on a percentage of the estate. The percentage decreases as the value of the estate increases

Huseby also authored the resolution seeking board pressure in support of a senate bill that would prohibit the use of a minimum fee schedule for attorneys.

Proponents of the bill, which Tuesday was the subject of a lawyer hearing before the senate judiciary committee, argue that the minimum bar rate, which is now $30 per hour, constitutes price fixing, since a lawyer must be a member of the bar and as such is required to adopt the schedule.

The senate II, which has as one of its co-sponsors Rep. Ervin Conradt, R-Shiocton, provides for a separate violation of state law each day the minimum bar rate would be in effect after the bill would become law.

"They've got us with our hands behind our backs," Huseby said in referring to the minimum bar rate. "They can all get together and raise the fees. That's price fixing," he added.

Huseby said before the vote was taken that even if the committee shunned the resolution he would take it to the board floor himself next month.

Supv. George Driessen of Appleton favored the resolution, saying it "would give people a chance to shop around for a lawyer"

Girl's Death Caused by Noninfectious Hepatitis

NEENAH — Susan Rose Glode, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwyn Gloede, 1073 Oxford Court, died Tuesday at Theda Clark Hospital of noninfectious hepatitis.

The disease was not considered contagious, according to Winnebago County Coroner Duane Moore.

The child was a member of St. Gabriel Catholic Church, Neenah. Survivors were her parents, six brothers, including a twin brother, four sisters, maternal grandparents and paternal grandmother. Funeral arrangements are pending at the Kessler Funeral Home.

Lt. Gov. Simon May Buck Daley Machine

Belief Grows He'll Run for Illinois Governor Regardless of Chicago Democratic Backing

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

CHICAGO — The privately stated intention of Lt. Gov. Paul Simon to run for the Democratic nomination for governor next year even if it means bucking mighty Mayor Richard J. Daley in an open primary puts the power realities here in a new, highly complicated perspective.

Daley organization politicians here dismiss Simon's talk as a bluff, but Democrats who know him best believe he is deadly serious. Indeed, Simon now plans a statement early this autumn announcing he will enter the primary for governor, with or without the organization's blessing. That would signal the possibility of the first independent Democrat nominated for governor since Dick Daley's reign began in 1955.

Yet, nothing is so simple in the labyrinth of Illinois Democratic politics. Ironically, a declaration of independence by Simon could have precisely the effect opposite to what he intends: the preservation of the Chicago organization's dominance over the state's Democratic party and its national role as supreme arbiter in president-picking. In fact, looking at events eight months away, that seems the most probable outcome.

Newspaper Publisher

Just a month ago, Simon was heavily favored to be endorsed by the "slatemakers" (regular party elders headed by Daley) early next year for governor even though he is far from the organization's specifications. A downstate weekly newspaper publisher, Simon, 42, compiled a distinguished record as a crusading liberal legislator and once barely missed censure for a magazine expose about the notorious Illinois legislature.

But Simon's hand was strengthened by the announcement for governor last November of Daniel Walker, resigning as $100,000-a-year general counsel of Montgomery Ward to fight the Daley machine. Completely disdaining the entire slatemakers procedures, Walker promised to go straight into the Democratic primary against overwhelming odds. Walker's credibility as a machine-busting reformer would suffer, however, if the ogre he was exorcising turned out to be Paul Simon.

Evans

May Not Need Him

Besides, since being slated for lieutenant governor in 1968, Simon has grown ever closer to Daley and the organization — to the dismay of fellow liberals. Ten days ago, three anti-machine Democrats — Congressman Abner Mikva and state Reps. Anthony Scariano and Robert Mann — met secretly with Simon to warn him that young activists distrusted him and were backing Walker.

But Simon's deeper problems have sprouted within the organization, becoming evident after Mayor Daley's massive reelection to a fifth term. With that extra confidence, key organization lieutenants hinted they did not need Simon to beat down Walker's quixotic primary bid but could win with one of their own.

And picking one of their own is decidely safer politics for machine lieutenants who agree with whispered comments of the late Paul Powell, downstate regular stalwart, about Simon as he took the oath of office as lieutenant governor in 1969: "Them leopards never change their spots." Their question: would Simon as governor become that most dreaded monster — a Democratic governor making decision independent of city hall on state legislative and national political matters?

Thus, although Daley will maintain Buddha-like inscrutability until the last moment, his key lieutenants are talking up their first choice: Thomas Foran, who as U.S. attorney in Chicago gained national fame as prosecutor of the Chicago conspiracy seven. They would have the slatemakers give Simon the dubious honor of running uphill for the senate against heavily favored Republican Sen. Charles H. Percy.

No Quarrel With Percy

It is just such talk that produces Simon's private pledge to run in the primary against Foran if ignored by the slatemakers, a pledge buttressed by the fact that he has no quarrel with Percy's record in the senate. The proof of Simon's determination is whether he actually says these things publicly this fall.

Daleyologists doubt this will frighten the mayor. Rather, it may convince him that Simon is at heart an independent who could not be trusted as governor of Illinois. With heavy support from downstate regulars, Simon would have a fighting chance, head-to-head, with Foran. But here insurgent Walker plays an unwitting foil for Daley, irrevocably determined to stay in the primary even if he and Simon split the anti-organization vote.

Accordingly, a chain of events over which the principal actors lack control may produce a three-way primary won by the Chicago Democratic organization, perpetuating its power in Springfield and national Democratic politics even beyond Daley's retirement. Full success, however, depends on the widespread assumption by Democratic regulars that Foran — or any Democrat — can topple Republican Gov. Richard Ogilvie, an assumption deserving full exploration in a future column.

$97.3 Million Voted To Bury SST Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill providing $97.3 million in burial costs for the supersonic transport plane has passed Congress and awaits only President Nixon's signature.

The Senate agreed Monday to appropriate the funds, dropping $58.5 million it earlier had earmarked for repayment to airlines involved in the SST program. The House had refused to appropriate the extra money.

The money to close down SST work was tacked onto a $7.2 billion miscellaneous money bill.

Hong Kong Suit Isn't Always The Best Buy

MADISON — "A custom-made suit or dress from Hong Kong tailor shop intrigues many state residents," says Atty. Dan Milan, director of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture's bureau of consumer protection.

"But, ordering custom clothes from tailor shops located in Hong Kong or any place else half-way around the world can sometimes be frustrating and costly," Milan warns.

Sales representatives of foreign located tailor shops are now traveling throughout the U.S. taking orders for tailor-made suits and dresses, claiming low-low prices. "Although many customers are satisfied with purchases, some have encountered problems," Milan points out.

Problems have varied from clothes which don't fit, to unusual delays in delivery — sometimes as much as 6 months or more. These problems are difficult to solve, because some of the salesmen are "here today — and gone tomorrow" and the tailor shops are thousands of miles away. In addition, state and federal agencies have little influence in securing adjustments or delivery of ordered and paid-for clothing when something goes wrong.

Milan's advice: "Customers should weigh carefully the advantages and possible disadvantages of dealing with firms located thousands of miles away before entering an order for custom-made clothing.

Madison Elks Seek Change In Race Clause

Members Will Ask Grand Lodge to Cut 'Whites Only'

Madison Elks Lodge 410, which recently was pressured into dropping the "white-only" clause from its membership requirements, will ask for the same change in the national Elks constitution at the annual Grand Lodge convention in New Orleans in July

Madison delegates to the state Elks convention in Wausau this month introduced a resolution calling for the striking of the Caucasian clause from the national constitution and substituting "regardless of race, color or creed."

State Elks approved the Madison resolution, although the vote constituted little more than moral support since state associations have no power in the Grand Lodge

Exalted Ruler Richard D. Peeples of Appleton Elks Lodge 337 said that for the past several years the Grand Lodge has voted down the constitutional change which would end the 65-year white-only membership requisite

Yearly Resolutions

Peeples explained, however, that an increasing number of local lodges bring such resolutions to the national convention floor each year

The Appleton Lodge took a similar resolution to the national assembly in 1969. The local vote seeking the constitutional change was 75-62. Peeples said the Appleton Lodge still favors dropping the discriminatory clause

Under Benevolent Protective Order of Elks (BPOE) procedures, if the Grand Lodge approves the resolution amending the membership clause, the proposal then must be sent to all lodges for ratification vote.

The Madison Elks Lodge agreed to no longer abide by the white-only clause in the national constitution after the Madison City Council voted to deny city licenses, such as those dealing with liquor and cigarettes, to fraternal organizations and clubs that discriminate in their membership

Extension Turned Down

The council action, which was extended once, becomes effective June 1. The Madison Elks Lodge sought a one-year extension but was turned down by the 22-member council.

One of the leaders in the council effort to penalize organizations that discriminate in their membership was Ald. Eugene Parks who, at the time initial action was taken, was the only black member of the council. There now are four black aldermen.

Parks said that "practically speaking," the dropping of the white-only restriction by the Madison Lodge probably will have little effect because there are no black Elks there now (although the change was enacted just last month) and "I seriously doubt if there will be."

Parks said, however, that he thinks the national Grand Lodge eventually will drop its restrictive clause. Up to this point, though, "The national has been kind of turning its head the other way," Parks explained

Proposed Change

Daniel Aspinwall, exalted ruler of the Madison Lodge, said he has proposed the constitutional change for the last two years at the national convention

He said that this year he also will present an alternate resolution asking that local lodges be granted the option of striking the white-only restriction Such local action is not now permitted

Aspinwall said he has had several telephone conversations with the national grand ruler who indicated that he soon will issue a statement regarding the Madison lodge's action

Indians Can't Afford Vocational Schools

MADISON — Menominee County simply may not be able to pay its vocational school tax in the future, Gordon Dickie Sr., a member of the Menominee tribe, told the Senate Education Committee.

Appearing in behalf of a bill that would provide that the state pay the local share of vocational school taxes for Menominee County, Dickie said the county needs help in lieu of full state funding of vocational education

With the expiration of the Nelson-Laird federal tax-relief funds for Menominee County, Dickie said he is not sure the town and county, which are having difficulty meeting present taxes, can "take on the added burden of vocational school taxes" necessary for "a very valuable program. "It is highly important the people be given the opportunity of attending school in the vocational district, but they do not have the tax funding to do it," he said.

The state board of Vocational, Technical and Adult Education proposed that the state pay 100 per cent of he vocational school operating costs during the next biennium While Gov. Patrick Lucey admitted he accepted the concept as an appropriate goal, he could not recommend such a vast increase from the present 33 per cent state funding He therefore proposed a phased in increase in state support for the next biennium providing 40 per cent the first year and 60 per cent the second

The vocational board requested full support to reduce the burden in some districts where the costs of maintaining needed vocational programs are too high for the residents to afford.

Dickie was the only person to appear specifically on the vocational education tax bill before the committee during a hearing devoted to five bills to benefit the education of Menominees

The bills introduced by Sen. Reuben La Fave provide for changes in the state Indian scholarship program to permit scholarships for Menominees equivalent to federal grants available to all Wisconsin Indians except the Menominees

Most of the provisions of the La Fave bills are includd in Gov Lucey's budget proposal and have already been approved by a bi-partisan vote in the legislature's Joint Finance Committee.

There was no testimony at the Education committee hearing in opposition to any of the measures

Conduct Costs Chilton Students $35 Fines Each

CHILTON — Two 18-year-old high school students here each were fined $35 for disorderly conduct when they appeared Tuesday afternoon before Calumet County Judge D. H Sebora

The arrests of Daniel Roehrig, route 1 and Nicholas Tasch, route 3, both of Chilton, stems from an incident when the two youths assaulted a 14-year-old boy during a fire drill Tuesday morning at the school

The 14-year-old, an elementary school pupil, was being teased by the older youths about his hair style. He complained of head and stomach pains.

Police Chief Dan Albedyll had been called to the school by Principal James Skarda after the incident was reported

Girl Stabbed In Oshkosh

Police Seek Man Who Attacked Co-ed With Screwdriver

OSHKOSH — Oshkosh police are searching for a young man who last night stabbed a 20-year-old co-ed in the back with a sharpened Phillips screwdriver.

Police answered a call that a girl had been beaten in the front yard at 637 Franklin St., and found Miss Laura Hardesty, route 1, Markesan, in an apartment there with a metal object about ⅛ inch in diameter protruding about two inches from her left shoulder blade.

She was taken to Mercy Medical Center, treated and released.

Miss Hardesty told police she was staying in Oshkosh for the night as she had a final exam Wednesday morning. She said she was walking to 637 Franklin south from Irving Avenue and had just reached her destination when attacked.

Near Ida St., several houses north of her destination, she saw a male approaching on the same side of the street. She told police she crossed the street and he continued walking north on the east side of the street until they passed.

Heard Footsteps

She said that shortly after they passed, she heard footsteps in the grass behind her and saw the same man approaching her from behind He asked if she had a cigarette, she said

She told police she was on the second step at her destination when she was grabbed from behind and either tripped or thrown to the ground.

Miss Hardesty told police she landed on her stomach and her assailant kept hitting her on the back and her left side. When she was able to turn over, he ran toward the back of the house. She said she got up and ran a short way after him, and did not know when she was stabbed as she did not realize she had been until she entered the house.

Miss Hardesty described her assailant as about 20 years old, no taller than 5 feet, 8 inches, and perhaps shorter with dark hair, not long, but not closely cropped, and a small dark mustache. She said he was wearing a green windbreaker type jacket with white printing on the left front side.

Miss Hardesty told police the man did not try to sexually molest her.

County police stopped Manion for speeding May 15 on State 47 in the Town of Grand Chute. County Judge Nick F. Schaefer levied a fine of $20 and costs when Manion pleaded no contest to the speeding count.

Thomas E. Erler, 20, Green Bay, was fined $100 and costs and his drivers license was suspended for 15 days after he pleaded guilty Tuesday of speeding. Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer levied the fine. Erler was cited by a state trooper April 26 for going 104 miles per hour on U. S. 41, at County Trunk JJ.

Steven M. Kleist, 20, route 1, Shiocton, was fined $150 and costs, and his drivers license was revoked for 90 days, when he pleaded guilty, before Outagamie County Judge Nick F Schaefer Tuesday, on a charge of driving while intoxicated. Kleist was stopped by county police May 7 on the Muelemans Road.

Sentencing for Gary De Young, 17, 812 S. Bayview Ave., Neenah, will be June 4 on a charge of obstructing a police officer. He pleaded no contest Tuesday. Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer found De Young guilty, and ordered him held without bond pending sentencing.

Schaefer directed a presentence investigation. De Young, according to an Appleton detective, denied knowing the whereabouts of a runaway girl when questioned at the police station May 6. A complaint said De Young had spent the last four days with her.

Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer Tuesday continued the case of Michael Kuhn, 20, 712 Jackman St., to Aug. 3 for review. Kuhn pleaded guilty of issuing a worthless check. Kuhn issued the $10 check to the Holiday House, 116 N. Locust St, March 7. The note was drawn on the American State Bank.

James Palmer, 21, 204 W. Prospect Ave., who Monday was tried and convicted on a disorderly conduct count, was sentenced Tuesday to three months in the Outagamie County jail by Judge Nick F. Schaefer. Schaefer authorized the Huber Law.

KAUKAUNA — Cars owned by Richard Kuehn, 801 Eden Ave., Kaukauna, and Judy Schulz, 2575 Irish Road, Neenah, were damaged about 3 p.m. Monday when a backhoe owned by Miller Masonry, Kaukauna, slipped from a lowboy trailer and struck the cars parked on Second Street.

The unit was on a trailer being driven by Gary Meulemans, route 2, Kaukauna. Mud on the trailer and cleats of the unit caused it to slip as the trailer made a left turn from Crooks Avenue onto Second. Damage to the backhoe was not known, but traffic was tied up about an hour as a result of the mishap.

Secret Parley Penalty Bill Is Introduced

Senate Measure Also Would Void All Actions Taken

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Legislation providing fines and jail sentences for public officials who resolve public matters behind closed doors was introduced Tuesday in the Wisconsin Senate.

Under the bill, sponsored by Sen. Henry Dorman, D-Racine, all formal actions introduced, deliberated or adopted at a closed meeting could be declared void.

It also provides that all public officials or employes participating in such meetings are guilty of misconduct in office and subject to penalties of a $500 fine and one year in jail.

The bill defines a closed meeting as "any meeting or session at which the public is intentionally excluded."

The senate defeated, on a 19-12 vote, an attempt to revive a measure which would permit psycians to provide health care for minors without parental consent.

On a 29-3 vote, the senators passed and sent to the Assembly a bill authorizing the Athletic Examining Board to levy a five per cent tax on gross receipts of professional wrestling matches.

GATHER 'ROUND THE GRILL

POST-CRESCENT FOOD EDITOR
By Lillian Mackesy

Memorial Day signals the official opening of the barbecue season, so polish up the grill, gather together the charcoal, cooking irons and mitts because the weekend is long and we hope lovely.

There are excellent recipes for the cookout that can be used for the informal picnic or as part of a bigger and heartier meal. Two kinds of potato salad, both different recipes, are included in the collection along with a new twist to the popular frankfurter, an enticing recipe for turkey thighs that come out in the form of mini-roasts, a downright patriotic cheeseburger to match the mood of the holiday and a good, new-fashioned pork chop bake for either grill or oven.

There's something for everyone, stay-at-homes or vagabonds with every recipe a winner.

Happy Holiday!

STAR SPANGLED BURGERS

2 pounds ground beef
½ cup cheese cracker crumbs or soft bread crumbs
¼ cup prepared yellow mustard
2 tablespoons instant minced onion
1 egg
½ teaspoon salt
8 slices American cheese
8 hamburger rolls

Combine ground beef, cracker crumbs, mustard, onion, egg, and salt. Pat out on waxed paper to 12x8-inch rectangle: cut into eight 4-3-inch rectangles.

Cook on griddle over hot coals until done, turning once. Cut two slices of cheese in quarters: place one in upper left hand corner of each rectangle. Cut remaining cheese into ¼-inch strips; place on burgers to resemble flagstripes. Serve on rolls with additional mustard.

TOMATO-POTATO SALAD

1 envelope (5-servings) instant mashed potato granules
¼ cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 cucumber, chopped
1 green pepper, chopped
8 small tomatoes

Prepare mashed potatoes as directed on package: chill. Stir in mayonnaise, vinegar, cucumber, and green pepper. Cut each tomato into eight wedges, cutting not quite through to bottom. Fill tomatoes with potato salad mixture.

BACON WRAPPED FRANKS

10 slices bacon, partially cooked
10 frankfurters
⅓ cup prepared yellow mustard
¼ cup frozen fruit punch concentrate, thawed
10 frankfurter rolls

Wrap partially cooked bacon around each frankfurter. Fasten with wooden food picks. Combine mustard and punch; brush sauce on frankfurters. Grill over hot coals, turning and brushing frequently with sauce. Serve on rolls. If there is any sauce left over, spoon on frankfurters.

LEMONY POTATO SALAD

1 pkg. scalloped potatoes
3 cups boiling water
½ cup chopped celery
2 hard cooked eggs, chopped
1 teaspoon parsley flakes
½ cup mayonnaise
3 tablespoons lemon juice
Lettuce leaves, if desired

Combine potato slices from package of scalloped potatoes with boiling water in saucepan. Simmer 15 to 20 minutes or until tender. Drain thoroughly; chill. Stir in celery, eggs, and parsley flakes. Combine seasoning mix from potatoes with mayonnaise, and lemon juice; stir into potatoes. Serve cold.

PORK CHOP BEAN BAKE

1 (2-can) pack, 20½ ounces beans 'n fixin's
4 pork chops, ¼-inch thick
1 teaspoon seasoned salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
4 onion slices
4 green pepper slices

Mix together contents of beans 'n fixin's cans in greased 10x6x2-inch baking dish. Brown pork chops in skillet; sprinkle with salt and pepper and set atop beans. Top chops with onion and green pepper slices. Cover. Bake at 350 degrees 1¼ hours. Recipe makes four servings.

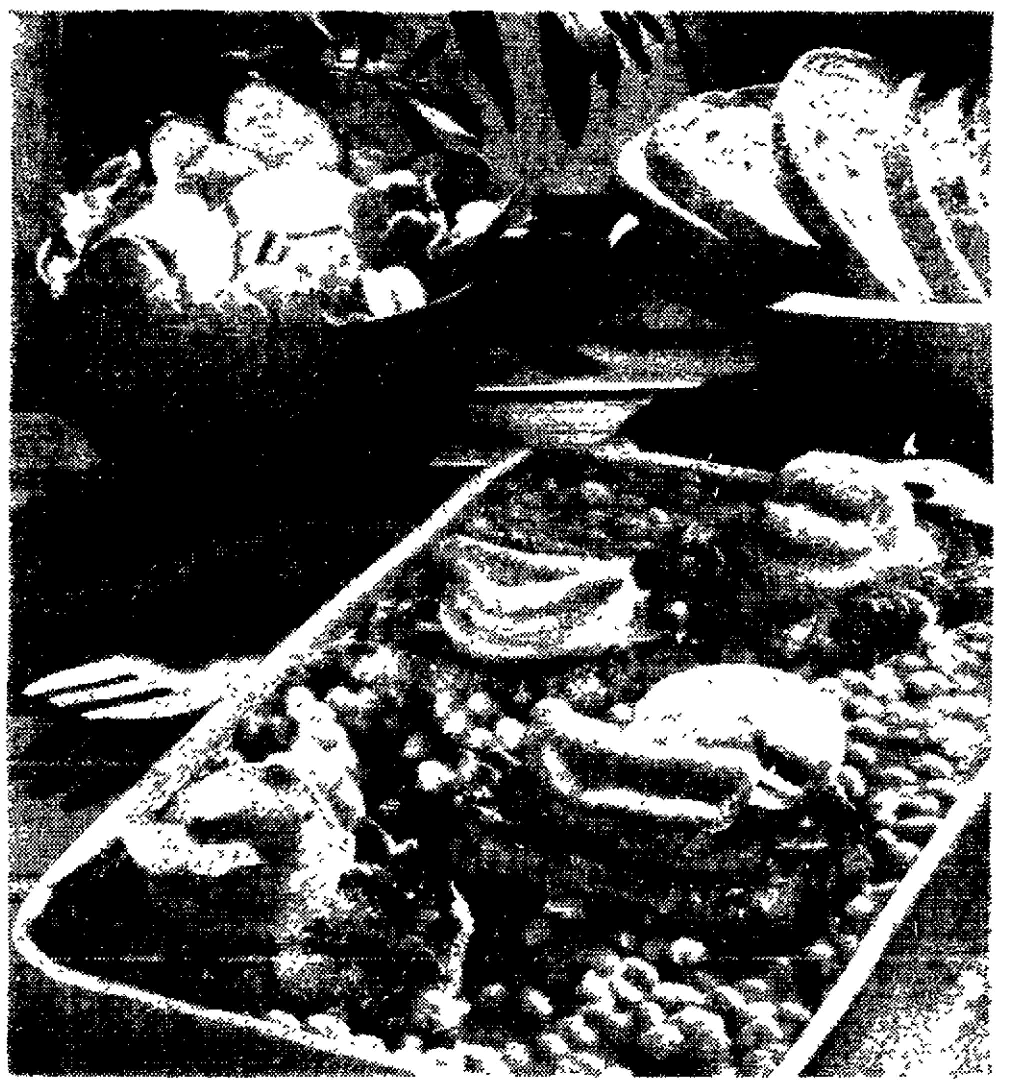
GRILLED MINI ROASTS

2 frozen turkey thighs, thawed
½ cup butter, softened
1 (7-ounce) pkg. cheese garlic salad dressing mix
¼ cup finely chopped onion
¼ cup shredded carrot
Sliced bacon

With sharp knife slit meat along length of bone. Pull meat apart exposing bone. Continue cutting meat away from bone being careful not to cut meat in half; flatten. Combine butter and salad dressing mix. Spread each flattened thigh generously with butter mixture. (Extra seasoned butter can be stored in refrigerator.) Sprinkle with onion and carrot. Fold meat over. Wrap bacon around each thigh, covering completely. Tie securely with string.

Place each thigh on double thickness of heavy foil. Seal tops and ends securely leaving a little space for expansion of steam. Grill over hot coals. 4 inches from heat, 1 hour and 30 minutes or until tender; turn occasionally. Remove meat from foil; continue grilling until bacon is crisp, turning often. Recipe makes six to eight servings.

The Star - Spangled Burgers above are a special treat for Memorial Day. They really are the ever popular cheeseburger all dressed up for the holiday.



A New Pork and bean product with its special tomato sauce in a smaller can piggy-back fashion can help make the Pork Chop-Bean Bake, right, a delicious supper dish. Onion rings and green pepper rings decorate and flavor each chop.

Frankfurters wrapped in bacon, far left, are basted with a sweet-tart glaze to make them different. As a go-along, serve a Lemony Potato Salad that starts with packaged scalloped potatoes. The envelope of seasoning in the potato package mixes with mayonnaise and lemon juice for a zesty dressing.

Coffee Barbecue Sauce Marinates Lamb Kebabs

The wonderful combination of lamb and vegetables cooked kebab fashion has been popular fare for centuries in some parts of the world.

A new note has been added when the meat is enhanced by a tangy blend of coffee, wine and spices. With Curried Rice and plenty of freshly brewed coffee, the kebab season is off to a savory start.

LAMB KEBABS

For each skewer use three 2-inch cubes lean lamb, 2 slices of green pepper, 2 mushrooms, 2 squares of bacon and 2 small onion quarters.

Marinate lamb in Coffee Barbecue Sauce for several hours. Drain, saving marinade.

String ingredients on skewers, beginning and ending with lamb. Brush with sauce, place on grill about 4 inches above glowing coals. Grill 15 to 20 minutes, turning often and brushing with sauce each time. Slide off skewers on to plates. Serve with Curried Rice.

COFFEE BARBECUE SAUCE

1 cup vegetable oil
⅓ cup strong cold coffee
2 tablespoons dry red wine
1 tablespoon wine vinegar
⅛ teaspoon garlic powder
¼ cup sugar
Dash Tabasco
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Combine all ingredients. Beat with rotary egg beater or electric blender until thoroughly mixed. Makes about one and two-thirds caps.

CURRIED RICE

Toss cooked rice with melted butter into which curry powder has been blended. Use one teaspoon curry powder to one-fourth cup melted butter.

Pork Stuffing Sandwich Bake

Try combining a Spicy Pineapple Stuffing, made from pineapple tidbits, ground cloves, chopped onion and celery, salt, pepper and enriched bread crumbs, with juicy pork chops for a delicious casserole.

In a 1½-quart rectangular baking dish, arrange stuffing and seasoned, shoulder pork chops, upright, alternately, beginning and ending with stuffing.

Roast in preheated 325 degree oven until internal temperature reaches 170 degrees (about 30 to 40 minutes).

Baste occasionally with pineapple juice.

Recipes for Bland, Low-Residue Diets

Special diets are not always a "sometime" thing. Often it is necessary to stick to one for a long period of time. This can prove to be not only dull but it can take all the fun out of eating.

A new recipe can pep up the spirits as well as the menu. Any new recipe should be checked to make sure it fits into the diet. If it does, then make it and enjoy it.

Here are two designed for those on bland or low residue diets. The meat ball recipe starts with the old favorite hamburger and mixes it with rice cereal. This helps keep the meat moist and the meat balls tender. To add flavor as well as color the meat balls are glazed in a cranberry sauce lightly seasoned with orange juice.

For menu variety try creamed eggs in a cheese sauce. Eggs, which are nutritious and economical, make a pleasant topping for toast when served in a mild cheese sauce.

MEAT BALLS IN CRANBERRY SAUCE

- 1 pound ground chuck
- 2 tablespoons quick-cooking rice cereal
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon celery salt (optional)
- 1 tablespoon vegetable oil
- 1 can (8 oz.) jellied cranberry sauce
- ¼ cup orange juice

Combine meat, rice cereal, parsley, salt and celery salt, mixing lightly with fork. Form into eight meat balls. Brown lightly in oil in skillet, about 3 to 5 minutes. Cover and cook 10 minutes. Pour off any fat.

Combine cranberry sauce and orange juice, beat with fork until smooth. Pour over meat balls. Cover and simmer 5 minutes. Recipe makes four servings.

CREAMED EGGS IN CHEESE SAUCE

- 1½ cups milk
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons quick-cooking rice cereal
- 1 teaspoon butter
- ¼ cup grated Swiss cheese
- 3 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
- Buttered white toast

Combine milk and salt; scald. Sprinkle in rice cereal and cook, strring constantly for one minute. Remove from heat, cover and let stand 4 minutes. Add butter and beat with an electric or hand beater or whir in a blender until smooth. Add cheese and eggs and heat, stirring now and then. Serve on toast. Recipe makes two or three servings.

NOTE: Sauce will continue to thicken as it heats. However, for thicker sauce use 3 tablespoons rice cereal.

Julie to Begin New Career In Teaching

WASHINGTON (AP) — Julie Nixon Eisenhower has obtained a job teaching fourth grade in a school in Atlantic Beach, Fla., starting in the fall, the White House announced today.

It is the first job in this field for the President's 22-year-old daughter.

Julie will have about 30 pupils in Atlantic Beach Elementary School, not far from the residence she and her husband, Ensign David Eisenhower, have rented during the period that David is assigned to naval duty aboard the USS Albany. The ship's home base is in nearby Mayport, Fla.

Julie has completed courses in education at Catholic University here and will take her comprhensive examinations July 24.

She still has one more course —Introduction to Educational Research—to take before she can get her master's degree in education. Julie has said she plans to take it at Jacksonville University in Florida.

The salary she will receive as a teacher was not disclosed by the White House. Press Secretary Constance Stuart said it will be the same as that of any teacher in the Duval County school system, based on her education and credits.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE

World Champions

by IRA G. CORN JR., TEAM CAPTAIN

In a social bridge game, if a declarer plays his ace to drop a singleton king behind him, the defender either holds his cards closer or moves further away from the table.

When this happens in a top-level match, the defender may react in the same manner. However, there is usually a logical reason for declarer's unusual play.

In a recent invitational tournament in New York City, today's slam hand decided a close match between two of the contending teams. The Precision Club Team (former stars of the Italian Blue Team, Georgio Belladonna and Benito Garozzo, and Robert Jordan and Arthur Robinson of Philadelphia), won the tournament convincingly.

2 ♥	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	4 ♦	Pass
4 ♥	Pass	5 ♣	Pass
6 ♥	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Queen of spades.

After North raised hearts, South embarked on a series of investigatory cue bids, hoping to reach a slam if two quick spade losers could be avoided. North kept discouraging South by returning to hearts repeatedly. However, North bid the slam when it became apparent that South's worries were over the spade situation.

At one table, after the lead of the spade queen, declarer took a heart finesse, which lost to West's singleton king. Another spade lead was ruffed by East and the slam went down to defeat.

With New York's Paul Trent as declarer, the bidding went as shown.

Trent won the spade in dummy, and instead of finessing in hearts, he led a heart to his ace and dropped West's singleton king. He played the heart queen to confirm the position and then reached dummy via a high club and a club ruff. The marked finesse of East's heart 10 resulted in Trent taking all 13 tricks.

Did West push his chair further away from the table or did he hold his cards closer to his vest? Neither. Trent had good reason for his play.

Trent's play was based on clues provided by the bidding. At the other table, West had remained silent and the declarer did not play West for a seven-card suit. Trent deduced that West's vulnerable overcall, because of the paucity of high cards, could well be based on a seven-card suit.

Trent took advantage of all the evidence at hand and made the winning play. He deserves full marks for helping his team win a close match.

Two Area Girls Recipients of Scholarships

The Valley Business and Professional Women's (BPW) Club awarded scholarships to Ruth Elliott, Shattuck Senior High School, Neenah, and Peggy Green, Wrightstown High School, Kaukauna, was the Appleton BPW's recipient.

Wisconsin's BPW clubs raised $713 in scholarship funds for the sixth annual high school workshop sponsored by the clubs at Trees for Tomorrow Camp held May 16 through May 19 with 31 girls from state schools attending. A total of 23 clubs raised funds for the scholarships.

Valley BPW member, Miss Molly Nelson, 2000 Merritt St., Oshkosh, was a counselor at this year's camp. Scholarship chairman, Miss Viola Krueger, Merrill, was a camp advisor.

Thirty-nine girls from Milwaukee high schools attended a workshop that ran concurrently, making a total of 73 participants, the largest number to date this spring.

Field trips included the Demonstration Forest, a beaver dam, a fire protection demonstration and a tour of Bond Falls in Michigan.

A total of 1,500 high school boys and girls from schools throughout Wisconsin and Upper Michigan are attending the series of three-day workshops at Trees for Tomorrow Camp on school time this spring and fall.

Next September members of BPW clubs throughout the state will attend their ninth environmental workshop at the camp.

Mrs. Orville Myse, volunteer, and Mrs. Fern Shadduck of the Outagamie County Hospital Occupational Therapy Department, adjust decorations Monday for the evening's "Over the Rainbow" Ball. The event is an annual one for hospital patients. Outagamie County Hospital is one of the few mental institutions in the state to hold social activities outside of its facilities. Patients Enjoy 'Over the Rainbow' Ball

One-hundred thirty residents of Outagamie County Hospital were dressed to the hilt as they danced the night away Monday at their ball, "Over the Rainbow," at the Country Aire.

Patients were driven to the annual event in a caravan of 35 cars, all manned by volunteers.

The evening was a swirl of evening gowns which had been donated by a variety of clubs and were fitted and pressed by Red Cross members 87 gowns in all. Hair styles fit the contemporary scene as 22 members of the Appleton College of Cosmetology spent the afternoon combing and curling, shaping and styling.

Ball goers munched on cookies made by the Homey Helper Homemakers and the Tri-County Homemakers' clubs and which were served by the girls from Project Christopher, a young peoples' group who spend each Tuesday evening with the patients.

Tree decorations were made by the patients under the direction of volunteer, Mrs. Frank Weyers, while Mrs. Betty Forster supervised the making of the rainbow by members of the Occupational Therapy department. Corsages, all donated by local florists, added floral brightness to the event.

Like any ball there must be a king and queen. Monday night was no different. Names were drawn from a bowl and the announcement was made. Both were crowned in the evening's excitement and the queen, in long velvet cape, carried her long stemmed roses with pride and regality. She was indeed queen for a night.

St. Mary Class Of 1946 Sets Reunion June 26

MENASHA — St Mary High School Class of 1946 will have its 25th reunion June 26 at Germania Hall. A cocktail hour will precede a 7 p.m. dinner and dance.

Letters have been sent to former classmates announcing the event. Reservations deadline is June 1. They can be made with James Zielinski, 724 Wilson St.

Also serving on the committee are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bauer, Edward Harris, Joan Zelinski, Richard Schaefer and William Laemmrich.

Marathon Bridge To Begin Sept. 1 at St. Thomas More

Women and couples who are interested in joining the marathon bridge group sponsored by the Ladies of St. Thomas More have been asked to contact Mrs. Sam Khoury or Mrs. Leon Ulman. Play is scheduled to begin Sept 1.

The group held its first annual social at the parish hall recently. Co-chairmen were Mrs. Ulman and Mrs. Khoury with Mrs. Robert De Groot and Mrs. Joe Schwaller serving as hostesses.

Proceeds from the marathons will be used to purchase new kitchen equipment for the church.

Wood Loss Huge

Enough timber is lost to insects, disease, old age, wind and fire in western forests every year to build nearly one million homes, forestry officials estimate. Half of this doomed timber, they add, could be salvaged, if access roads and management were adequate.

It's the dippiest. Dean's French Onion.

Here's your dip to zip up chips . . . or any other snack. Dairy-fresh sour cream flavored with just enough mild onion. Good and tangy with crackers, vegetables, on baked potatoes, too.

Appleton Yacht Club Launches Into Spring

Appleton's Yacht Club opened the navigation season with a party Saturday evening at the club Entitled, Launch Into Spring, the event included cocktails, dinner and dancing.

Below, Mr. and Mrs. David Jacobs, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sprangers and Mr. and Mrs. Burt Tusler took the early opportunity to inspect crafts all ready for a summer of crusing lakes and rivers. At left, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Wickert stop to talk with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Schomisch.

Delicious Hors d'oeuvres tempted all of the guests at the party and Mr. and Mrs. Loyal Wichman couldn't resist sampling some of them.

Your Problems

Making a Joke Might Have Been Easier

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Do I lack a sense of humor? Is there something wrong with me that a small incident of no consequence bothered me for hours?

While browsing in a book store, I encountered a woman I had not seen for months. We were never close friends but we met frequently at civic functions. She was always pleasant. The woman greeted me with a look of horror and disbelief. Finally she shouted, "My God! You're alive! I heard you had died!"

I stood there, dumbfounded. She realized she had startled me with that odd greeting and attempted to recoup by trying to remember who it was who told her, etc, etc. The more she talked, the worse it became. Finally I mumbled, "Nice to have seen you." and walked off. Why was I so bothered? What should I have said? Thanks for your help. —

Landers

Alive and Well in Wichita Falls

Dear Alive: You were bothered because the thought of death bothers most people. But I'll bet the lady with the loose lip was more bothered than you. You might have made a joke of it and said, "Like most rumors — it was grossly exaggerated," and changed the subject.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 19 and have been married for nearly two years. My husband and I got along beautifully until six months ago. Suddenly he became indifferent. He doesn't talk to me and when I ask him what's wrong he says, "Nothing. Don't nag me."

For the last year all he seems interested in is having a baby. I want a baby eventually, but I'm not sure I am ready for motherhood yet.

Do you think if I had a baby it would help our marriage? Right now I am thinking about divorce. My husband hasn't spoken to me for a week. Please tell me what to do — Biloxi, Miss.

Dear Lox: The last thing you need is a baby. I suggest counseling to help you determine whether or not your marriage is salvageable before you bring a child into the world. I hope the 17-year-olds out there who think marriage is such a ball will read your letter twice.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A while back you printed a letter from "Mr. Haddit" who proceeded to tell the world how he handled folks who just happened to be in the neighborhood and decided to drop in. "Mr. Haddit" had a sign made and he mounted it directly above the front door. It read: "If you are uninvited and unexpected you are also unwanted. Go away." I wish I had the courage to do the same.

I am a freelance writer who works at home. Somehow people don't believe writing is work. They can't understand that a creative person can sit for hours without writing a single sentence then suddenly rockets go off in his head and he must translate them into words immediately, or they are lost. I can't tell you how many times, after a dry spell, I have just begun to connect — a car drives up and unexpected company appears. The creative mood slips away as the guests jabber on and on — and I do a slow burn.

As I said, Ann, I don't have the nerve to hang the sign, but if you will print my letter I promise to have it framed and mounted over the doorbell — Haddit, Jr.

Dear Jr.: Here it is. Call the framer and good luck.

Do you feel ill at ease. . .out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Spoonable, Sippable Party Dessert

Spoon and sip are the key words for these spring party foods which suit the season both in looks and flavor.

The elegant Strawberry Souffle is a heavenly mousse adaptation of the familiar strawberries and cream combination. Flavored with kirsch, a clear cherry brandy, it's a delicious party dessert. It's pretty served in tall dessert glasses, individual bowls or in a bowl for passing, but it's particularly spectacular made in a souffle dish. The high collar of foil that's added gives the dessert extra height. At serving time, the collar comes off and the souffle puffs high above the baking dish rim.

To add a touch of substance to the airy mixture, lady fingers sprinkled with orange liqueur line the bottom and sides of the souffle dish. Serve with a garnish of sliced, fresh strawberries for a pleasantly tart contrast to the delicate taste.

For the sippables, use a blender or beater to combine fruit and spirits into creamy tasting mixtures, as much dessert as beverage.

Peach Smash is just that, barely thawed frozen peaches, milk, Bourbon and fruit liqueur whirled to rich smoothness in a blender.

For a creamy Daiquiri Freeze, combine rum and lime juice with lemon sherbet and crushed ice and blend or beat until thick and foamy. Both are long drinks, to slowly sip and savor.

Here are the recipes:

COLD STRAWBERRY SOUFFLE

1 pkg. (16 oz.) frozen strawberries, thawed
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
4 eggs, separated
6 tablespoons kirsch
⅛ teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
6 lady fingers, split
2 tablespoons orange liqueur
Fresh strawberries for garnish

Wrap a folded strip of foil around a 6-cup souffle dish to make a 2-inch collar above the top of the dish.

Drain one-half cup syrup from strawberries and sprinkle gelatin on top to soften. Puree strawberries, with remaining juice, in blender or push through sieve.

Beat egg yolks, kirsch and salt together in top of double boiler. Stir in softened gelatin. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly until gelatin dissolves, about 5 minutes. Remove from heat. Cool to room temperature. Stir in pureed strawberries.

Beat egg whites until soft peaks form. Very gradually add sugar, beating until stiff. Stir about one-fourth of beaten egg whites into strawberry mixture. Fold strawberry mixture into remaining egg whites. Fold in whipped cream.

Sprinkle split lady fingers with orange liqueur; arrange on bottom and along sides of dish, cutting to fit if necessary. Turn souffle mixture into dish. Chill until firm, at least 4 hours. Gently remove foil collar. Garnish souffle with fresh berries and top each serving with additional sliced berries if desired. Recipe makes 10 to 12 servings.

Delightful For a Warm weather party is the light and beautiful Strawberry Souffle that is served cold with tall, cool drinks. The smooth dessert-beverages are Peach Smash, a blend of frozen peaches, milk and spirits, and Creamy Daiquiri Freeze with its lemon sherbet base beaten with lime juice and rum.

PEACH SMASH

1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen peaches, slightly thawed
1½ cups cold milk
3 ounces Bourbon
3 ounces peach or apricot liqueur

Reserve four peach slices for garnish. Put remaining peaches, with juice, in blender container. Add other ingredients and whirl until well combined. Garnish each serving with a peach slice. Recipe makes four, 8-ounce drinks.

CREAMY DAIQUIRI FREEZE

1 jigger light rum
2 tablespoons lime juice
½ cup lemon sherbet
½ cup crushed ice
Lime slice

Combine ingredients, except lime slice, in blender container and whirl until foamy. (Or beat with rotary beater in mixing bowl). Pour into 8-ounce glass and garnish with lime slice. Recipe for one serving.

Smart Shopper's Recipe for Week

Brioler-fryers are a popular, regular choice of budgetwise shoppers. The trick is to collect recipes to vary the menu.

Chicken every Sunday now can change to chicken through the week to keep the food budget balanced, only the poultry must be prepared in many ways to keep the bird tempting.

A good way to handle the shopping end is to take advantage of poultry specials, and when one is found buy several birds and put away in the home freezer. Frozen fresh chicken will keep its fine quality for about six months provided the freezer temperature is zero or colder.

Cooked chicken also can be frozen, however, it must be used within 30 days.

For immediate use of the fresh bird, there should be a leeway of only a day or two from purchase.

Here is one of three excellent recipes which come from the home economists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Called "Change of Pace Chicken Recipes," they are for filing away along with those family favorites. The first is a quick brunswick stew, teamed with beef chuck.

QUICK BRUNSWICK STEW

1¼ pounds beef chuck
1½ pounds chicken, disjointed
2 teaspoons salt
4 cups water
½ cup raw rice
½ pkg. frozen okra
1 can cream-style corn
1 can small potatoes, quartered
1 can small onions
2½ cups canned tomatoes
1 tablespoon sugar
3 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper
½ teaspoon celery seed

Cut beef into one-inch cubes; combine with chicken and salt in water. Use Dutch oven or heavy cooking vessel. Bring to boil, then cover pan, reduce heat and simmer for about one hour. Remove beef and chicken from broth. Remove bones from chicken; cut chicken into small pieces.

Measure out one cup broth; reserve remaining broth for other uses, such as soup or casseroles.

Place beef, chicken and one cup broth back in kettle; add raw rice, okra (frozen), rest of ingredients to kettle. Simmer, covered, about 45 minutes. Recipe makes six to eight generous servings.

Lower Heat for Glass Baking Dish

If bread or cake recipes call for a baking pan and only a glass baking dish is available in that size, don't rush to the hardware store. Reduce the required oven temperature by 25 degrees to accomodate the extra heat retained in glass. Without the oven temperature adjustment, the product may over brown and become hard and crusty.

'Killer' Strikes As Milwaukee Bows to Twins

Killebrew Slams 492nd Career Home Run in First

By BOB GREENE

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Harmon Killebrew's two-run home run in the first inning Tuesday night moved the Minnesota Twins first baseman to within one mighty swing of the immortal Lou Gehrig.

"I knew I was just one behind Gehrig," Killebrew said. "The bench told me."

It appeared the 34-year-old Killebrew would tie Gehrig for 10th place in career home runs with 493 when he slammed a double high off the left centerfield wall in the sixth inning.

"I didn't hit it real good," Killebrew said of his double. "I knew it wasn't going to go out."

Take Lead

The first inning four-bagger, a 390-foot shot into the left field bleachers gave Minnesota a 2-0 lead. The Twins, however, needed a five-run outburst in the sixth to down the pesky Milwaukee Brewers, 8-5.

Killebrew knocked in four runs and catcher George Mitterwald hit a three-run homer to highlight the Twins' 15-hit attack.

The Brewers hit three round-trippers of their own, but all came with the bases empty.

More Pizza for Lamar

Johnson Hits 'Grand Slam' As Foxes Tip Quincy, 5-3

BY ROGER PITT

"Pizza, Dry Cleaning, Sport Shirt."

Lamar Johnson got the meaning behind the chant and powered a pitch 400 feet over the right-center field wall in the third inning to key Appleton to a 5-3 verdict over Quincy Tuesday and into a virtual share of the Midwest League's Northern Division lead.

Johnson, Appleton's muscular first baseman, has the biggest and most vociferous fan club of any of the Foxes. The chant was for a home run — local players are rewarded for their feats with merchandise from merchants — and barrel-chested Lamar responded with a grand slam

Set Stage

Dan Rourke led off the third with a line double into left field. Brian Downing followed with a blooped single into short center that fell between the shortstop, second baseman and centerfielder and moved on to second on a throw to third attempting to cut down the speedy Rourke. Jerry Hairston worked a walk to set the stage for "Pizza King" Johnson.

Lamar lofted a towering drive into the deepest portions of Goodland Field and it looked like the shot would be caught. But a stiff wind blowing from left to right helped the ball sail over the 400 foot mark and Johnson had his fourth homer of the season and the Foxes circled the bases with the only runs they needed.

Johnson drilled a 2-out single in the seventh, Joe Talley walked (his sixth free pass in two games), and Larry Linville sent a screamer into center to bring Johnson home.

Cedar Rapids home encounter with Danville was rained out for the second straight day and the Foxes, with their second win of the current home stand, gained a virtual tie for the division lead with a 16-10 record. CR is 15-9.

7th Straight Loss

Meanwhile, Quincy — a Chicago Cubs farm — suffered its seventh straight defeat.

The Cubs were a tough customer Tuesday taking an early lead and making continuous scoring overtures. Winner Paul Sands, 1-0, free-passed Bob Breitzman to open the game and a passed ball moved him along. Bob Schell grounded weakly to Johnson to move Schell to third and Jim McMath's TexasLeague single behind third plated Breitzman.

Fireworks of all sorts erupted in the third resulting in the expulsion of Cub's pilot Dick DeMay and heavy-hitting Randy Crews.

Slow Roller

Losing pitcher Gary Canepa opened the third with a slow roller down the third baseline for a single. Bretzman then laid down a bunt along the first baseline and Johnson made a pickup and tag — which went unnoticed by the base umpire.

Lamar Johnson

The plate umpire, looking down the line, saw the play and called Breitzman out. DeMay charged out of the coaches box and was ejected after a jaw-to-jawer with the base umpire.

One pitch later, base umpire Trytel ambled toward the Cubs' dugout and heaved Crews. Both umpires were surrounded by the entire Quincy team in a heated debate for several minutes.

Everybody lost track of the proceedings and on the first pitch following the debate, Schell was called out on strikes. He won his argument, however, when the umpires conferred and decided it was only his second strike.

Schell bounded a single off the legs of Rourke for a run-scoring

Joe Foy Sparks Senators Past Former Mates, 6-5

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Joe Foy used to have his problems with a manager named Williams in Boston. Now it's the Red Sox who are having trouble in Boston with Foy and a manager named Williams

Foy lashed out four hits Tuesday night and singled home the winning run in the 11th inning to give the Washington Senators a 6-5 triumph over his former team. His error in the eighth had set up Boston's tying run.

It was Washington's second victory in a row over the Red Sox, with Foy collecting seven hits in nine at-bats and raising his average from .204 to 246. He's batting .571 against the Red Sox this season.

In other American League action, Oakland beat California 7-5 in 13 innings. Detroit whipped the New York Yankees 7-4, Minnesota downed Milwaukee 8-5 and Kansas City trounced the Chicago White Sox 8-3. Cleveland was rained out at Baltimore with the Orioles leading 2-1 in the second inning.

Drafted Off Roster

Three years ago, after a series of run-ins with manager Dick Williams of the Red Sox, Foy was dealt off to Kansas City. He subsequently wound up with the New York Mets and Washington drafted him off the Mets' minor league roster last winter.

Now Foy can't say enough about his current manager, former Boston great Ted Williams.

Foy's game-winning hit followed walks to Toby Harrah, Tim Cullen and Del Unser. Earlier, the Senators took a 3-0 lead in the first inning, with Frank Howard drilling a bases-loaded single. Reggie Smith hit a solo homer for Boston in the third as the Red Sox battled back.

Foy's old boss, Dick Williams, also had a happy evening. Dave Duncan's second home run of the game tied the score with two out in the ninth inning and Williams' Oakland

Sees Possible Chaotic Situation

Betting Worries Rozelle

NEW YORK (AP) — Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the National Football League has his guard up against any attempt to legalize betting on pro football—a decisive stance he first took when a teen-aged gambler belted him in the chops.

Provoked by the possibility of an extension of New York's Off-Track Betting venture to include professional team sports, Rozelle said Tuesday that such attempts would create a "chaotic situation" by undermining "the sport's backbone—integrity."

And he used the belt in the chops to illustrate the danger in the situation.

Recalling a game early in his commissionership that he attended at New York's Yankee Stadium, Rozelle remembers two teen-agers slipping in behind him in the two empty seats in his box during the first quarter of a Giants' game.

Had $5 Bets

"Since the two seats weren't being used I let the kids sit there." Rozelle explained. "It was obvious they had $5 bets on the game because by the second quarter I kept hearing things like 'the game's a fix' and 'Tittle's going in the tank.'

"So I turned around and told them I didn't mind them sitting in the seats, but to knock it off. And they kept quiet during the third and fourth quarters. But as soon as the gun sounded ending the game, I felt a tap on my shoulder.

"I turned around—and that's when I got a belt in the chops."

Rozelle used that story to emphasize that permitting bets on games "changes the character of the fan—rather than an interest in how his team does he now has a financial interest in the outcome. We could be badly hurt. And so we're deeply concerned."

The subject became a concern for Rozelle when Howard Samuels, who runs New York's OTB operation—which permits legalized betting on horse racing at betting parlors away from the track—publicly stated a natural extension would be betting on team sports.

The concern increased with the knowledge that other locales are considering legalizing such betting, raising staggering possibilities. The NFL draws an average 700,000 people to its stadiums every weekend and as many as 20 to 30 million watch a Monday night game on television.

Patriot '9' Nips Polar Bears

MENASHA — Mike Heinritz singled and scored the winning run in the eighth frame of an extra-inning contest to give Appleton-East a 2-1 victory over Hortonville in subregional baseball toruney game played here Tuesday.

The Patriots will play Menasha Thursday for the subregional title.

With the score tied, 1-1, in the East half of the eighth, Heinritz' hit was followed by Jerry VanderLinden's sacrifice which moved the winning run to second. Scott Smith then hit a grounder to the shortstop who threw a ball that was bobbled by the first baseman, as Heinritz sped across the plate.

Dave Meyer, who whiffed eight Polar Bears and gave up only two hits, smacked a key single to left in the second inning which drove in the first Appleton run. Meyer, a sixth pay, walked no one.

In the sixth frame, Hortonville's pitcher, Randy Mulroy, displayed some hitting talents of his own as he tripled to center. Mark Everts then came through with a single to drive Mulroy across with the tying run.

Don Werner had three of the Patriots' 10 hits in four trips to the plate. Lee Bauman added two. The winners stranded a total of 11 base runners.

Meet Postponed

The Appleton West sub-sectional tennis meet, scheduled for Tuesday, was postponed until today because of cold weather.

Whitlinger Leads Advance to Sectional

Menasha, Neenah Share Net Lead

NEENAH — Defending state singles champion John Whitlinger of Neenah led four singles semi-finalists through the Neenah WIAA subsectional tennis tournament here Tuesday.

Neenah and Menasha tied for first place with 10 points and were followed by Wisconsin Rapids with 7, Stevens Point 6, Clintonville 5, Marinette 4 and Shawano and Berlin 0.

Singles players who earned berths in the Appleton West sectional Friday, in addition to Whitlinger, were Ron Race, Wisconsin Rapids; Dave Fletcher, Stevens Point; and Bill Van Lieshout, Menasha.

Doubles finalists are Steve Loker-Dave Fuchs, Neenah, and Nick Grode-Bruce Allen, Menasha.

Whitlinger didn't drop a game in whipping Bob Rhynas, Wisconsin Rapids, and Chuck Grant, Clintonville.

Van Lieshout beat Jim Rosenow, Clintonville, 6-0, 6-2, and Kevin Johnson, Marinette, 6-3, 6-1.

Clintonville's points were gained by Grant on a 7-6, 6-2 win over Todd Engel, Shawano, and the doubles unit of John Jartz and Jim Hanusa, who beat Chuck Rogers-Jim Bahr, Berlin, 7-5, 6-4. They were eliminated by Loker-Fuchs, 6-2, 6-0.

Nagan Sets Pace

Kaukauna '9' Wins Sub-Regional Crown

SEYMOUR — Tom Nagan fanned seven batsmen and delivered a key single in the sixth inning to drive in two runs in aiding Kaukauna to a 5-4 subregional baseball win here Tuesday afternoon.

With the score tied, 3-3, in the Kaukauna half of the sixth, Bob VandenHeuvel reached first on an error before Leon Franzke singled and Dave VanderLoop walked. Nagan then came through with a single which put the Ghosts ahead to stay.

The Indians tallied two runs in the first inning. After the first batter walked, Murray Skenadore and Tony Kraft singled before Jim Wickesberg drove in a run with a squeeze bunt. Catcher, Bernie Huettl then hit a grounder to second which allowed Skenadore to cross the plate.

The Ghosts' single runs in the first and second innings were keyed by singles off the bats of Dave VanderLoop, Jeff Gustman and Bob VandenHeuvel.

Trailing, 5-3, going into the seventh, Seymour managed to score once as Huettl slammed a 2-out double which allowed a runner, who had reached first on an error, to come home.

The Ghosts next meet the winner of the Pulaski subregional tournament.

Kevin Conway Named Badgers' '72 Net Captain

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Scott Perlstein of Milwaukee was named the University of

Kevin Conway

Wisconsin's most valuable tennis team player Tuesday at a banquet honoring the 1971 squad.

Kevin Conway of Menasha received the sportsmanship trophy and was named next year's captain.

Janet Puent, La Crosse coed, was the recipient of the women's most valuable player award.

UW officials announced that six new outdoor tennis courts will be built by fall. The project will require no state money, they noted.

6 FVA Teams Compete

Rockets Rated Big Favorites in East Regional Track Test

Neenah Shattuck, which had little trouble winning the first Fox Valley Association track and field title, should have even less of an obstacle Thursday. The Rockets meet the same field — minus top challenger Oshkosh — in the Class A regional meet at Appleton East's Pickett Field.

The Rockets tallied 87½ points to Oshkosh's 42½ in the FVA meet. Other FVA teams complete the field in the Class A meet and their point totals were Appleton West 33, Kimberly 29½, Appleton East 22½, Kaukauna 18 and Menasha 7. Oshkosh competes in the Fond du Lac regional.

Boys placing in the top three in the regional will qualify for the sectional to be held at East June 1.

Competition begins at 4:15 p.m. with the field events. Running events are slated to start at 4:30 p.m.

Schaller Dominates

Once again, Greg Schaller is expected to have things his own way in the 220 and 440, while Steve Suechting resumes his head-to-head battle with a field of Appleton Hurdlers for the Rockets. Each took a pair of first in placing Neenah last weekend.

Rod Burrell and Tim Moriarty, of Appleton West, and Randy Leach, of Appleton East, shaped up as Suechting's top challengers in the hurdles.

Nobody has been able to keep up with the speedy Schaller in the 440 other than Oshkoshs' Jeff Hieslberg, and even he wasn't up to the :49.75 clocking the Rocket star turned in Saturday.

Two Oshkosh dashmen were Schaller's closest challengers in the 220. Schaller's :22.6 is 3-10ths better than Kimberly's Steve Vanderweilen — a likely pursuer Thursday.

Hawley Defends

Ed Hawley defends his 100 crown but his :10.8 in the FVA is likely to be beaten. Hawley, Menasha's Mark Feit and the Papermaker's Nick Gaffney all have turned :10.5.

Appleton West's Steve Dercks renews his chase of Neenah's Don Gullickson (1:58.7) in the 880. Appleton East's Tim Werner has been having things his own way in the mile.

Chances are good that the 2-mile will see the 10-minute barrier broken by an FVA runner for the first time in the regional. Rick Johnson and Dave Schaller, both of Neenah,

Starts Third Decade

Dodgers Honor Mays

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A setting such as Dodger Stadium had to be unique for an evening honoring a San Francisco, nee New York, Giant But the man in question was Willie Mays, who today began his third decade in the uniform of a Giant

The Los Angeles Dodgers made a pretty big thing about Tuesday night's encounter with their traditional rivals the Giants, since May 25 marked the debut of Willie Howard Mays Jr 20 years ago as a New York Giant.

Mays, who turned 40 earlier this month, said he was pleased with such a testimonial. But as befits such a statistic—40 years of age and 20 with the same club, he observed

"I'd just as soon there wasn't so much attention paid to it All I want to do is help win ball games and forget about years"

Brief Ceremony

There was a brief ceremony at home plate as most of the 40,042 fans were in their seats before the game Big Don Newcombe, a former Brooklyn Dodger pitching great, who described Willie as "an old nemesis," acclaimed Mays for his endeavors both on and off the playing field

"I'd be lying if I said I wasn't nervous," Mays told the crowd after it gave him a standing ovation "It's a situation a lot of ballplayers would like to be in, playing in a strange place and getting this kind of reception"

Felda Sparks Oshkosh State

Titan '9' Meets Loras College

ST JOSEPH, Mo (AP)—Oshkosh State faces Loras College of Iowa tonight in the second round of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics' Area Four baseball playoffs

Oshkosh defeated Missouri Western 5-3 in the opening round of the double-elimination meet Monday while Loras stopped Winona State of Minnesota 3-1

Western had a nine-game winning streak until it met the Titans

Brian Felda, Oshkosh cleanup batter, contributed a two-run single to a three-run rally in the eighth inning after Western took a 3-2 lead.

It was the second defeat against seven victories for Terry Younghanz, Western's best pitcher. He was chased in the eighth, and Oshkosh's John Stoffel picked up his fourth victory against three losses.

A pair of Loras singles and Mark Miller's triple gave the Duhawks two runs in the fourth, leaving Winona hurler Todd Spencer with a 6-1 record.

Western then eliminated Winona 8-5 in a loser bracket playoff. Rick Griffith's fourth-inning homer and teammate Rick Kesee's two-run homer in the ninth doomed Winona.

The loser of the Loras-Oshkosh game will face Western

Girl Named as Top Athlete

PLATTEVILLE, Wis. (AP) — For the first time in the eight-year history of the Coach W. P. Hill Scholarship, a Platteville High School girl was named the winner Tuesday.

Mary LeMoine, a track and gymnastics star, was awarded the $300 scholarship, named in honor of the retired athletic director, for being the school's outstanding athlete.

Eagles See CFL Invasion

Rozelle Opens Peace Talks

NEW YORK (AP) — Commissioner Pete Rozelle, trying to avoid an open conflict between his National Football League and the Canadian Foot ball League, prepared today to take the Greg Barton case to the CFL for discussion

"We have compiled the information on the case and we plan to talk to the CFL," he said after a meeting of NFL owners Tuesday "I don't know what the chances are of getting Barton back until I talk to them"

Rozelle is trying to put out a spark that has raised talk of war between the leagues The spark is Barton an obscure quarterback with Detroit who suddenly became a cause celebre when he was traded to the Philadelphia Eagles, apparently agreed to sign with the Eagles and then was spirited away by the Toronto Argonauts of the CFL

"If we do have any evidence that Toronto tampered by talking to Barton before he played out his option we would prefer to give it to them (the CFL) first" Rozelle said 'We have no contractual agreement with the CFL, only an oral agreement against tampering, but both sides would prefer to avoid a bad situation If we have evidence, I would hope that they (the CFL) would abide by it"

Meanwhile, Coach Jerry Williams of the Eagles, hard-pressed for a quarterback after trading Norm Snead the same week he thought he had acquired Barton, talked about a possible war between the leagues

Bulldogs Post 10-2 Victory Over Waupaca

Meet Plainfield For Sub-Regional Crown Thursday

WAUPACA — Steve Sanders hurled a strong game for New London and Mike Baehman blasted a 3-run opposite-field homer in the first inning as the Bulldogs eliminated Waupaca, 10-2, in WIAA sub-regional play here Thursday.

New London, 9-5 for the season, faces Plainfield in the sub-regional finale Thursday.

The Bulldogs iced the decision in the fifth with a six run uprising as 10 men treked to the plate and New London belted six hits. Mark Egland's bases loaded triple was the key blow.

Sanders scattered seven hits and didn't allow a run until late in the contest. He fanned 10 and didn't walk anyone.

Dean High, Steve Jansen and Dave Greina each collected two hits for Waupaca, 6-8.

Baehman had a pair of hits. Roger Steingraber contributed two singles, while Bob Meyer a pair of singles and double to the 10 hit attack.

Angels' May Suffers Minor Wrist Fracture

OAKLAND (AP) — Southpaw pitcher Rudy May of the California Angels suffered a hairline fracture of his right wrist in a fall at his home Monday night, the Angels reported Tuesday.

May will be examined by Dr. Robert Kerlan in Los Angeles Wednesday to determine the extent of the injury.

Hayes Arrives Early in Effort to Boost Ticket Sales

HOUSTON (AP) — The Big E, Elvin Hayes, who helped set an Astrodome basketball record, arrived Tuesday to start preparations for another.

It was Hayes, then playing for the University of Houston, who helped draw a record crowd of 52,693 fans to the Astrodome in 1968 when the Cougars took on the undefeated UCLA team led by Lew Alcindor.

Slow Selling Tickets

Hayes, now with the San Diego Rockets of the National Basketball Association, and Alcindor, with the Milwaukee Bucks, will be on the same side here Friday night when the NBA All-Stars take on the top players from the American Basketball Association in the first meeting between the two leagues.

Hayes came in early in an attempt to help boost the slow-selling tickets. So far, Astrodome officials say, only about 8,000 have been bought.

The players of the two leagues are playing the game in defiance of the club owners to show that a merger of the two leagues, now being sought, is not necessary for the leagues to compete.

The players do not want to see an end to the bidding war for player talent, which would occur with a merger. If the leagues merge, since the players have started the all-star game, they might have a strong say in controlling it thereafter.

Arkansas' Dicus, 4 More Rookies in Chargers' Fold

SAN DIEGO (AP) — All-Southwest Conference wide receiver Chuck Dicus of Arkansas and four other rookies have signed to play for San Diego, the National Football League club announced Monday.

The 6-foot, 175-pound Dicus, San Diego's seventh-round draft choice, holds Razorback career receiving records of 120 catches, 17 touchdowns and 2,018 yards gained.

Also signing, Chargers' General Manager Harland Svare said, were running back Eric Humston, the No. 15 draft choice from Muskingum; linebacker Mel Rogers and defensive back Charles Sasser of Florida A&M and placekicker William DuPree of South Carolina.

North Star '6' Obtains Nevin

Ranger Captain Scored 21 Goals In Past Season

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Right winger Bob Nevin was headed today from the New York Rangers to the Minnesota North Stars, who squeezed by the National Hockey League's midnight trading deadline with their third deal in four days.

In return for the 33-year-old Ranger captain, the North Stars will deliver a Minnesota player to be named at the conclusion of the NHL draft early next month at Montreal.

"I've been trying to deal for a right winger ever since Christmas," said Wren Blair, North Star general manager, "and am awfully happy to land a big and strong forward who comes back just as hard as he goes down the ice."

The 6-foot, 190-pound Nevin scored 21 goals and 25 assists for the Rangers, who like the North Stars advanced into the Stanley Cup quarter-finals this spring before bowing out.

Big Ten Recommends Scholarship Cut in Seven Minor Sports

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — The Big Ten spring business meeting wound to a close today after recommending that athletic scholarships be trimmed in minor sports and granting fifth-year financial assistance to slow-graduating athletes.

The league's policy making faculty representatives adjourned Tuesday after authorizing a committee to study specific tender quotas on a reduced basis for seven minor sports as well as approving tuition-and-fees grants for fifth-year athletes

The spring business session was to end today with a meeting of the athletic directors.

Tuesday's action appeared to be a sort of contradictory set of moves in the face of growing financial pressure in athletic administration

In voting tuition and fee help for fifth-year student athletes, the conference acted against criticism that many athletes, especially black students, were left high and dry in seeking a college degree after their varsity eligibility ended within four college years

In effect, this put the Big Ten in the position of financing a sort of "red-shirt" policy without the on-the-field benefits in aiding an athlete through five college years.

The reductions of minor sports tenders from a total of 34 per school on a catchall basis to 16 specifically was an admitted economical move But league spokesmen contended it also would equalize rather than de-emphasize competition in the involved sports

Proposed is an annual allotment of four scholarships in track; three each for swimming and baseball; two each for wrestling and gymnastics; and one each for golf and tennis; a total of 16

Average of 30

This compares with an average of 30 football tenders and six basketball scholarships annually.

However, the new minor sports tender setup would allow six additional at-large scholarships for any of those sports and potential division of those six into 12 partial tenders for either tuition and fees or room and board.

Marcus Plant, of Michigan, faculty group spokesman, said the Big Ten action was "the first move in this direction in the country."

single. Quincy chipped a run off the lead in the fifth as McMath drilled a single into right, moved up on a ground out to first and scored on Chris Ward's single.

Rusty Bourg relieved Sands in the seventh and yielded one hit in his stint.

In addition to his hitting heroics Johnson spend a busy night at first making 14 putouts He turned in the defensive gem of the game in the seventh when with one out and men at first and second Ward sent a liner destined for right field over his head. Johnson made a leaping stab of the ball and narrowly missed a double play at second

Marichal Stops Dodgers on Seven Hits

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers helped Willie Mays celebrate his 20 years in the big leagues with a barrage of birthday cakes .. but couldn't cut it against Juan Marichal as usual

Mays was rewarded with 20 cakes prior to the San Francisco-Los Angeles contest Tuesday night at Dodger Stadium, then Marichal went out and starved the Dodgers on seven hits in a 9-1 Giants romp.

The triumph continued Marichal's spellbinding successes against his Los Angeles cousins. The Dodger-killing dandy has now mastered them 36 times in 49 career decisions.

His mastery is so complete, in fact, that he must endure the scorn of the usually-placid Dodger audience.

Marichal, who pitched a 1-0 beauty against Los Angeles at Candlestock Park on May 15, said he received letters from Dodger fans saying the wind was the only reason he won there.

Mets Down Phils

Elsewhere in the National League, the New York Mets trimmed the Philadelphia Phillies 5-4 in 12 innings; the Houston Astros stopped the San Diego Padres 3-2, the Montreal Expos edged the Atlanta Braves 3-2; the St Louis Cardinals bounced the Chicago Cubs 4-2 and the Cincinnati Reds turned back the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-4

Marichal, who has a history of pitching his best against the Dodger aces, beat Bill Singer for the second time in two weeks.

Bullet Bill, blasted out by a six-run sixth inning that included a three-run homer by Marichal, is off to the worst start of his career with a 2-9 record.

Los Angeles Manager Walt Alston said he still has no intention of taking him out of the starting rotation despite the statistics.

2-Out Single

Bob Aspromonte drilled a Jim Bunning offering into the right field corner to score the winning run for New York in the bottom of the 12th. Donn Clendenon roared home from second base on the two-out single.

Tim Foli reached first on an infield error to open the inning Tommie Agee walked and was forced at second by Clendenon, as Foli took third Foli was caught at home on Cleon Jones' grounder to shortstop Larry Bowa, but then Aspromonte delivered the game-winner.

Johnny Edwards brought Houston from behind with a three-run homer in the seventh inning. Clay Kirby had a 2-0 cushion and was working on a one-hitter when John Mayberry singled and rode to third on Norm Miller's double. Edwards then ripped a two-out homer, his first of the year.

Fred Gladding pitched a scoreless ninth inning for Houston, although rapped for a double and infield single, to preserve starter Jack Billingham's first victory since April 18

Ron Swoboda's bases-loaded walk in the seventh inning scored the winning run for Montreal. Swoboda's walk off Phil Niekro followed passes to Rusty Staub and Bob Bailey and an error by second baseman Felix Millan on Ron Fairly's sharp grounder.

The Expos had tied the game 2-2 on Fairly's run-scoring single in the fifth.

Ted Simmons' run-scoring single in the third inning broke a 2-2 tie and St. Louis iced the victory over Chicago with a run in the fourth on a single by Joe Hague, walk to Julian Javier and single by Ted Sizemore.

St. Louis southpaw Steve Carlton survived Chicago's two-run third. Jim Hickman singled home the second run of the four-hit inning, but afterward Carlton worked six straight innings without allowing a safety.

Cincinnati, helped by three Pittsburgh errors, poured seven runs across in the first two innings to beat the Pirates as Ross Grimsley nailed down his first major league victory.

Walk to Start

Pittsburgh's Bob Moose walked Pete Rose to start the game and Woody Woodward and Lee May both were safe on infield errors. Tony Perez drove in one run with an infield out and Bernie Carbo delivered two more with a single.

Buddy Bradford singled to start the second and Grimsley sacrificed But Moose fired widely into center field the ball skittering to the wall as Bradford scored and Grimsley raced to third. Rose doubled for the second run and May cashed in another with a sacrifice fly before Johnny Bench belted his 14th home run.

Speedy Duncan Dealt To Redskins by SD

NEW YORK (AP) — Washington Coach George Allen, the No. 1 trader in the National Football League, moved to strengthen his defensive forces again Tuesday by acquiring defensive back Speedy Duncan from the San Diego Chargers.

While Duncan's acquisition was hardly an eye-opener it did continue the pattern Allen has established since taking over as the Redskins' new coach—trading draft choices to bolster a Washington defense that ranked 12th in the National Conference last season.

Duncan, who also doubles as a punt and kickoff return specialist, was the sixth defensive player acquired by Allen during the off-season. The price he paid was two future draft choices.

Allen previously had acquired four members of the Los Angeles Rams—defensive end Diron Talbert and linebackers Maxie Baughan, Myron Pottios and Jack Pardee—and defensive end Ron McDole from the Buffalo Bills.

While the Rams-Chargers transaction was the only one concluded as the NFL meetings got underway, it was learned that two players of more significant stature were available for the right price—Denver quarterback Steve Tensi and Detroit running back Nick Eddy.

Lou Saban, the Broncos' coach and general manager disclosed that Tensi was considering renouncing his retirement if a trade could be concluded "His feeling," said Saban, "that he'd do a much better job somewhere else."

Tensi, a six-year veteran, announced his retirement following the 1970 season, an injury-filled year in which he played in only seven games, completing just 38 of 80 passes for 539 yards and three touchdowns.

Saban, who acquired quarterbacks Don Horn from Green Bay and Steve Ramsey from New Orleans in off-season trades, has told Tensi that he would agree to trade him once "Steve makes a definite commitment to return.

fifth, and Tommy Harper led off the sixth with a blast into the left field stands.

There were also three doubles and a triple in the game as seven pitchers—four by Milwaukee—saw action

Seven Pitchers

"There were a couple of encouraging signs," said Brewer Manager Dave Bristol. "We finally started getting some extra base hits and John Morris pitched very well."

Morris, who had been on the disabled list, was touched for only one hit in 2 1-3 innings. He struck out one and walked none.

But, pitching honors went to Minnesota reliever Tom Hall, who hurled 3 2-3 innings, gave up one hit, walked one and struck out seven

Killebrew, who will turn 35 next month, said he was not aiming for any specific number of home runs.

"I'm just trying to play everyday," he said. "We're trying to win some games and I'll take the homers if they help."

Bucks to Face ABA's Condors

Exhibition Game Set Next Oct. 10 At Pittsburgh Arena

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Condors of the American Basketball Association announced Tuesday they'll host the Milwaukee Bucks, champions of the National Basketball Association, in an exhibition game here next Oct 10

"We're proud as can be to be the first to announce a game between an ABA team and an NBA team," Condor General Manager Mark Binstein.

"This game is as official as anything can be official," he added. "It is in no way contingent on whether Congress accepts or rejects the request put before it by the two leagues.

"That request asks only for exemption to allow a common draft. The ABA-NBA merger has already been completed.

The exhibition game, which the Condors said will be played at the Civic Arena, would be the last for the Pittsburgh team before the start of the regular season.

"We are in process of arranging games with several other NBA teams," Binstein said.

A's went on to beat the Angels on Reggie Jackson's two-run blast in the 13th.

3-Run Homer

Dick Green hit a three-run homer for the A's while Ken McMullen and Roger Repoz connected for the Angels.

The red-hot Tigers blew a 3-0 lead but ripped into relievers Lindy McDaniel and Jack Aker for four runs in the seventh and whipped the stumbling Yankees, who have dropped nine of their last 11 games. The Tigers have won seven straight.

Singles by Al Kaline, Jim Northrup and Norm Cash tied the score, the go-ahead run scored on a fielder's choice and Aurelio Rodriguez and Ed Brinkman added run-scoring singles.

Home runs by Gail Hopkins and Paul Schaal helped the Royals trim the White Sox. Schaal also drove in a run with a double, Ed Kirkpatrick had two run-scoring singles and Cookie Rojas cracked a two-run double. Jay Johnstone walloped a pinch homer for the Sox.

Yanks Deal Curt Blefary To Oakland

DETROIT (AP) — Veteran outfielder Curt Blefary of the New York Yankees has been traded to the Oakland A's in exchange for right-handed pitcher Darrel Osteen, who will be assigned to their Syracuse farm club, the Yankees announced Tuesday night.

Osteen was on option by Oakland to their Iowa farm team in the American Association.

In 21 games Blefary batted .194 with one home run and two runs batted in.

In a separate transaction, the A's sent outfielder Steve Hoviey to their Iowa farm team in the American Association to make room for Blefary.

Fox Cities area schools will compete in Class B and Class C regional track meets at a number of sites Thursday and Friday.

Area schools assigned to the Green Bay East Class B field Thursday include Hortonville, New London, Clintonville, Waupaca and Seymour.

Hortonville's top threats appear to be Kevin Robbins and Roger Warning in the high jump and by John Ziegler in the dashes and long jump.

Steve Trauger and Robbie Slosarek figure to key the New London effort, with hurdler Cal Hanschke also a strong threat.

Chilton will compete in the "B" field at Kohler Friday while Omro and Winneconne compete at Ripon the same day.

In a Class C meet at Marion Friday, entries include Little Chute, Bonduel, Freedom, Manawa, Weyauwega and Shiocton in addition to the host school.

Brillion, Hilbert, Wrightstown and Reedsville will compete in the "C" bracket at Kohler. Iola-Scandinavia and Amherst will enter the Stevens Point "C" meet.

White Sox Will Make 1st Pick

June 8-9 Dates For Major League Free Agent Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — The Chicago White Sox will pick first when organized baseball conducts its summer tree agents draft here June 8-9.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, announcing the format for the draft Tuesday, said the major league clubs, as in previous years, will pick in the inverse order of their 1970 finish.

The selections in the second phase of the draft, which involved "active" and "delayed" sections, are determined by drawings.

Following the White Sox in the regular draft will be San Diego, Milwaukee, Montreal, Kansas City, Philadelphia, Washington, St. Louis, Cleveland, Atlanta, Detroit, Houston, California, New York Mets, Boston, Chicago Cubs, Oakland, San Francisco, New York Yankees, Los Angeles, Minnesota, Pittsburgh, Baltimore and Cincinnati.

The Washington Senators will have the first selection in the "delayed" phase of the draft, which includes players drafted before last January who remain unsigned.

3 Teams Tied In Meet for Junior Highs

After the completion of the field events Tuesday, three teams are tied for first place in the annual Appleton City Junior High School track meet which will wind up with the running events this afternoon.

Madison, Einstein and Roosevelt each have 46 points and Wilson has 35.

One record was established in the field events when Scott Taylor tossed the shot put 45 feet 3½ inches to break the old mark of 42 feet 1-inch set by Howie Hamann in 1955.

Competition this afternoon began at 3 p.m.

Your Money's Worth

Seek Good Advice on Your Air Conditioning

BY SYLVIA PROTER

Your demand for central air conditioning has been soaring at an annual rate of 22 per cent these past five years. In 1971 alone, more than 1,250,000 of you will buy it for your homes — half having it installed in your new homes, half having whole-house systems put into your existing homes. Even now, over 7 million U. S. homes have central cooling, and despite the '69-'70 recession, all records surely will be shattered during this summer's home buying-improvement season.

Porter

What does this mean to you, the millions of young couples planning to buy your first home? Can you afford it? What factors should you consider? What pitfalls?

Here are answers to key questions, based on an interview with J. W. Kennedy, president of York Division of Borg-Warner Corp., a leading manufacturer of air conditioning systems.

Q. How much will central air conditioning add to the cost of building a new home?

A. A whole-house system can add from $600 to $2,800, says Kennedy — whith such factors as size, layout and the location of the home having a direct bearing on the cost.

While there is no single average figure, Kennedy emphasizes that installing a system at construction time will save you a lot of money because the builder usually is able to buy equipment in quantity at less cost and labor costs will be cut by the fact that installation of ductwork will be easier.

Q What about installation costs in an existing home?

A Here costs can range from $800 to $2,300, Kennedy estimates, because your needs may differ from your neighbor's, one house may have more or less shade from the sun, more or less glass area, different insulation etc. Or you may save a lot if existing ducts from your hot air system can be used for air conditioning.

Q What is the operating expense for central conditioning?

A The Air Conditiong & Refrigeration Institute calculates that a two-story house with three bedrooms would require a 36,000 BtuH central air conditioning system — one that can remove 36,000 Btu's of heat per hour. This would cost about $118 a year in an area of Texas which has a long cooling season and high humidity, about $56 a year in Southern California where the operating season is shorter and less humid; about $74 a year in the mid-Atlantic area.

Q What are basic guides for the homebuyer or owner?

Seek Reputable Company

A Before you make any commitment, ask a full-time air conditioning expert from a reputable company to analyze your needs and give you a responsible estimate of the cost. Beware the glib salesman who tries to sell you a central conditioning system as if it were a "plug in" appliance. The individual characteristics of your home must be taken into consideration if you are to get a reliable estimate and system.

Ask a residential specialist at your local utility to estimate what your system will cost you to operate. The local climate and cost of power are the two major factors in operating costs, but there are other variables too: the quality of your home's insulation; the type of wall construction; how the family puts the system to use.

Slash your operating costs by setting your system at the desired temperature and leaving it there. Just as a steady driver gets more gas mileage from his car than the gas-and-brakes driver, so the owner who keeps a steady temperature has lower operating costs than the owner who turns the conditioning on and off.

Measure the high costs of air conditioning against the offsets in your comfort, increased efficiency, reduced cleaning bills, the like — and the fact that your house will have a better resale price because it will include the system.

Ludwig Faces 90 Counts

Freedom Tavern Operator's Case Continues Tuesday

Joseph Ludwig, 41, route 1, Kaukauna, the operator of Ludwig's Lanes in Freedom, appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Tuesday on 90 counts of selling beer to minors and permitting them to loiter in his tavern.

County Judge Nick F. Schaefer adjourned the case to Tuesday, to allow Ludwig time to consult an attorney. Ludwig posted $1,000 bond. He waived the reading of the multiple count complaint.

Of the 90 counts, 68 are for selling beer to minors and 22 for permitting them to loiter.

County Sheriff Calvin Spice and Dist. Atty. James Long brought the charges after interviewing over 120 Freedom area young people Monday. According to the complaint, 90 of them admitted under oath to having obtained beer at Ludwig's or being permitted to remain inside over the past year, most of them within the last month. The youths were between 15 and 17.

Spice and Long initiated the investigation after a traffic accident about midnight Saturday on County Trunk E. that claimed the life of Pamela Giesen, 17, route 1, Kaukauna. Authorities said that statements they obtained after the crash indicated that the four occupants of the car, three of them under 18, had been at Ludwig's before the accident.

Proposed Tavern On South Side Gets No Backing

An Appleton City Council committee again is recommending turning down a license application to permit a tavern in a south side quonset hut formerly used as a church.

Ald. Glenn Thompson (13th) moved for rejection of the application by the welfare and ordinance committee Tuesday. The committee passed the motion and sent it to the council for final action.

The license is being sought by Michael V. Goehler, Jr., and John J. Bogl, Jr., for the hut at 1513 E. Cass St., just west of Walter Avenue.

Thompson said his objection is based on location. The building is close to a number of residences, and several of the occupants have opposed permitting a tavern to operate there.

Thompson has been instrumental several times in having license applications turned down. Last month, Goehler ran unsuccessfully against him for alderman.

Sulphite Liquor Use On Roads Is Proposed

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A bill offered in the Wisconsin assembly proposes to put pressure upon state and local highway officials to use more sulphite liquor in the maintenance and construction of public roads.

Sulphite liquor is one of the waste products of some paper manufacturing plants, and the material has been used in some localities at the option of local officials and with the cooperation of manufacturers interested in avoiding disposal in public streams where it creates a liability upon them for prosecution under the water pollution laws.

Authors of the measure are three representatives of paper manufacturing districts.

Moore Reports Sales Gains

Waupaca Company Says 1970 Total Hit $2.4 Million

WAUPACA — Sales of A. E. Moore Co., manufacturers of residential and commercial automatic garage door operators, topped $2.4 million in 1970 — a new record — W. W. Spiegler, president, said today.

"This new sales record represents more than a 30 per cent gain over the previous year and, in the past three years, the firm has nearly quadrupled its sales," he said in the annual report.

"During the year, more than 30,000 garage door operators were produced at the three local plants, making the firm the largest independent manufacturer of residential garage door operators in the nation," Spiegler added.

Annual Meeting

The firm's annual stockholders meeting will be Saturday at the Waupaca Country Club.

Moore also manufactures dumbwaiters.

To aid in sales and service, two new sales branches were opened during 1970. Distribution in Illinois, eastern Iowa and Missouri now is being conducted through Moore-0-Matic Central in Villa Park, Ill., with a second branch established in Minneapolis to service Minnesota, North and South Dakota, and Northern Iowa.

Plans are underway for a New York branch to serve eastern states.

Stockholders can tour the manufacturing facilities Saturday, starting at 1 p.m. The annual meeting is scheduled to start at 5 p.m. after which the directors will meet.

Principal officers of the company are Spiegler, Vilas Branhart, vice president, and M. E. Mather, vice president-secretary.

Kingsbury to Remain Open At Sheboygan

SHEBOYGAN — The Kingsbury Brewery at Sheboygan will not be closed as was planned by owner, the G. Heileman Brewing Co., La Crosse.

The announcement to abandon shutdown plans came after the firm negotiated an agreement to end a 25-day strike at Kingsbury. The three-year agreement was accepted by Brewery Workers Local 277 in a vote Tuesday.

Production is scheduled to resume today. The plant has been shut down since May 1.

The settlement came on Monday when Heileman officials had planned to begin moving machinery from the plant to La Crosse. Heileman acquired the Kingsbury brewery and its label in 1960.

Russell G. Cleary, Heileman president, said the "ability of our negotiating teams to reach an agreement" allowed reconsideration of the closing decision. He had said May 14 that the strike had nothing to do with the closing plans.

The new pact calls for wage increases totaling 75 cents. It reportedly was overwhelmingly accepted by the union local.

The Kingsbury plant employs 100 persons. Earlier this year, it had 140 but several were laid off when production of the Blatz brand was moved to La Crosse and Newport, Ky.

Debentures At Nino's Converted

About 97 per cent of the debentures issued by Nino's, Inc., Milwaukee-based parent of Nino's Steak Roundup, Appleton, have been converted into common stock in the restaurant chain, stockholders were told Tuesday.

The firm has 250,328 shares outstanding and may issue more this year, Nino F. Costarella, president, said. The firm operates 23 restaurants in four states and has four more under construction.

The board of directors was elected. David H. Klann, a vice president of Loewi & Co., Inc., Milwaukee banking investment firm, didn't stand re-election. His chair was left vacant.

Costarella said revenues increased in the first quarter. Earnings per share in the three months ended Mar. 28 were lower than last year but the figure of 31 cents was based on more shares outstanding.

The firm completed a 10 per cent stock dividend last year.

Milton Sattell, treasurer and a director, said the firm isn't content with the 1970 earnings. The restaurant chain last year earned 66 cents a share on a fully diluted basis, on sales of $8,263,624. Income was the highest in its 14-year history and earnings were only slightly below record levels.

First quarter totals were 22 per cent ahead of a year ago.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of Valley Bancorporation was held Tuesday at the Conway Motor Inn.

Five incumbent directors were re-elected for terms of one year. They are Robert Barker, president, The American Bank of Oshkosh; Herbert C. Holtz, president, Appleton Structural Steel Company; Gilbert J. Relien, vice president and secretary; Richard A. Stack, president, Koffend-Stack, Inc.; and Gus A. Zuehlke, president.

Zuehlke, in his annual report to the stockholders, commented on the growth of the corporation and its member banks since the registered bank holding company was organized in 1963. He stated that after the three new banks join the corporation, using Dec. 31, 1970 figures, consolidated total assets of $127,557,417 would increase to $158,455,310 and consolidated total deposits would increase from $114,212,218 to $142,137,299. Net income of the corporation was over $1 million for the first time in its history.

Zuelke also discussed services offered or contemplated by member banks. Valley Bancorporation will have 11 banks, with 16 banking offices serving eastern Wisconsin.

Officers re-elected by the board of directors were Zuehlke, Relien, Robert H. Zschaechner, treasurer and assistant secretary; and Gary A. Lichtenberg, comptroller.

Glad You Asked That

BY HY GARDNER

Q: I heard a movie radio gossiper say that Sharon Tate's widower, Roman Polanski, is filming a nude version of "Macbeth." If true, why? — P. Schiesel, New York City..

A: For box-office reasons, that's why. Francesca Annis, the actress Polanski picked, previously appeared on British TV introducing Disney's Wonderland. About performing Lady Macbeth's famous sleepwalking sequence, she explains: "I get up, walk around the bed in a kind of trance, and then get back into bed again. Completely nude . . . You know they didn't wear nightclothes in medieval days," she coyly cops out. "I'm at the director's mercy completely. But I trust him not to exploit my nudity or turn it into s o mething pornographic . . . Roman is quite tricky, but his interpretation is so good it never jarred me at all."

Q: Jean Harlow was making a movie at the time of her death and another actress was hired to complete the few remaining scenes. What was the name of the film and who was the replacement? — Mrs. Dorothy K. Carroll, Silver Spring, Md.

A: The title was "Saratoga." And the actress who stepped into Miss Harlow's shoes was her stand-in and friend, Mary Dee. Though the two blondes were lookalikes, the cameras never focused on Miss Dee's face in the few moments she was seen on screen.

Q: There's a new six-cent stamp out which reads: "Honoring U.S. Servicemen — Prisoners of War — Missing and Killed in Action." Do their families receive a percentage of the sale of these stamps? — Mrs. S.P., Arlington, Va.

A: No, it's just a tribute to our fighting men, living and dead. Like any stamp, it defrays partial cost of operating the postal service

Q: I wish Lawrence Welk would record an album of the music from "No, No, Nanette." Can you suggest it? — Mrs. Edith LaV., Detroit.

A: Your wish has already been fulfilled. Ranwood Records, in announcing the album, expresses y o u r sentiments: "Lawrence Welk and 'No, No, Nanette' were made for each other."

Q: The late Erich Maria Remarque, who wrote "All Quiet on the Western Front," did he leave any unpublished works? — Arnold K., Cleveland.

A: Yes. Remarque's widow, actress Paulette Goddard, recently turned over the manuscript of her husband's last novel ("Shadows in Paradise") to his Munich publisher. "It is," the still-glamorous Miss Goddard says, "the most personal book he ever wrote and it's going to be wonderful."

Q: I hear Bill Cosby's given up show business and gone back to school. How come? — Gregory P., Pittsburgh.

A: Bill, who always had a leaning to learning, is attending the University of Massachusetts to obtain his master's degree and teaching credentials. However, he's far from renouncing show business. While the boss is going to school his company, Jemmin, Inc., will release its first film, "Man and Boy" — a Western drama starring Cosby. Also a new album for Uni Records — dramatizing the dangers of drugs in language young people understand. Two other projects: an animated TV film and a newspaper comic strip written around his character "Fat Albert" are also being talked about.

Q: Who was it who expressed this healthy philosophy concerning boys: "A team is where a boy can prove his courage on his own. A gang is where a coward goes to hide?" — R.C.N., Richmond, Va.

A: A boy who lived his words — Mickey Mantle.

Q: We have a boxing hassle raging at the Jaycees. Some members insist Henry Armstrong was the only champion to hold three titles at once. I say Bob Fitzsimmons accomplished that feat years earlier. Who's right? — Walter H. Romine, Greensburg, Ind.

A: Nat Fleischer, editor of Ring magazine, rules against you. Says Armstrong was indeed the only fighter who held three titles at one time. Fitzsimmons wore three crowns (middleweight, light-heavy, and heavyweight) — but not simultaneously.

Q: John Wayne — who's been making movies for years — does he have any respect for the new crop of moviemakers? — Arnold M., Houston.

A: No, he doesn't. "The men who control the big studios today . . . know nothing about our business," the Duke says. "They're in it for the buck. The only thing they can do is say: 'Jeez, that picture with what's-her-name running around naked made money, so let's make another one. If that's what they want, let's give it to them!' I'm glad," Wayne shrugged, "I won't be around much longer to see what they do with it."

Q: Wasn't Bill Terry of the New York Giants the last player to bat over .400 in the National League? Have any players hit .400 more than once? — Bill Terry, Frankfurt, Ind.

A: Your namesake hit .401 in 1930, which hasn't been matched or topped since in the National League (though Ted Williams hit .406 in 1941 in the American League). Ty Cobb batted over .400 three times: .420 in 1911, .410 in 1912, and .401 in 1922. George Sisler batted .407, in 1920 and a sizzling .420 two seasons later. And Rogers Hornsby hit .401 in 1922, .424 in 1924, and "slumped" to .403 in 1925.

Plimpton Joins Flying Apollos In Circus Act

BY TV SCOUT

7-8 Channels 11-9 — Plimpton' The Man on the Flying Trapeze is, by far, the best show in this series, a fine inside look at the circus and its people and a great display of courage by George Plimpton. He joins the Apollos, a trapeze act and he may be a "first of May" (a circus expression for a neophyte), but he really hangs in there as he tries to learn the trapeze art, despite being too tall and heavy. This builds beautiful suspense to Plimpton's actual performance and you'll feel anguish for him, both physically and mentally, as his moment in the spotlight arrives (R)

6:30-7:30 Channel 2 — Men At Law deals with a confidence man, but he's a likable sort and you'll find yourself rooting for him as he tries to swindle a rotten landlord about to evict the con man and his family. (R)

6:30-8 Channel 5 — Men From Shiloh has a suspenseful Western. Stewart Granger needs surgery and Lee Majors takes him to a town where the only doctor is in jail, due to be hanged the next day. It takes a lot of talking to convince the sheriff and the judge to let the doctor out of jail long enough to perform the operation. (R)

8-9 Channel 5 — An Evening with the Harlem Globetrotters presents the great and zany basketball team and has host Joe Garagiola and comedian Nipsey Russell on hand to liven things up should they get dull (an unlikely possibility). The show spotlights most of the old and some of the new comic routines that the Globetrotters have developed during their 43-year history.

10:30-11:30 Channel 2 — Some cliche characters are on hand at the Medical Center. There's Stefanie Powers back from Mexico with a gangrenous leg, being treated by hippie-looking young doctor Gary Lockwood (who is married to Stephanie in real life). His unorthodox appearance alienates her father (Dana Elcar) and a stiff-necked doctor (Andrew Duggan). (R)

9-10 Channel 5 — Four-in-One McCloud deal with the wild time when the rodeo comes to New York. Yup, you'll see the new Madison Square Garden here. Seems two cowboys are bitter rivals, both after the same prizes and women. When one is murdered, the other is suspect. (R)

9:30-10 Channels 11-9 — NFL Action deals with the off-the-field lives of Tim Rossovich, Philadelphia Eagles linebacker and Dickie Post, San Diego Chargers back.

$150 Ring Is Found In Child's Slipper

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Mrs. Kathy Dillon opened the box of a newly purchased pair of children's house slippers and found a diamond ring. Officials at the store where she bought the slippers could not locate an owner so Mrs. Dillon contacted the shoe wholesaler in Waynesville, N.C.

Finally the owner was found, Ana Mercedes Gonzales of Aquadilla, Puerto Rico. A spokesman said she must have lost the $150 ring while packing the slippers for shipment. The ring has been sent to her.

Clip, Paste and Color To Win Metal Car Kit

BY CAPPY DICK

A set of two Action-Pak Strip-'N'-Steer metal car kits manufactured by Model Products Corporation will be awarded as the national grand prize in today's easy cut-paste-and-color contest. As a matter of fact, five such national awards will be given, one for each of the five neatest and most original contest entries received from young readers in any of the cities where this column is published.

In addition, 5 qualifying local prizes will be awarded in each such city, including the Fox Cities. These prizes are Cappy Dick's transparent plastic tube banks with a metal screw-on top. The bank is made to hold dimes and a scale printed on its side tells the total value of the money it contains. The banks will be awarded for the five neatest and most original contest entries received in eacy city. Entries which win them will be reconsidered by the contest judges to find the five that are the most worthy of the national awards.

The Action - Pak - 'N'-Steer kits contain all parts needed to build two small, but realistic model automobiles with trunks, doors and hoods that open and close, seats that can be adjusted, headlights that pop open and wheels that roll and turn to left or right in both forward and reverse. The cars can be taken apart and reassembled time after time.

To try for a local qualifying prize and then a national award, simply clip out the picture of the funny dog and the bow collar, paste the dog on a piece of paper, paste the collar on him and color the picture, adding any decorations that will make it neat and original in appearance. Use paints, crayons or cutouts.

Print your name, age, address and Zip code number under the picture. Address it to Cappy Dick's Midweek Action-Pak Contest at The Post-Crescent and mail it before midnight of day after tomorrow.

Names of the prize winners will be published here and their prizes will be sent to their homes by mail. Judges' decisions will be final. All entries become Cappy Dick's property; none returned.

TOMORROW: A new game to be played with a tape measure!

Toxoplasmosis Is Not So Uncommon

BY G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Ten years ago when I was in college I had toxoplasmosis. It caused swelling that was cutting off the blood supply to my right eye. I was given massive doses of ACTH and in a few weeks I was all right except for a scar on my macula.

I have had nothing like this since, but have often wondered why I didn't ask more questions at the time. What is toxoplasmosis, does it recur, how might I have gotten it, could I have passed it on to my children? I do know it is rare, and caused by protozoa. — Mrs. G.J.D.

Right. It's caused by a protozoan This is a single-cell microorganism, described in the dictionary as the lowest form of the animal kingdom. A microscopic little thing.

This tiny parasite actually is fairly widespread, and if it manages to invade the blood stream, it can do a lot of mischief, causing aching, fever, headache, swollen glands It can settle in the eyes, brain, heart, kidneys, uterus, just about anywhere, and form cysts. In the eye, it can cause scarring of the macula, as in your case

How did you get it? Since these protozoa are fairly plentiful (and animals are known to be infected), it might have come from almost anywhere. A strong suspicion suggests that it can be acquired by eating rare or uncooked meat, and epidemics have been traced to such a source. But then again, vegetarians have had the same disorder, so evidently there are various ways of getting it.

Diagnosis is by skin and blood tests In the acute stages, effective treatment can be given, as in your case, and this is particularly necessary if the eyes are involved.

Then the protozoa become encysted and the disease becomes quiescent — usually there is no recurrence.

As to your children: when the disease affects the uterus, it is thought to cause stillbirths and spontaneous abortions. Of course children may be born with the disease if the mother has the infection actively. These infants are very ill.

But since your children were

not born with the disease, you can heave a sigh of relief now It isn't going to flare up later; you did not pass it on to them.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What can be done to help a masturbating child get rid of this habit? She is 6. What is the usual cause? In this case there was a history of pinworms. Could that have originated the habit? But chiefly, what to do? — E.W.

This is not unusual in little girls with pinworms or a vaginal irritation. Make sure the pinworms are gone, and check (or better, have your pediatrician check) to see if there is any discharge or skin irritation in the area.

If there is none, ignore the problem, as it does no physical harm About all you can do otherwise is to avoid tight underclothes, and keep the youngster occupied as best you can. Don't make an issue of it.

Dear Dr Thosteson: My doctor recently told me that I have gall stones and the only cure is surgery. So many friends have said that stones can be dissolved and I should change doctors. Can they be dissolved? Are they dangerous if not treated? — F J.

The notion of "dissolving" gall stones is an old one, but completely false. In self-defense, doctors evolved the answer that "there's nothing that will dissolve gall stones that won't dissolve the patient, too" And that's still true.

Yes, gall stones can be dangerous if not treated (meaning removed). They can cause agonizing gall bladder attacks, and the irritation from them may, in some cases, lead to cancer or other complications

Do you have a gall bladder problem? To find out how the gall bladder works and what types of trouble to look for send for Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "You and Your Gall Bladder." Write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Post-Crescent for a copy of the booklet, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover the cost of printing and handling.

Sen. Nelson Got, Donated $26,000 In Past Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Gayloard Nelson, D-Wis., has said he received more than $26,000 last year for speeches and magazine articles, the largest amount yet reported by a senator.

Nelson said in a report to the Secretary of the Senate he received $15,469 for 15 speeches and three articles. He said related expense totaled another $1,135.

Nelson also reported receiving an additional $10,550 for six speeches and seven articles and said all of these payments were contributed to tax-exempt organizations.

Included in this group were two articles for HMH Publishing Co., Inc., publisher of Playboy Magazine. Nelson said he received $2,000 for one of the articles and $1,500 for the other.

His office said both articles dealt with environmental problems.

U.S. Water Quality Still Deteriorating

BY ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — In the country as a whole, the quality of drinking water continues to deteriorate despite all efforts to clean up pollution. There are few places where water is not becoming increasingly contaminated.

Fortunately, the situation has not reached critical proportions. There are no signs that massive epidemics, which used to occur, are likely to return in the near future.

But experts in the field are becoming deeply concerned. Federal officials already consider nearly half of the Nation's 20,000 community water supply systems as below minimum standards and the water they produce as potentially though not actually, unsafe.

A Federal study released last year concluded:

"While the overwhelming majority of the people of the United States can be assured that the water they drink today is safe, several million drink water containing potentially hazardous amounts of chemical or bacteriological contamination."

Earlier this year, the quality of water reached such low levels in three cities that the Environmental Protection Agency prohibited the use of water from their systems by interstate trains, buses, ships and airplanes.

EPA, which has authority only to limit the use of impure water on interstate carriers, singled out Fall River, Mass., Asheville, N.C. and Pascagoula, Miss., as having excessive bacteria in their water. EPA later said each was "taking steps" to improve quality.

In many places, water treatment facilities have remained virtually unchanged for decades while the number and quantity of hazardous pollutants has increased at a steady rate.

Other Dangers

Bacteria is only part of today's problem. Worse dangers lie in the chemicals, metals, radiation and other materials with potentially harmful effects on people as well as animals.

Conventional methods of treatment are simply not effective in removing such contaminants. While 500 new toxic chemicals are being added each year to the 12,000 already in water supplies, water treatment facilities have not kept pace.

And neither has knowledge about their effects. As the American Chemical Society recently said:

"To little is known of the specific compounds in waste treatment plant effluents . . . We see a good deal of excitement over agricultural fertilizers and mercury, cadmium and certain other metals in water. The fact is that we have virtually no information on how these metals are affected by the processes used in the normal public water supply treatment plant."

The President's Council on Environmental Quality recently noted "disquieting quality deficiencies in some community water systems." It called for greater research efforts on the potential health hazards and more thorough surveillance of drinking water supplies.

Last year's Federal report on water supplies reported that 77 per cent of water plant operators were inadequately trained in basic microbiology, 79 per cent of the systems had not been inspected in more than a year, 56 per cent of the systems had physical deficiencies, 69 per cent did not even perform half of the analyses required by Federal standards and half of the plant officials could not remember when state or local health officials had checked the safety of water flowing into homes and businesses

In 36 per cent of water samples taken from taps, one or more bacteriological or chemical ingredients exceeded the limits set by the Public Health Service for drinking water.

Efforts to correct the situation at the Federal level include the introduction of several bills in Congress designed to strengthen EPA's authority to set drinking water standards, encourage research programs and authorize training programs for state and local inspection agencies

EPA is expected to update its own water standards later this year. The last time they were changed was in 1962.

All Have Role

One of the biggest problems is lack of funds. Compared to the size of the problem and its serious nature, the government program is tiny. The entire budget of the EPA's Division of Water Hygiene this fiscal year is $2.9 million The Administration has requested $4.7 million for next year

Private citizens also have a role to play in getting cleaner drinking water. The first thing is to find out how your local water treatment plant compares to Federal standards for physical equipment, testing facilities, personal expertise and quality of water.

For many years, the only contact between water officials and the public has been in regard to water bills. Any display of interest in water standards by the general public is bound to have a beneficial effect if only to alert water officials that they are being watched more closely.

If local officials do not cooperate, or you are dissatisfied with the quality of community water, you can show your concern by reporting the situation to higher officials at the local, state or Federal levels

And you can tell your Congressman to support bills to improve water quality. They include H.R 437, H R. 1093 and H R 5454.

President Nixon has already gotten the message He proclaimed the first week in May as "Clean Waters for America Week." But the matter will not be solved by proclamation. It will require massive public support.

Nixon Chides Bigotry of Northerners

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, making his first campaign-style trip of the year into the Deep South, has castigated some Northerners for a "double hypocritical standard" on race relations.

Appearing Tuesday in Birmingham and Mobile, Ala., the state that calls itself the "Heart of Dixie," Nixon pictured himself as sympathetic toward the South while having "utter contempt" for racial attitudes of some in the North.

Police estimated at least 160,000 persons turned out to greet Nixon in Alabama's two largest cities. The welcome was as warm as the the weather. Hostile chants were insignificantly few. Antiwar placards were far outnumbered by printed ones reading "Win in Vietnam."

Political Triumph

Clearly, Nixon and his aides savored what they regarded as a political triumph on the home turf of Gov. George C. Wallace, the President's third-party opponent in 1968 and a potential 1972 foe.

Wallace was on hand in both cities with Nixon—terming the chief executive's presence "a signal honor"—but did not ride with the President in any of the day's motorcades. The White House apparently wanted it that way.

Said one key Nixon staffer: "It was a damned good day. It restores your faith in humanity to get out of Washington."

Said another: "It looks like we're in fairly good shape in the South."

Southern Support

Nixon counted heavily on Southern support in 1968 and presumably will do so next year, although he has denied pursuing a "Southern strategy."

Alabama, which sees presidents only infrequently—58 years ago in the case of Mobile and 50 years ago in Birmingham—turned out impressively biracial crowds. Blacks seemed as enthusiastic as whites in their response.

Nixon's most pointed language came at a private briefing session in Birmingham for publishers, editors and broadcasters from the 12 states of the Old Confederacy. He said:

"I know the difficult problems most of you in the Southern states have had on the school desegregation problem. I went to school in the South and so therefore I am more familiar with how Southerners feel about that problem than others. . .

Double Standard

"I have nothing but utter contempt for the double hypocritical standards of Northerners who look at the South and point the finger and say, 'Why don't those Southerners do something about their race problem.' "

Nixon said the South in two years has undergone "a peaceful, relatively quiet, very significant revolution" in its schools. He went on:

"Today 38 per cent of all black children in the South go to majority white schools. Today only 28 per cent of all black children in the North go to majority white schools. There has been no progress in the North in the past three years. There has been significant progress in the South."

Perpetual Difference

Nixon told his listeners that racial problems "can be and must be solved." However, he said, "we must recognize that we will always have these differences" among people of different races, religions, backgrounds and age.

While traveling through crowd-lined streets, Nixon repeatedly halted his limousine to get out and shake hands. He lost a cufflink in the process.

Daughter Julie and son-in-law David Eisenhower joined in mingling with welcomers.

Mr. and Mrs. Eisenhower even held a news conference in Birmingham. David said his father-in-law has yet to make a firm decision on whether to seek a second term in 1972. But he predicted Nixon will do so and will win.

President Nixon stretches the width of his car to shake hands with members of the crowd who turned out to greet him Tuesady in Mobile, Ala. The President was in Alabama to dedicate the start of construction for the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway.

Seale Conspiracy Case Dismissed

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — The judge who dismissed murder-conspiracy charges against Black Panthers Bobby G. Seale and Ericka Huggins said finding an unbiased jury to retry them would be impossible without superhuman effort which neither side should have to endure.

Superior Court Judge Harold M. Mulvey dismissed the charges Tuesday, one day after declaring a mistrial because the jury could not reach a verdict in the case against Seale, Panther national chairman, and Mrs. Huggins, a local party leader.

Mrs. Huggins, 23, who had been in custody ofr two years, was freed after the ruling.

"Oh, look at that beautiful sky," she said softly as she walked out of the courthouse where she had been arriving daily for the trial. She was greeted with cheers as was the judge's decision.

Seale, 34, is held on other charges and is seeking bail. He has been imprisoned for two years including 14 months here.

Charles R. Garry, Seale's chief attorney, praised Mulvey's decision.

Respect Judge

"There were many times during the course of the trial when I disagreed vehemently with his rulings,' Garry declared, "but . . . I find Judge Mulvey to be on a much higher level than most of the judges in the U.S., and I have respect for him and I say that without reservations."

Garry had submitted a written motion for dismissal. Attached was an affidavit saying that he believed—"based upon information and belief"—the jury which had reported it was deadlocked Monday actually reached a unanimous verdict of acquittal in Seale's case after only 1¾ hours of deliberations May 19.

But, said Garry, the jury did not know it could report a separate verdict for Seale before reaching a decision in Mrs. Huggins' case, and when discussions began to center on her, one or two jurors who wanted to convict her withdrew their acquittal votes in Seale's case.

Recent Trial

"With the massive publicity attendant upon the trial just completed," Judge Mulvey said in dismissing the case, "I find it impossible to believe that an unbiased jury could be selected without superhuman efforts, efforts which this court, the state and these defendants should not be called upon either to make or to endure."

Seale and Mrs. Huggins each faced two capital charges—kidnaping resulting in death and aiding and abetting murder—plus conspiracy to kidnap and to murder. Mrs. Huggins also was charged with binding with criminal intent.

The charges stemmed from the fatal shooting of Alex Rackley, a 24-year-old Panther from New York whose body was found in a shallow riverbed on May 21, 1969.

The prosecution maintained Rackley was slain on orders from Seale and other Panther

Hacked Up Bodies of 9 Found

YUBA CITY, Calif. (AP) — The bodies of nine transient fruit workers, hacked with a machete or some kind of heavy knife, have been unearthed from the peach and plum orchards of this farming community, the county sheriff announced today.

Sheriff Roy Whiteacre said Juan V. Corona, 37, a farm labor contractor, was arrested shortly before dawn without resistance at a Richland Road home.

"He will be booked for nine counts of murder," the sheriff said of Corona. Whiteacre did not announce an alleged motive for the slayings.

Under Guard

Undersheriff Frank Cartoscelli said all the victims were transient fruit workers, ranging in age from 40 to 60 and that the times of the killings ranged from five or six weeks ago to sometime this week.

Corona was led into the county jail with his head covered by a sweater and coat, his hands manacled behind his back. He was under heavy guard, after his arrest at 768 Richland Road, in south Yuba City.

Two dozen deputies had raided the same house earlier only to find it unoccupied.

The bodies were found—eight Tuesday and one last Friday—in two local fruit orchards.

All were in shallow graves.

"Most of the back of their heads were hacked up, and all were stabbed in the chest area. All were buried the same way," he said.

Uncovered Toe

The first of the discoveries was made last Friday on the farm of Goro Kagehiro, who said he had noticed a hole about two-feet-deep and six-feet-long but thought nothing of it. Then he returned to find the hole filled up and thought someone had buried stolen property.

He called the sheriff's office. In subsequent digging they "uncovered a toe."

The body was identified as that of Kenneth Whitecare, 40, last address Alameda, Calif., across the bay from San Francisco.

At about 1 p.m. Tuesday, on the Jack Sullivan Ranch about a half-mile from the first discovery, a hired hand was working a tractor in a field when he spotted a mound.

Recalling the earlier discovery, he thought it might be a grave. He told foreman Ray Duron, who called the sheriff's office.

The second body was discovered.

Similar Graves

Deputies said in each case the graves on the Sullivan land were about 3½-feet to 5-feet-deep and six-feet-long.

Late Tuesday night deputies dug for bodies beneath auxiliary powered lights in a drizzle briefly turned into a rainstorm. The area was cordoned off to preserve any evidence that might be found.

Yuba City is a farming community of 14,000, about 130 miles northeast of San Francisco.

In a news conference after the arrest, the sheriff said Corona has been in this country for some time but speaks little English. Whiteacre said he had to use an interpreter to communicate with the Mexican-American prisoner.

The sheriff had a terse "no comment" when asked about a double-bladed axe, pruning knife and shovel brought into the jail before Corona was led in.

Whiteacre tentatively identified a second victim of the mass killings. He was Pete Peterson, 63, of nearby Marysville.

$60 Million for Culture Is Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today called on Congress for full funding of the $60 million budget authorization for arts and humanities endowments as an investment in the nation's cultural resources.

"Few investments in the quality of life in America pay off so handsomely as the money spent to stimulate the arts," the President declared in a speech before a conference on "Washington and the Arts."

Listening were some 500 delegates to the conference, representing state and local arts councils throughout the United States and Canada.

Nixon told them he was also sending a memo to the heads of federal departments and agencies asking them to find new ways to "more vigorously assist the arts and artists" and to see how they can be helpful in pursuing agency programs.

The President said he believes "we all can find that the arts have a great deal more to contribute to what we in government are seeking to accomplish —and that this will be good for the arts and good for the country."

Nixon said America could be the richest, most powerful, freest nation in the world "but only if the arts are alive and flourishing can we experience the true meaning of our freedom, and know the full glory of the human spirit."

Australia Ransoms Jet

Claim That Bomb Was Aboard Found To Have Been False

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — An Australian airline turned over $560,000 today to a gang that claimed to have put a barometric bomb on a Boeing 707 jetliner with 116 passengers aboard.

Qantas, Australia's international airline, made the payoff in the center of the city, then was told there was no bomb on the aircraft by an anonymous caller. The plane landed safely at Sydney airport with only five minutes of fuel left in its tanks.

An immediate search of the plane by airport officials confirmed no bomb was aboard the aircraft.

The extortion plot is similar to a movie recently shown on television here called "Doomsday Flight" and police believe it may have given the gang the idea for the in-flight blackmail.

In a similar case last August in Anchorage, Alaska, Western Airlines paid $25,000 for information about a pressure-sensitive bomb which a caller said was aboard one of its jetliners then between Anchorage and Seattle, Wash. with 126 persons aboard.

No Bomb Aboard

No bomb was aboard and a man was later arrested and sentenced to five years in prison for extortion.

"Doomsday Flight" also was shown on Anchorage television shortly before the bomb threat there.

The movie's plot involves a bomb set to explode at 5,000 feet which is slipped aboard a plane. The plane lands at an airport at 5,200 feet elevation to avoid destuction.

The Australian plane landed in Sydney today after circling for 6½ hours while all defense forces and police personnel went on a red alert to deal with the emergency.

House Approves Action Corps

Volunteer Programs Consolidation Wins Decisive Victory

WASHINGTON (AP) — It cost money in the bargaining, but the Nixon administration has won a decisive congressional victory for consolidating federal volunteer programs.

After the three hour debate over Nixon's proposal to merge the Peace Corps, VISTA and several other volunteer agencies into a new Action Corps, the House Tuesday voted 224-131 in favor of the administration plan.

Before the House vote, the administration gave assurances more money would be spent and changes made in the administration of the Action Corps and that the congressional committees now with jurisdiction over volunteer agencies would retain that control.

Effective Program

Liberal House members, led by Rep. Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J., expressed concern during debate that the Nixon plan would "diminish, if not completely eliminate, the effectiveness of the constituent programs.

"Thrown together like so many apples and oranges into one basket, these programs would soon lose their identity and their force," said Thompson.

The primary cause of concern was that the administration was using the merger as a means to eliminate Volunteers in Service to America, the domestic anti-poverty volunteer arm of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Rep. Chet Holifield, chairman of the Government Operations Committee, said the administration, to the contrary, planned to strengthen VISTA by seeking an increase of $12 million in its budget for 1972 to give it $45 million. He said another $8 million would be sought for other domestic VISTA-like programs.

New Ways

When Nixon sent his proposal to Congress on March 24, he said he would combine all the current budgets of the programs involved in the merger and add $20 million to be "directed primarily to finding new ways to use volunteer services."

Critics charged the total budget request for the programs next year came to $120.9 million, some $16 million less than was spent on the programs this year. The additional $20 million, they said, would bring up the total only $4 million.

Rep. Ogden Reid, R-N.Y., said he had been authorized to say the White House will move this weekend to boost the budget request for Peace Corps from its current $72 million to $82 million or $89 million.

"The President has made a personal commitment toward VISTA," said Reid. "He has said he will seek more funds for volunteer programs. Having said this, I believe the President is clearly committed to volunteer programs. I believe the President means what he says."

Holifield also said the administration had changed its organizational chart for Action to give the domestic operation more voice in its operation.

Two Men Hired for Waupaca County Law Enforcement

WAUPACA — The Waupaca County Law Enforcement Committee has hired two new men, one for the county traffic patrol and one for the sheriff's department, to provide 24-hour police protection in the county.

Donald H. Morey, 25, 25, route 2, Iola, was the successful candidate for the traffic patrol. He is a high school graduate and spent 8½ years in the U.S. Navy, receiving his honorable discharge in April of this year.

He has had one year's training in ordinance, is an experienced jet mechanic and has instructor training. He was a reserve deputy with the Shelby County Sheriff's Department in Memphis, Tenn., attended deputy school and spent several years on patrol division duties.

He is married and has two children.

Begins June 1

Capt. John Penney said Morey will begin his duties on June 1. He will live in Iola and be assigned to the Iola area.

Robert J. Andraschko, 29, formerly Weyauwega, has been an officer in the Waupaca Police Department since Jan. 1, 1966. He has had training and experience in fingerprinting, criminal identification, riot control, drug detecton, criminal search and small arms.

Andraschko has 40 hours of credit from the Institute of Applied Science.

He is married and has two children.

Andraschko is expected to join the staff on June 8. For several weeks he will spend time with Investigator Wayne Schroeder, Sheriff Loran Frazier said.

"The addition of another man will assist us in more efficiently disposing of our overload of cases and the handling of an increasing number of new ones," Frazier said.

Assembly Bill Would Kill Rule On Assessing

Coordinators Sought To Train Towns' Elected Officials

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The modest beginning toward county-wide property tax assessment under professional auspices achieved by the legislature two years ago would be cancelled under a bill in the assembly introduced under the names of a group of rural-oriented state representatives.

Reflecting the insistence of the Wisconsin Towns Association upon the retention of the traditional local government assessor system, the new bill would repeal the optional county-wide assessment plan enacted after heavy controversy in 1969.

In its stead, the proposal would authorize a system of county assessment coordinators.

All counties would be directed to name such a functionary who would be empowered to train the local assessors, many of them part-time workers chosen by popular election.

The coordinator could give advice to such local assessors, but only if the assessor requests it. The coordinator would be required to have at least five years of experience as a licensed real estate broker or appraiser.

The Wisconsin Towns Association is now providing a voluntary school service for town assessors which evidently provided the motivation for the county coordinator plan.

The enactment of the authority for county boards to name county assessors at their option was a face-saving compromise by the legislature in 1969 after the state senate had defeated a major recommendation of the former Tarr commission for the improvement of local government that called for the installation of a county assessment program throughout the state.

The measure was strongly pushed by Warren Knowles, then governor.

Since that time not a single county has used the power to set up a professional county assessment system.

Calumet, Fond du Lac Confer With COG on Membership

The top officials of the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) and the counties of Fond du Lac and Calumet met Monday to discuss the possibility of the counties joining the metropolitan planning agency.

More talks are planned on the possible formation of a "Lake Winnebago Regional Council," according to Kaukauna Mayor Gilbert Anderson, COG chairman. "The reaction to the idea of pursuing this was good."

The move is one of many in the struggle of COG and the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission to preserve their existence in the expected planning boundary reshuffle next year.

Officials at Monday's meeting at Combined Locks included Anderson, Eugene Franchett, COG executive director; Gilbert Hipke, Calumet County Board chairman; Roland Tonn, Calumet County planner; Wilbert Halbach, Fond du Lac County Board chairman; and Donald Flanders, Fond du Lac County executive secretary.

"Northeastern is saying these counties have to join it," Anderson said, "and we're giving them an alternative, a very good alternative."

Northeastern is a nine-county rural planning agency whose members include Outagamie and Winnebago while COG is made up of 14 cities, towns and villages in Winnebago, Calumet and Outagamie.

"The next step of the participating members in these talks will be to explore possible benefits to COG members and to Calumet and Fond du Lac counties and their municipalities," Anderson said.

The arrangement would raise questions about whether the federal and state agencies would recognize the planning agency, an important consideration in federal funding. The federal government has indicated that only one agency would be recognized for the three-county metropolitan area.

Rural-Urban Basis

The proposed arrangement would leave Winnebago and Outagamie divided on a generally rural-urban basis in its regional planning.

Anderson said he is confident the arrangement would be acceptable to federal officials, despite the indications that regional planning jurisdictions should be based on county, not municipality, boundaries. He noted that COG is certified by the federal agencies now and Northeastern is not.

The state has made it clear it won't stand for planning jurisdiction overlap which now exists in the two counties. Anderson said this wouldn't exist because the COG municipalities in Winnebago and Outagamie wouldn't contribute to the county boards' allocations for Northeastern.

All but Appleton and the Town of Buchanan in Outagamie have said they favor this no-pay idea. However, the municipalities have no legal control over the county board's budget.

Anderson said the municipalities may have a legal wedge.

The Winnebago County Board recently voted to continue its membership in Northeastern and Outagamie's policy and finance committee will recommend that the board do the same next month.

Anderson said the remaining areas of the two counties and possibly the other four counties in the Lake Winnebago administrative district would be invited to join the Winnebago council group.

The officials at the meeting Monday will go back and confer with other county officials on the proposal, Anderson said.

He said he felt the COG membership would be interested in the new arrangement since they voted recently to delay leaving the organization.

Ludwig Faces 90 Counts

Freedom Tavern Operator's Case Continues Tuesday

Joseph Ludwig, 41, route 1, Kaukauna, the operator of Ludwig's Lanes in Freedom, appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Tuesday on 90 counts of selling beer to minors and permitting them to loiter in his tavern.

County Judge Nick F. Schaefer adjourned the case to Tuesday, to allow Ludwig time to consult an attorney. Ludwig posted $1,000 bond. He waived the reading of the multiple count complaint.

Of the 90 counts, 68 are for selling beer to minors and 22 for permitting them to loiter.

County Sheriff Calvin Spice and Dist. Atty. James Long brought the charges after interviewing over 120 Freedom area young people Monday. According to the complaint, 90 of them admitted under oath to having obtained beer at Ludwig's or being permitted to remain inside over the past year, most of them within the last month. The youths were between 15 and 17.

Spice and Long initiated the investigation after a traffic accident about midnight Saturday on County Trunk E, that claimed the life of Pamela Giesen, 17, route 1, Kaukauna. Authorities said that statements they obtained after the crash indicated that the four occupants of the car, three of them under 18, had been at Ludwig's before the accident.

City, Town Officials Study Sewer Needs

CHILTON — Officials from the City of Chilton and the Town of Charlestown met in a joint session Tuesday to discuss mutual problems of sanitation.

Chilton is most interested in knowing whether it will be asked to handle sewage from the town, which is presently under orders from the Department of Natural Resources to form a sanitary district or to connect to an existing facility.

Many meetings have been held to discuss the issue, according to Town Chairman Clarence Zarnoth, but it still remains a question. "It will have to be up to the people of the township if they want it, he said.

The cost of establishing a sanitary district is minimal, but the cost of operation might be prohibitive for Gravesville, Zarnoth said. Studies and surveys are being made as to disposal requirements of all residents in the town.

City officials pointed out that they would like to know of the town's decision soon, as they are presently undertaking a study as to flow, phosphorous removal and clear water coming into their disposal plant. It must be by August.

52 Taxpayers

There are approximately 52 taxpayers in Gravesville, which would make the cost of installing curb and gutter and sewer very costly. Gravesville alone could not resonably finance a sanitary district. Zarnoth also noted that the DNR frowns on small sanitary districts.

In regard to the recent annexation of the Carnation Plant to the city from the Town of Charlestown, it was noted that the town would be responsible for the taxes it collected from the firm and that such taxes would be prorated as of May 1 and paid to the city. Next May, the property will be on the city tax roll.

The city also will have to assume the resonsibility or refuse pickup at the plant, which the town had been providing.

Cost to the plant for connection to the sanitary sewage plant is not known at this time, awaiting engineering reports as to the most feasible connection. Carnation has until June 15 to comply with state orders for hookup to a sewage system.

Beverly Buhr, left, and Sandra Nordwig have been selected as valedictorian and salutatorian respectively of the Marion High School graduating class. Miss Buhr is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Buhr, Marion, and Miss Nordwig is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Nordwig, star route, Leopolis.

New London Classroom

Students Take Russian Tour

NEW LONDON — Students in the 20th century Russia class at the high school participated in a unique final exam, Tuesday.

The students changed their entire classroom into a display of various phases of Russia and Russian life, and then conducted tours for students in the western civilization class.

"The exam will be based on what the students in 'western civilization' learn from touring the display," instructor Harold Balsiger explained.

All the tables and chairs were removed from the classroom, and large panels arranged to create a traffic flow.

The touring students were greeted at the door by customs officials, and then guided in small groups through the display. Included was a table where with information on membership to the Communist Party and another that featured native foods.

The wall panels depicted native dress; included pictures of top party officials, political cartoons, and geographical and tourists' information. The display was supplimented by material Balsiger acquired on a recent tour of Russia.

A puppet show featured "Peter and the Wolf" and a large wall mural depicted a 1917 political cartoon of communism breaking the chains of the world.

Ten students served as guides and ten others operated the the displays.

Hearing on Crystal River Problem

Rezoning Asked for Boat Landing

WAUPACA — The Waupaca County Zoning Committee held a public hearing Tuesday on the petition of Gordon Doerfler to rezone a nine-acre lot along the Crystal River, Town of Dayton, from residential to commercial, to be used as a landing site for Crystal River boats.

Doerfler told the committee, 32 property owners and area residents attending the hearing that he had purchased the property to solve the problems which have been cited in several meetings during the past year.

For many years he and one other boat livery landed the Crystal River boats at Parfreyville and Little Hope. The Little Hope landing, a narrow piece of land near County Trunk K, created a lot of problems by overflow of boaters onto the highway and is now closed to the liveries.

Crowded on Weekends

At present, they are using the Town of Dayton Park at Parfreyville, which is adequate during week days but crowded during the weekends, when there may be as many as 250 boats from each livery, he said. "By purchasing this land to provide a boat landing down river from Parfreyville, we hope to cut the numbers in half at the two landings."

His plan, he said, is to fence the lot on three land sides and provide a gate to allow a bus to come in and pick up the boaters and a trailer to pick up the boats. Under normal circumstances, the boaters and boat would be picked up within 15 to 20 minutes after completion of the river run, he told the group.

Wallace Wilkening, developer of the subdivision in which Doerfler's lot is located, also spoke in favor of rezoning. He told the committee that when the subdivision was opened it was required that a 125-foot public right-of-way to the Crystal River be established and this access is in Canoeists can use this right-of-way or a private access can be made available on this lot, he said.

Chamber Favors Plan

Fred Mannel, a director of the Waupaca Chamber of Commerce, presented a letter from the Chamber, dated May 25, stating that rezoning of this private access would remove the landing problem from County Trunk K, private lands and the park at Parfreyville.

He said members had thoroughly discussed the problem at the last meeting and felt the rezoning would be a "vast improvement over what we have been doing or are doing today."

A number of property owners had questions and stated their opposition to the rezoning.

Value of Property

Elmer Holman, who owns property to the north of the lot in question, said he thought such rezoning would get the boaters away from some parts of the river and carry the bulk of them into his area.

"If rezoned commercial it would depreciate the value of my property," he said. "I know about the behavior of some of these people, they leave their manners at home and no five or six foot fence will keep them off the adjoining land."

Arden J. Polly asked Doerfler how many boats would run on weekends and said he took a dim view of having more people over there. He also asked if there were plans to widen Parfreyville Road.

Doerfler explained that the number depends on the weather, and said that when boaters landed at Little Hope, many wanted to swim at the dam or visit the park, which delayed bus loading. He said he expected no delays at the proposed landing.

Gordon Hansen, property owner upstream from the proposed site, asked what permits

Police said Fox Valley Lutheran was entered through a rear basement door From there, intruders walked to the front of the school where they knocked a door knob off a locked office door. Once inside the office, burglars smashed the glass out of another office door and went inside.

Athletes at Clintonville Cited

CLINTONVILLE — The Clintonville Quarterback club, rounding out its first year of activity, sponsored a dinner Monday night to honor all athletic participants at the Clintonville Senior High School and freshmen of the junior high school.

Featured speaker was John Jardine, head football coach of the University of Wisconsin. He was accompanied by Stan Kemp, freshmen coach.

After the dinner in the school cafeteria, the more than 400 persons who attended moved to the junior high auditorium where esch of the coaches briefly outlined the year's activities under his guidance, and named outstanding participants and discussed prospects for next year.

In addition to the traditional major awards presented, each one of the seniors who was a member of the Lettermen's club was presented with a plaque with his athletic activities engraved upon it.

Former Football Coach T. D. (Tony) Ellis, who is teaching his final year in Clintonville and is retiring, was presented with a life-time pass for all school activities.

Officers of the Quarterback club are Jack Kelly, president; John Heidersheid, vice president; Charles Hamilton, secretary, and Tom Kenfield, treasurer. New officers will be elected June 15 to take over in the fall.

The club, in addition to providing backing for all athletic teams, has purchased a Tack-L-Matic football tackling dummy and is considering buying other equipment which will assist in physical conditioning for all athletics.

John Heidersheid was chairman for the dinner Robert Dennison and Carl Bruggink were co-chairmen of arrangements, and the food was served by the Truckerettes.

Jardine had some words of praise for the manner in which the athletes were honored. In some schools, he said that there is pressure to get the recognition of the athletes over with, and get on to the speaker and program. He said, "I feel that you are doing it right here . . . These boys and girls give enough time and effort through the school year so that, in my opinion, their recognition should not be hurried."

Jardine had some words of advice not only to the athletes, but also for the parents suggesting they augment their role as providers with such intangibles as encouragement and counseling, as the young people face situations which are not always the way they would like them to be, and as they learn to grow to live with others and make individual adaptations to benefit the team.

Give and Take

He suggested that a large factor in the difficulty of human relations in the changing world is the result of lack of communication. He recommended a "give-and-take" in communication between parents and young people, and suggested that parents be ardent listeners.

Jardine said that he believed an athletic program at all levels is a part of the greatness of America, and he added, "You are not a sissy to be patriotic — to respect or flag and to sing our National Anthem with fervor."

Jardine also pointed out that, especially on the college level, the young people active in sports, are not the ones to desecrate the flag, fire-bomb buildings, burn their draft cards or turn to drugs.

Earlier in his talk, Jardine said, "Let me thank the City of Clintonville for sending us its Todd Nordwig. He had an outstanding record as a freshman, both on and off the field, and may well be part of some important accomplishments on the Badger squad in the coming season."

The Lettermen seniors who received the plaques are Brian P. Dunlavy, Tom Carrick, John Jartz, Douglas A. Moldenhauer, John P. Christman, Tom Fox, Charles "Jeff" Gretzinger Timothy Kent Krause, Craig W. LeBeau, Richard Jobe, Cal Kasper, Michael J. Mahnke, Randall M. Nelson, Dan Kelly, Mark E. Heideman, Charles R. Grant and John Schellinger.

The Rev. Daniel H. Stahmer, D.D., minister of the United Methodist Church, gave the invocation. Sherwood Lorenz was the master of ceremonies.

Lawyers Push for New Police Station

Labeling present facilities deplorably unsatisfactory and inadequate," the Outagamie County Bar Association Tuesday gave almost unanimous approval to a resolution calling for the immediate providing of new quarters for the Appleton Police Department.

There was only one dissenting voice on a vote during the associations monthly meeting.

The resolution, introduced by attorney Dennis Herrling, was forwarded to Mayor George Buckley and the City Council.

John O'Connell, an attorney and recently retired agent for the FBI, told the association he has been in many police stations and added, "I'm totally ashamed of what we have in Appleton."

Gordon Myse advised that "there is nothing more important to a community than effective law enforcement, which requires competent officers and facilities enabling them to do their jobs effectively."

Myse further advised, "whatever needs to be done can't be studied to death for five years."

Work Difficult

Dist. Atty. James R. Long said adverse working conditions in the station, including a lack of privacy, make it difficult for police to work effectively.

There was only token criticism to the resolution. Although he did not question the need for improved police quarters, Judge Urban P. Van Susteren wondered if, in light of other city needs, the associaton should tag such a high priority on a new station.

Patrick F. Coughlin was elected bar president Tuesday, succeeding Don R. Herrling. Other new officers, all elected by a single unanimous ballot, were Hugh F. Nelson, vice president, and Phillip F. Schlicting, secretary-treasurer.

Rezoning Sought for Crystal River Landing

would be required if Doerfler did any digging in the Crystal River, and who would pay for the work.

He was told that a zoning permit and a Department of Natural Resources permit would be required for digging and that Doerfler would pay the total cost of his private landing and the Town of Dayton for the public landing.

Other Concerns

Among other concerns expressed were confining the boaters to the landing site, keeping them from trespassing on provate lands, if they would use the public access and if there would be a public telephone, toilet facilities and any buildings constructed on the land if it were zoned commercial.

Randy Waltz, owner of Edmunds Boat Livery, told the committee that he and Doerfler were trying to satisfy everyone as best they could. "If the river is closed down or restricted, it means that it would be closed and restricted for everybody," he said

A number of persons informally endorsed continuing the Crystal River boat trips which "have been a drawing card to the area for more than 70 years."

Doerfler said he would install a telephone this summer if it is available and would provide toilet facilities if the public feels they are needed.

Chairman Harold Steenbock said that the zoning committee would make a decision as soon as Supv. Carl Much has heard the hearing tape. The zoning committee's decision then goes to the Waupaca County Board for action, hopefully, at the board's June 8 meeting.

Firefighter Asks Buddies for Help

FOREST JUNCTION — Firemen were summoned to the farm of one of their fellow firefighters about 5:30 p.m. Monday, only four hours after they and he had returned from a false alarm.

Maynard Stanelle, fireman from route 1, Brillion, lit material from a razed machine shed only to have the fire burn out of control and ignite a nearby granery wall.

He thought "the wind was right." But not so — it switched slightly.
